Celebrate Joys of Easter

ALTHOUGH EASTER is primarily a religious holiday, children look forward to it every year as a time of Easter bunnies and egg hunts.

Churches Plan Services

by JUDY MORRIS

"Christ is risen!" This joyful cry will be sung and spoken many times this weekend as local churches celebrate Easter with special services.

The young people of four area churches will present a cooperative Easter sunrise service at the First Presbyterian Church of Itasca.

Other churches participating in the sunrise celebration are Bethany United Methodist Church, Itasca; St. Matthews Lutheran Church, Itasca; and the Bensenville Presbyterian Community Church.

The 7 a.m. service will be followed by a pancake breakfast. Donations are $1.

The Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, Bensenville, will hold a Good Friday meditation service tonight at 7:30.

GRACE LUTHERAN Church, Bensenville, will hold a Good Friday service at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Erling A. Jacobson will present a sermon titled "The Empty Cross."

A cross fashioned from the main trunk of a Christmas tree will be displayed at the service. Banked with flowers, it is designed to emphasize the close relationship between the Incarnation, Crucifixion and Resurrection of Christ.

The church also will hold an Easter sunrise service at 6:30 a.m. with Easter festival services at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m.

The Bensenville Presbyterian Community Church will observe Good Friday tonight with an 8 p.m. service. Laymen Tom Farr and Ron Ferguson will present meditations on the Crucifixion.

The Community Church will participate in the joint sunrise service and breakfast. An Easter service will be held at 11 a.m.

Good Friday will be depicted musically in an 8 p.m. service presented by the choir of the First Presbyterian Church of Itasca. The choir will sing the cantata, "The Seven Last Words."

EASTER SERVICES will be conducted at the church at 9:45 and 11 a.m.

Members of the Roselle United Methodist Church will greet Easter morning with a 6 a.m. sunrise service. After the service, breakfast will be served by the Methodist Men's Club. Easter services will be held at 8, 9:30 and 11 a.m.

Easter will be celebrated at the Medinah Baptist Church with a 7 a.m. sunrise service featuring a guest speaker, Pete Schwalm will discuss his experiences with the office of World Wide Evangelism in Depth.

The sunrise service will be followed by a breakfast. Emphasis at worship services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. will be the Resurrection story told by Pastor Donald Hamman.

SIX ADDISON churches will observe Good Friday today with a community worship service held at the United Presbyterian Church. The 1 p.m. service will center on the seven parts of the "Passion of our Lord."

The Addison United Presbyterian Church will hold Easter services at 8 and 10 a.m. Sunday.

Two Townships Approve Budgets

The annual town meetings in Addison and Bloomingdale Townships proved again to be somewhat less popular than a Beatie concert in Yankee Stadium or even a Little League baseball game.

About one out of every 1,000 persons in the two townships with a combined population of about 100,000 showed up Tuesday night to pass town and road budgets.

The estimated 100 persons voted on combined proposals totaling about $1 million.

In Bloomingdale Township, approximately 65 persons were on hand in the Bloomingdale Central School gym to witness a test of party politics between the winning and losing candidates.

Salary hikes for Bloomingdale Township officials were included in the approval of the $105,520 town fund.

The general assistance (relief) fund is $42,250 which includes such items as food, rent, clothing and medical care for needy persons. A total $8900 was approved for the Illinois Municipal Retirement fund for township employees.

The road and bridge fund totaled $170,100 for such items as tree removal and construction and maintenance of roads. The permanent hard road fund for maintenance was set at $113,000. Another $38,000 was marked for the construction or repair of bridges at the joint expense of the county.

In Addison Township, the town meeting was less boisterous with fewer outbursts and more decorum than at Bloomingdale. About 45 township electors turned out to vote in a total town fund of about $191,000.

The drop in the general assistance fund from about $215,000 last fiscal year to about $178,000 was also approved.

The township and road budgets cover fiscal years starting March 25, 1969 and ending March 30, 1970.

Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund was set at $11,500.

About the total road fund was approved at $362,000. The special hard road fund gets about $13,000. Another $60,000 is slated for construction or repair of bridges at the joint expense of the county.

An expensive item in the road fund is oiling of roads which is about $80,000. Construction of roads is estimated to cost $29,000 while the maintenance of roads is about $200,000.

Rossi To Get Recount

by RICHARD BARTON

Edward Rossi, Democratic loser in Bloomingdale Township's supervisor race, filed a discovery petition yesterday afternoon to get a recount of Tuesday's ballots.

He lost by only 13 votes in the 3,700 vote contest.

Republicans swept all contests in both

Addison and Bloomingdale Township over Democrats and non-partisans.

Rossi's formal request for a recount was filed with the township clerk's office.

According to Chapter Six of the Handbook for Illinois Township Officers, within five days after the declaration of the results of an election, any candidate who received at least 95 per cent as many votes as the successful candidate may petition the town clerk for recount of certain precincts or districts.

THE FEE is $5 per precinct.

THE TOWN CLERK reconvenes the canvassing board with a three-day notice to the successful candidate. The board recounts the ballots.

"The result of this discovery is not to be certified, not to affect the prior canvass, nor is it binding on any election contest, nor is it any prerequisite to such a contest," the handbook states.

Rossi therefore cannot gain election from this recount action since the original canvass held Wednesday morning has already been finalized.

The canvass board members are incumbent officials.

Results remained the same in Rossi's race, according to the canvass, but changed the count in other races. The election was not affected to any major extent.

Any further attempts to change the results of the supervisor's race will have to be handled through court action.

Atty. Herbert Loftus of Addison drew up the petition.

"THE CANVASS WAS handled privately," Robert Burt, defeat Democratic candidate for town clerk, said.

"They are running the township like a private club and this has to be stopped."

Burt claimed the Democrats had requested to be informed of the canvass meeting, but weren't.

Burt lost his bid for election to Republican incumbent Leonard Norberg by about 400 votes. Norberg totaled over 2,000.

In Addison Township, Republicans Elbert Droegemuller of Itasca and Donald Prindle of north Elmhurst won easily over Democrats Sid Ceaser of Bensenville and Harry Bendtsen Jr. of Wood Dale.

Droegemuller totaled 3,318 votes; Prindle, 3,156; Ceaser, 2,243, and Bendtsen, 2,187.

Republican Town Clerk Robert Mittel of Wood Dale had a vote of 2,789 which carried him to victory over Democrat Joyce M. Kessler of Addison with 1,904 and non-

5 Car Crash On Ill. 53

One man was hospitalized and a woman treated and released at St. Alexius Wednesday afternoon after a five-car accident on Illinois 53 between Bryn Mawr and Ardmore Street, Itasca.

Itasca police said Roy J. White, 49, of Elmhurst, will be charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, carrying open liquor in his vehicle and driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

White is in satisfactory condition with a fractured arm.

According to police reports, White's car started a chain reaction of rear-end collisions with four other cars stopped in traffic.

Also injured was Teena J. Caliendo, 21, of Stone Park. She was treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Miss Caliendo was driving the car hit by White's car. Her car was undrivable.

Also slightly injured were the drivers of the three other cars. They were Gloria A.

Carlburg, 24, of Elmwood Park; Thomas E. Sweda, 34, of Lombard, and Victor Ghilardi, 49 of Lombard.

The last three cars in the chain reaction accident were drivable.

New Auditors to Get $10 More per Month

Voters in Bloomingdale and Addison Townships Tuesday at the annual town meeting approved $10-a-month pay increases for newly-elected auditors.

John Radov, Robert Dixon, and Clarence Benisek of Bloomingdale Township and Wallace Hartman, George Preston, and John Browne of Addison Township all received increases from $15 to $25 for each of the 12 meetings they attended as members of the board of auditors.

Help for Aged

by TOM JACHIMEC

It is easy for the elderly to be overlooked in the suburbs, especially when most activities are oriented to youths and adults.

June Landmeier of Des Plaines felt just about the same way years ago, spending her time working with young people. Since 1962, however, she has been devoting her time to the older generation, known as senior citizens.

A former recreation director at the Bensenville Home, she has been instrumental in starting seven Golden Fellowship groups for the elderly in the Chicago area.

"I worked with young people for many years," said Miss Landmeier, "and saw the need for a group for the elderly. Some were dropping out of the mainstream of life, and this disturbed me. I began to work with this age group and fell in love with it."

The Golden Fellowship in Bensenville meets the third Thursday of every month at one of four churches — Peace, Immanuel, St. John's, and United Methodist.

On the fourth Thursday of the month an outing usually is planned, Miss Landmeier said.

On May 15 and 16, the group is going to a tulip festival in Holland, Mich. Only a handful of members from Bensenville will make the trip, but they'll be joined by persons from other communities, she said.

The Bensenville group's next meeting will be at 11 a.m., April 17, at Immanuel Church. A representative of WTTW television will present a slide show and talk about the station's annual auction.

A high school choir from Fenton High will perform at the April 24 meeting at United Methodist Church.

$66,100 Post Office Planned For Addison

The U. S. Post Office Department is planning to build a $66,100 post office at the northwest corner of Church Street and Lincoln Avenue in Addison, according to Finley McGrew, a spokesman for U. S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Elmhurst. McGrew said he did not know when construction would begin.

Annex Draft Under Way

A pre-annexation agreement is being drafted for concurrence by Fenton High School Dist. 100 and the Village of Wood Dale for annexation of a high school site immediately east of the present junior high tract on North Wood Dale Road.

William Redmond and Samuel La Sosa, attorneys for the two taxing bodies, are preparing the pre-annexation agreement which would bring the land parcels within the corporate boundaries of Wood Dale.

Council members already have given the go-ahead to La Sosa to incorporate into the agreement provisions for requested water and sewer facilities, and the waiving of annexation and all other building fees.

Fenton board members had indicated their desire to obtain "an absolute guarantee" that the village would provide adequate sewer and water facilities to the north or west property line "when needed by the time construction starts on a high school building."

Village officials, however, are suggesting a "minimum guarantee" calling for a time limit of one year from signing of the ordinance for installation of the sewer and water facilities.

Village Beat

Room for Thought

by SYD JAMIESON

The Wood Dale village manager screening committee last month approved with reluctance a recommendation to go along with the wishes of the village council on the employment of a village administrator.

The qualified endorsement was followed by another committee recommendation that the council call an immediate referendum for the establishment of a village-manager council form of government.

Voters are well aware that the April, 1967 referendum on the managerial form of government won by a 2-1 margin but has now been declared invalid.

The committee, by reiterating its previous recommendation for a referendum, has endeavored to apprise officials that village manager candidates have bluntly expressed disfavor on being hired under existing provisions.

THE VILLAGE had a village manager ordinance, now changed to village administrator. Candidates for village manager, however, preferred to have their jobs established by referendum, giving them more power than if established by ordinance.

For one thing if established by referendum, it would take another referendum to repeal that which has already been established, providing there was no contest on validity of the election as experienced in 1967.

A favorable vote of the people would also keep the managerial form of government under a more stable tenure than that dictated by the ordinance passed by the council.

The complete switch by the council recently to amend its present ordinance by simply replacing the title of "village manager" for that of "village administrator," has not provided the implementation desired by the screening committee.

SUCH ACTION MAY have expedited

employment of a qualified individual to take care of a multitude of duties now confronted by the council members, but it does not appear the council is relinquishing much by sanctioning the recruitment of a village administrator.

An ordinance can be rescinded or repealed with a majority vote of the commissioners. Under a referendum it is not that easy.

Meanwhile, the screening committee has given the council more room for thought in other areas — particularly to a possible changeover from Wood Dale's outdated commission form of government.

A village board of trustees with staggered terms of office for elected officials has been suggested as compared to the single four-year term now experienced for all commissioners.

Some committee members suggest that if the commission form is to remain, then the council should be expanded to perhaps seven commissioners and a mayor to keep abreast of Wood Dale's burgeoning population.

THESE WERE SOME of the ideas spelled out at a special joint meeting between the council and the committee called by Mayor Hansen on March 17.

The interest of the commissioners was so high that none showed up to hear what the committee had to say.

Only Hansen made it a point to meet with the advisory group.

Maybe the citizenry should petition for a new referendum on the managerial form of government and let the chips fall where they may.

They spoke once before on the question and only because of a legal technicality was the referendum declared invalid.

If the referendum had been valid, it would have replaced the ordinance and provided the screening committee with more ammunition in recruiting qualified candidates.

Detention Home Plans Told

Preliminary plans for DuPage County's last juvenile detention home were revealed Wednesday with an estimated cost of $1,617,000.

The home is designed to house 30 youths with recreation, psychological care and other care facilities for an average stay of from 1 to 10 days.

An architectural firm is preparing an early part report for presentation to the DuPage County Board of Supervisors' acceptance.

The ultimate home would house 60 youths. Plans provide for the addition of two 15-unit wings without any addition to other facilities. The addition is expected to be needed within two or three years, after completion of the home.

Groundbreaking for the home is slated for Sept. 1.

THE HOME GROUNDS would be located in a corner of a massive county complex planned near Manchester and County Farm roads, west of Wheaton.

According to DuPage County Juvenile Court Magistrate Robert Nolan, if the home were open now there would be about 10 to 15 children in it.

He added that the peak time of 20 youths requiring detention comes in early summer.

Youths presently are being lodged in private homes and institutions, detention homes in other counties and sometimes in the DuPage County jail.

After the home's maximum capacity of 60 is reached, another home would have to be built, according to plans. "That would probably come within seven to ten years," Nolan said. "Anything after that estimate would be too much guess-work on my part."

Nolan said the percentage of girls held in detention in DuPage County is increasing.

"Formerly more boys were being held, but with the recent surge of drug abuse and other crimes, girls are being arrested more frequently," he said.

The detention home is planned for an equal number of girls and boys in the first construction and in the proposed additions. Each of the four ultimate wings would house 15 youths.

Senate OKs Fast MFT Pay Return

The Illinois Senate last week passed and sent to the House a bill authored by State Sen. Jack T. Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst, providing for the return of Motor Fuel Tax funds to municipalities and counties as soon as practical after collection.

Knuepfer's bill, inspired by the Local Government Commission, of which he is co-chairman, would assist municipalities and counties by providing for the immediate return of MFT funds.

AT PRESENT, these funds are deposited in the state treasury for periods as long as two or three years until such time as specific municipal projects are approved.

The state's revenue from these funds which have been invested, amounts to some eight million dollars per year.

This revenue would accrue to local governments rather than state government and provide them with additional funds to further improve roads within their boundaries, if the bill is adopted.

Marine Cited for Valor

A 21-year-old Addison man has been awarded the Silver Star medal for valor in combat in Vietnam.

Eugene Jarrell was also promoted to lance corporal after being given the medal recently by Maj. Gen. Ormand Simpson, commander of the 1st Marine Division in Vietnam.

Jarrell was a member of a nine-man reconnaissance patrol landed by helicopter to locate Communist mortar positions, according to United Press International (UPI) reports.

The team drew heavy fire seconds after scampering out of the chopper. A medical evacuation helicopter approached to lift a wounded marine out of the area, and Jarrell provided cover fire with his machine-gun.

According to the UPI, when the weapon jammed, he grabbed the wounded man's rifle, but it was shot out of his hands.

JARRELL SNATCHED a grenade launcher and ran through the landing zone blasting at the North Vietnamese positions until the marine was evacuated. Then he scurried through heavy fire to aid a wounded corpsman.

Shielding the corpsman with his body, Jarrell bandaged his wounds. A tracer round skimmed past Jarrell's eyes, causing partial blindness.

He refused to be evacuated until the entire patrol was lifted out the next morning.

Sewer Job Nears Approval Stage

Final drafts of agreement between Itasca and Central Manufacturing District for a proposed Prospect-Thorndale sewer project slated to get under way this summer neared the signing stage this week.

Robert Bremer, attorney for CMD, presented the agreement documents to the village board Wednesday night.

He cautioned village officials that extended delays in executing the proposed ordinance would create possible problems in the start of construction estimated to get under way in March.

The $800,000 project from Prospect north to Thorndale and west to I-55 expressway has been under negotiation since last September.

PAT SAVAIANO

by HEC

An unprecedented personal Democratic campaign in Bloomingdale Township waged by Ed Rossi to unseat Pat Savaiano on the county board fell short of success by 13 votes in Tuesday's election, a margin of 1,043 to 1,030.

Rossi said he gave it all he had, spent his own funds for his campaign and relied on Democratic county support which was promised but never came.

Meanwhile in Addison Township where a split in the GOP organization made it a three-way race, the Democrats managed a very long second place with the regular Republicans out front by a comfortable margin.

IN BLOOMINGDALE Township race, courthouse GOP people agree that a 13 vote difference justifies a recount. This is what Rossi would like to accomplish but only has three days to do it, hasn't the funds and his party chairman is out of the county visiting the West Coast.

There were irregularities in this election, the defeated Democratic candidate says with many new, inexperienced judges manning the polls for the first time. He further contends that a record-breaking split ballot voting makes "honest errors" more than just a possibility.

What's in the cards? William A. Redmond, attorney and county Democratic chairman was not due home until Thursday night. There's still one day left to contest. For this reason we look for a challenge in Bloomingdale Township because it will enable Democrats to turn the searchlight on the whole DuPage County election operation in full dress publicity.

But even more than this the Democrats are claiming a "stacked deck" in the conduct of the Bloomingdale Township budget hearing where they say steam-roller tactics and interruptions by Republicans officials brought disorder in an attempt to learn about the new budget spending.

THIS GANGUP, Democrats say, with about 75 electors present to approve or reject, choked off an attempt to question the increase in the clerk's and supervisor's salaries which had been written into the new budget.

They say Fred Lewis, the moderator, defeated by Savaiano in the caucus, was overwhelmed and four attempts to get a correct vote failed.

"Not one of the Republican officials seemed to know how to count a vote," Rossi says.

HE INFERRED there were more Democratic votes present than Republican and hinted he may try to get this meeting challenged in the courts.

He's got a good case, he says, because it's a vote to spend taxpayer's money the legality of which he questions.

The vote in question was a 34 to 32 tally with about 10 people standing in the center aisle refusing to participate. The Republicans and Democrats were lined up on either side but enumeration became foggy, it is said, after the count hit 30. This is why the legality is questioned.

But Savaiano calls his victory clean-cut and a result of hard campaigning and good organization.

"THE VOTE," Savaiano says, "was far closer than we had expected but we are sure it will stand up." Three factors — apathy, dissension and defection — stemming from the Altieri-Ogilvie contest last spring, he says, is responsible for the strong Democratic bid Tuesday. Since the party caucus last winter when attempts to unseat Savaiano as party leader failed, there has been increased dissension and, in this election, defection.

Savaiano is an Ogilvie leader in the county and he says the traditional GOP conservatives are providing more opposition than the Democrats.

But despite some noteworthy defections Tuesday with Republicans reluctantly riding on a donkey for the first time, the township GOP kept its cool.

The winning candidate got his major support from the northern part of the township where his opposition was strongest while the Democratic opponent carried the southern area. Both won their own precincts. But both lament the public apathy which brought out only 23 per cent of the voters.

IN ADDISON Township, it is generally agreed that the Democrats blew an opportunity they will not enjoy again in the foreseeable future. The Republicans say an "amateurish Democratic leadership" helped them win handily Tuesday in what in the beginning was feared to be an unpredictable situation.

The Addison Young Republicans are credited by Pat Durante, retiring president, with beating the bushes during the final week to flush out voters for the township regular Republican candidates.

He said they rang doorbells all over the township and believes this accounts in a big way for the Reinecke ticket winding up in third place.

But there is another angle in this assessor race in Addison Township which was in fact nothing more than a Republican popularity contest with all three wearing a GOP label after the prize.

THIS IS TRUE because the three candidates are all registered as Republicans. So the Democrats were not at heart really in this assessor race.

It was entirely a cinch GOP affair.

Wilbur Bredehorn who made the successful bid for assessor claims he won because he's well known throughout the township. But even more, he says, he had an organized campaign going and says he didn't see how he could miss.

Reinecke, the defeated candidate, could not be reached for comment but his was a personal campaign and conducted out of pocket and from any donations he could get. Further, he had no candidates for the county board at the top of the ticket. This was a weakness because popular candidates for these spots in crucial areas could not have helped but boost his vote.

As the vote stands Bredehorn 2,475; Chody 1,767; Reinecke 1,577; it has to be conceded that a organized Republican conservatism won in Addison Township. Signs are also up saying that if any changes are needed they must take place within the framework of GOP ideology.

The Addison victory was a request for an Ogilvie leaning Republican Politics while in Bloomingdale Township the success points in the direction of the new Ogilvie Republicanism now opening practice in this state and gaining support everywhere.

Even so, the GOP voters were lagging Tuesday. In Lisle where Pat Riedy ran into some opposition in the name of Joe Tumpach Democracy only 10 per cent voted, likewise in Naperville Township.

MILTON TOWNSHIP, the home of Jerry Weeks, challenger of Paul Ronske for county board chairmanship, only 15 per cent of an affluent electorate bothered to go to the polls.

Wesley Casper, high vote getter in York Township and chairman of the county board watchdog purchasing committee, brushes off the Democrats by saying they were "negligible" and realized they could do better by staying in bed on election day.

Frantz Seeking U.S. Aid

Robert Frantz, Roselle village president, recently made a trip to Washington, D.C., where he conferred with U.S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Elmhurst, about a federal reimbursement grant for the new addition to the sewage treatment plant.

Frantz is seeking a grant of about $50,000 for the $150,000 addition to the plant at 719 S. Rush St.

Frantz said the addition was constructed in full compliance with federal standards, making it eligible for a grant. He said Erlenborn was instrumental in obtaining a similar grant for Itasca last year.

Frantz said he would have to work through individual state agencies to obtain the grant.

partisan Erhardt Weidmann of Wood Dale with 1,124.

ITASCAN Wilbur Bredehorn with 2,475 votes, won his assessor slot from incumbent non-partisan Carl Reinecke who also got fewer votes than the Democrat Robert Chody.

Republican town auditors Wallace Hartman of Bensenville, George Preston of Itasca and John Browne of North Elmhurst won their position by nearly 600 votes each over the Democrats and 2 to 1 margins over the non-partisans.

In Bloomingdale Township, Republican Donald Jack Wall of Bloomingdale passed his Democratic opponent Dean Henrickson of Roselle by about 600 votes with his total of over 2,000.

Incumbent George Sim Jr. of Roselle swamped Democrat Richard Horneck of Bloomingdale by about 900 votes.

John Radov of Roselle and Robert Dixon of Carol Stream were reelected as town auditors. Clarence Benisek of Glendale Heights won the third auditor position. They are all Republicans.

DEMOCRATIC opposition for town auditors came from Norman Ziel of Medinah, George Poczekaj of Carol Stream, and Robert Hollowed of Itasca who all totaled about 1,500 votes each.

Township elections turned out the usual light to moderate vote count running from about 10 to 15 per cent of the potential voters.

Itasca precincts were some of the better ones, according to Droegemueller.

He said many of them turned out about 50 per cent.

He conceded that even that was not as good as it should be in a Democratic process, not party nation.

'Learn to Swim' For Adults Set

An intensive five day "Learn to Swim" course for adults will be offered by the Elmhurst YMCA this Monday through Friday. Bill Bell, physical director, has reported. The class will meet from 8 to 9 p.m. for non-members and non-swimmers.

"Many adults drown needlessly because they panic if thrown out of a boat. Today, when so many of our recreation facilities center around boating, fishing or swimming, there is no excuse for an adult drowning," Bell said.

The week-long class will concentrate on overcoming fear of the water, "drown-proofing" and basic swim strokes.

FEAR OF WATER is due to many unpleasant experiences as a child. To reassure those who have not conquered this fear many new teaching techniques are available today and used at the 'Y', Bell said.

The water temperature at the 'Y' pool is kept at 76 degrees and the water at 80 degrees so that learning to swim is not a teeth-chattering ordeal. Bell pointed out.

Cost of the series of lessons is $7.50. Registrations should be completed now at the Elmhurst YMCA, 211 W. First St.

Itasca Police Cases Decreased In March

Itasca police handled 12 accidents, one attempted suicide, one assault and battery and three cases of vandalism last month.

They also investigated one prowler call, three thefts of which two were over $50, one unlawful use of a weapon and one stolen bike complaint.

There were 116 citations issued — 85 for moving violations and 31 for non-moving. Four were issued for driving while intoxicated.

The number of citations decreased from the February total of 140. However, more tickets were issued for moving violations in March. The February total for moving violations was 70.

Red Cross Offers First Aid Course

The Mid-America Chapter, American Red Cross, will offer a first aid seminar to employers, business firms, and organizations located in DuPage County.

The chapter's volunteer industrial first aid chairman said the seminar will consist of a series of all-day meetings to be held one day a week for five consecutive weeks at the Glen Ellyn Savings and Loan, 444 Main St., Glen Ellyn, beginning next Thursday at 9 a.m.

Employers may send any number of employees. According to Joseph Stech, manager of the Greater Chicago Safety Council, "Employees who are properly trained in first aid procedures can perform two profitable jobs for an employer."

"THEY CAN meet emergencies with sensible, approved action and they can be informal leaders, helping other workers to become more safety conscious."

"Red Cross first aid training can help reduce the time an employee is away from his job, and may prevent a minor injury from becoming a major disability with lost time."

Subjects to be covered include artificial respiration, emergency bandaging and first aid, and care of the accident victim until the doctor arrives.

DuPage College Has Library Job Training

College of DuPage is now offering a two-year library technical assistant program designed for persons wanting a career in library work.

Libraries, like schools, suffer a chronic shortage of qualified personnel, according to Con C. Patsavas, dean of arts at College of DuPage.

The library technical assistant program, developed in cooperation with representatives of school, public, and special libraries and the American Library Association, is designed to train personnel to perform clerical and subprofessional tasks in all types of libraries.

According to Patsavas, the College of DuPage program, which leads to an associate in arts degree, provides basic knowledge of routines and techniques relating to circulation, acquisition, and technical processing of both book and non-book materials. It also provides training in basic and special clerical skills.

TRAINING INCLUDES classroom instruction, laboratory sessions, demonstrations, and field trips. Students may enter the program any quarter, and both day and evening classes are available.

Persons wanting more information about the library technical assistant program can contact Patsavas at the college's Glen Hill facility, 799 Roosevelt Road, Glen Ellyn, telephone 859-2130.

Mary Berry to Review 'The Immortal Piano'

"The Immortal Piano," the story of the long search for an ornately decorated piano made from the pillars of Solomon's Temple, will be reviewed by Mary Berry at the Elgin Young Women's Christian Association 'coffee' on April 18 at 9:30 a.m. in the Elgin Room.

The authors, Avner and Hannah Carmi, have written an exciting account of the many years they spent in pursuit of this fascinating instrument which could produce the high, tonal characteristics of the harpsichord as well as the deep, vibrant notes of the concert grand.

THE 'YW' SPONSORED 'coffee' is open to the public and baby sitting facilities will be provided for pre-school children at the 'YW,' according to Mrs. Edward Brubaker, 'YW' committee member handling arrangements.

There is no charge for attending, and women throughout the area are invited to attend.

The Way We See It

I-90: Boon Highway

A $4.2 million contract will be awarded next Friday for construction on Interstate 90, the first of nearly $40 million in work scheduled to be awarded on the thoroughfare before year's end.

The contract will be to extend I-90 south from its present terminus at Golf Road to Higgins Road. A second contract, to push the highway south to the Cook-DuPage line, is to be let May 23.

At the opposite end of the thoroughfare, a massive interchange south of Bensenville will be awarded May 6 at a cost estimated at $11.5 million. Construction, if it begins before summer, would not be completed until the fall of 1970.

The Illinois division of highways will begin to flesh out the remaining segments of I-90, curving northwesterly from Wood Dale Road to Itasca and Illinois Hwy. 53, and contracts for the entire project are supposed to be awarded by November.

When completed, the highway will have the effect of unifying the Northwest and West suburbs and giving the motorists of these two areas a major new traffic route into Chicago. This vital link will have a major impact on the development of North DuPage County and on the commuting and shopping habits of many northwest suburbanites.

The Northwest Cook County portions of the expressway appear to be well ahead of the DuPage stretch in planning and contracting. While any major progress on I-90 will be greeted with enthusiasm, the usefulness of the road for commuting will be largely lost unless the entire road is ready for opening at approximately the same time.

Major emphasis is being placed on I-90 by both districts of the highway division, and this is fully merited. While preliminaries — location of the highway and acquisition of land — have taken a long period of years, obstacles to fast completion of I-90 now seem largely mechanical.

It is our hope that when the south Bensenville interchange opens in the fall of 1970, motorists will be able to travel along it at high speeds from Lake County to the Loop. I-90 holds great promise and great potential for the Northwest Suburbs, and speedy completion of the planned sections is essential.

But Don't Forget the Pants!

News? Whose?

by CLIFFORD G. ROWE
Asst. Managing Editor

My goodness, we certainly did it this time.

In case you missed it (and if you did, you can claim minority status), we ran a story about and a couple pictures of women modeling lingerie for businessmen lunching at one of our local restaurants.

WE HAVE BEEN soundly criticized, and well we should have been.

In the first place, to suggest that a suburban business establishment would capitalize on such a base instinct as sex is unthinkable.

Secondly, that area businessmen would want something with their salad besides Thousand Islands, even if nothing more than false hope, is ridiculous.

And even if they did, that a suburban newspaper would take it upon itself to report such an incident is downright shameful.

LEAVE SUCH REPORTING as that to the news magazines, the dirty downtown dailies and others who would try to make the suburbs appear as something other than they are!

We will portray it as we know it really is. Nothing objectionable, nothing embarrassing, nothing loud, nothing distasteful, nothing out of character, as we conceive our character to be.

If the suburban housewives want to march around the luncheon table in their nightgowns, let them. We won't say a word.

If the local homeowners association wants to put on a talent show which might prove embarrassing — either in content or costume — to my 5-year-old son, we won't say anything about it either.

If the PTA wants to put on a program of kindergarten students singing Christmas music (Lord knows, that's bound to offend someone!), we'll do best to ignore it.

WE SHOULD ALSO ignore tax stories which portray the suburbs as something expensive, and sewer stories, which might portray them as something rural.

We wouldn't want to run advertisements because they represent exploitation of crass material motivations — another very basic instinct.

We could run pictures of flowers, but that might offend the hay-fever sufferers.

A lot of people don't like cats, dogs or children.

TO BE ENTIRELY sure we don't disturb anyone, mentally, emotionally, or physically, we would do best to distribute blank pages, neatly folded and smoothly edge.

It's so difficult to read anything, anyway, huddled under that opaque security blanket.

Protect Vehicle Owners' Lists

Every suburbanite is aware of the tremendous increase of unsolicited or "junk" material filling up our mail boxes. Not everyone may be aware, however, of how the senders are securing your name and address. In many cases, this information is supplied — for a fee — by the State of Illinois.

Like a number of other states, Illinois will make available the names and addresses of all car owners to anyone who pays for it. The secretary of state's office is required by law to make a complete list of motorists available to persons who pay a $200 fee.

This practice should be changed. When a citizen registers an auto with the state, his name and address should not be automatically regarded as "fair game" for entrepreneurs seeking easy access to a mass mailing list.

The names and home addresses of car owners should be restricted to law enforcement agencies or other groups with a definite public need for it. All others should have to prove they have a legitimate purpose for requesting copies.

Now is the time for Illinois government to get out of the business of selling mass mailing lists for advertising or solicitation purposes. We hope the legislature will take appropriate steps to correct the law and spare motorists from the growing volume of nuisance mail.

Dunes Battle: Another Skirmish

A northern Indiana congressman has introduced a bill which would have the effect of cutting the size of the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore Park by two-thirds.

The dunes lakeshore area was set aside following a long struggle and compromise. The proposed legislation would define the park as a 2,200 acre area, while the original legislation provided for 6,000 acres.

The Indiana dunes area is a major national resource of mid-America and should be preserved for use and benefit of all citizens. Consigning most of it to private use and industrialization would be a tragic error.

We believe Congress should reject this attempt to destroy the major park in the Indiana Dunes.

The Political Beat

The New Governor Bravely Extends His Neck

CHARLES HUFNAGEL

The responsibilities of state government can be delayed no longer. Governor Ogilvie told the Legislature Tuesday, and Illinois cannot cut back on essential services. Therefore new and more taxation.

Thus in one fell swoop the Governor put the taxing and spending issue in Illinois state government in a realistic perspective. Growth in population, growth in wealth, expansion of education and new opportunities are leading to new horizons. These are setting new standards for achievement in government services.

WHAT GOVERNOR Ogilvie was saying when he brought his budget message to the Legislature is that in Illinois we are moving into a new kind of relationship between government and citizen and it's going to be necessary to shift in some new directions and necessary to leave some things behind.

One of these new directions is the 4 per cent flat rate income tax recommended as constitutional, collectible and fair. All these qualifications are important, because it must be remembered as the governor pointed out, Illinois is exactly $1.1 billion in the red.

This state, he says, can no longer rely on the sales tax as a basic revenue and he will not attempt to increase it beyond its present 5 per cent. His revenue program calls for making the income tax the basic tax in Illinois because it can bring in nearly a billion a year.

It's non-discriminative and therefore should be constitutional. The $1,000 exemption per person gives the low income family a "break" which was not the case with the sales tax, which, he said, was hitting this family the hardest.

IT WOULD BE more collectible than any tax, since he would apply the payroll principle as in the federal income tax procedure. According to his planned budget, the income tax revenue would start rolling into state coffers in August. This tax, in the Governor's thinking, is a lifesaver for a state which he has declared "on the brink of bankruptcy."

It ought to be said here that he is to be congratulated for his willingness to seek a realistic understanding of the fiscal problem in state government. Revenue raising in Illinois has up to now been pretty much a political football.

Revenue solutions have never been in the interest of all the people who pay taxes in Illinois. They have been in the interest of pressure groups and the governor leaves no doubt that in his administration this is going to stop.

To those objectors, and among them are Democrats, who say that a flat rate income tax on individuals and corporations alike is not in the interest of "fair taxation," the governor replies that the state is desperately in need of revenue and ought not to risk a court defeat. Which bill would most likely get through the Legislature and stand up after it gets through, a flat rate or graduated income tax?

ANOTHER IMPORTANT aspect of the income tax is that one-eighth or an estimated $135 million will be returned each year to local governments. This sharing and concern for local government is a part of the Ogilvie program. "Sharing" is a term you're going to hear more about from this state administration.

For example, he wants the federal government to start sharing revenue with the states but agrees that right now Washington has its hands full balancing its own budget. However, he insists that only the federal government is able to handle the giant national welfare problem economically and effectively. The states can't cope with it because it's so massive and state boundaries no longer exist.

Nevertheless, he's increased state welfare funds substantially.

The heart of the new state spending program is education to which the Ogilvie administration gives "first priority." More than half of all state revenues are going for elementary, secondary and higher education.

The fact is state per pupil aid is to be increased from $400 to $500. Governor Ogilvie is keeping his commitment with the schools which ought to be noted in this dollar-chasing era. The total educational outlay is $1.5 billion for the next fiscal year.

GOVERNOR OGILVIE showed a lot of courage in facing up to the spending needs of this time by providing for new and more revenue to meet them. He could have won approval of many by saying: We're locking the cash box so no more spending. That would have been easy and politic today, but would it help solve tomorrow's problems which must show up on the doorstep?

He has disappointed many experts with established clientele. They had the proper fiscal program sketched out and packaged in advance for him. All that was needed was his blessing, and those to be benefited would be ever so much obliged and willing in some way to return the favor.

But as it turned out the Ogilvie fiscal posture amounts to a rejection of those who would use state government for personal gain.

Of course in doing this he will have engendered political opposition. But as he points out the wealthy and those seeking privilege must bear their fair share of the cost of state government along with the rest. Taxes which hurt everybody alike exemplify democracy.

DEMOCRATS AT Springfield, of course, are another matter and a minority in both houses. They may reject the Ogilvie budget on political grounds, but they would do well to remember the present governor inherited a billion dollar deficit and is making an honest effort to provide revenue dollars for expanding state services.

The governor says he is confident he has enough votes in his own party to get his program through the Legislature, but opposition indicates he'll need some Democratic votes. His greatest assist will be from the image of 1970 and members of the General Assembly know it. So they will think carefully before they vote against the Ogilvie fiscal program.

He'll take the stump he says, in 1970 only for those Republicans who voted for his 1969 budget.

National Goal: Ending Cancer

I believe a cure for cancer should be a national goal. We should set such a goal as we did when we decided to land a man on the moon before 1970. The money required would probably be much less than that spent to land a man on the moon, and the return on our investment would be many times greater.

The Cancer Society president has cited statistics to show that the time lost from work because of cancer represents an economic loss of about $20 billion annually.

This year 325,000 Americans are expected to die from cancer; it is the number one disease killer of children from 1 to 14 years of age, and yet we are only spending 93 cents per person for cancer research projects this year. The appropriations for cancer research have been cut the last few years, and this year the cut was 17 per cent.

The Cancer Society president stated that cancer will eventually afflict one out of four Americans. Please write your congressman and advise him that more money should be spent on cancer research.

Sees 'M' Squad

Whenever the need arises for public improvements in Wood Dale which extracts thousands of dollars from the home owner taxpayers' pockets, the "M Squad" goes to work.

When sewers were the hottest issue in town, it was "M" man Murray who put together a conglomerate of pipes and labelled it a sanitary sewer system. Every homeowner taxpayer knows the results of this crude example of a sewer system. Mr. Murray made sand bags a household necessity, because they are needed whenever it rains.

DURING HIS TERM of office another "M" man, Mr. Mazzuca, used super-market selling effort for village-wide water. Incidentally, both Murray and Mazzuca were defeated for reelection, but they both hold policy-making appointments in the village hierarchy.

Now another "M" politician emerges into the limelight, a Mr. Madonna.

At another recent so-called public meeting relative to water throughout the village, we were treated to the hard sell technique of the typical machine politician.

First, they had an out-of-towner explain how fair and square it was going to be to extract a thousand or more dollars from each homeowner taxpayer.

THE VILLAGE ATTORNEY tried the hard sell by dwelling on the theme of increased valuation of property with public improvements, adroitly avoiding the explanation that increased valuation only occurs on the books of the tax assessor, thereby increasing the property tax of the homeowner.

Mr. Madonna, in his endeavors for the closing of the sale, stressed honesty and integrity. The homeowner taxpayer should trust him and his administration and believe it when they say that hookon will be voluntary.

Oh, yes, the village engineer was there, re-estimating his estimates, but it was estimated that it will cost the homeowner taxpayer at least $6 a front foot, plus $350 for the buffalo box, plus $65 for a meter (the meters supposedly were stock-piled — so why the high price?), plus $10 inspection fee, which, according to Mr. Madonna, is for our protection. Didn't we hear that about the sewer inspection fee?

Of course, Mr. Madonna and the village engineer couldn't give us an estimate of present day prices for a plumber to hook up the water line to your house.

ALL IN ALL, IT was a meeting that even one newspaper did not mention, and the other representative publication was at a loss for judgment coverage.

The "M Squad" is at work again, so the homeowner taxpayer can look forward to increased costs, whether it be sewer usage, scavenger service, wrong side of street sidewalks, new village hall, or water. The village politicians allow for no wheeling and dealing with the homeowner taxpayer.

Three Questions

Open letter to all Hanover Park candidates:

There is one pressing issue that is facing our village that needs answers. Could we hear your specific proposals to alleviate and eliminate the persistent flooding conditions from: (a) the creek, (b) poorly placed sewers that inundate basements on a regular basis, (c) the additional construction that is being done that will further aggravate both problems, as well as involve more and more individual homes.

After King, the Followers Carry On

by JAMES K. CAZALES

ATLANTA (UPI)—The dreamer, slain one year ago today, rests in the red sandy earth of Southview Cemetery but his followers say the dream is alive and growing.

"They have not killed the dream," says Dr. John C. Ashin, head of the predominantly Negro National Democratic party in Alabama, where the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. began his civil rights struggle in 1956.

King's presence is still felt in many places at the little Negro cemetery where his white marble crypt attracts a steady trickle of sightseers; at the headquarters of his Southern Christian Leadership Conference in Atlanta, where his pictures and book covers dominate almost every room; at meeting of the

"His dream is still alive and always will be alive. His teachings of freedom, integration and nonviolence still seem to be the only way offered to people who are oppressed to throw off the yoke of the oppressor."

SCLC, where his thoughts and ideas are discussed daily, and in dozens of Negro projects across the country.

King's widow, Coretta, maintains an active schedule of speeches and appearances in behalf of her husband's nonviolent philosophy. His brother, A. D. King, and his father travel widely, fighting discrimination, poverty and war. His friend and lieutenant, Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, now heads the SCLC and claims that King's banner has been taken up by "an entire generation of leaders."

The year since King was slain by a sniper while leading a garbage workers' strike in Memphis, Tenn., has been a quiet one for the SCLC, and in many ways a disappointing one. The Poor People's March on Washington was, at best, a qualified success. There were no dramatic struggles and no dramatic victories.

Abernathy says this is because the problems of the civil rights movement have changed. It took chanting marchers and stirring speeches to win the right to ride buses and eat in white-owned restaurants, he said, but now the SCLC is embarked on a fight for more subtle things.

The new goals of equal employment opportunity and freedom from poverty take quiet, long-range local action, Abernathy says, and it is happening.

In Atlanta, a group of whites and Negroes called the Dr. Martin Luther King Commemoration Committee began a massive voter registration drive today to mark the anniversary. The goal is to register 25,000 persons.

Abernathy will be in Memphis, where march from Clayborne Temple AME Church to the Lorraine Motel. King was slain, leading an anniversary killed while standing on a balcony at the motel.

The garbage workers' strike which drew King to Memphis was settled 11 days after his death. Undersecretary of Labor James Reynolds flew to Memphis the night of the slaying and helped union and city officials hammer out an agreement. The city still refuses to admit it has given the workers a contract, preferring to call the document a "memorandum of understanding." It gave workers average raises of about 50 cents an hour.

"Those of us who are apostles of his teaching have the responsibility to keep his force moving," says Dr. H. Ralph Jackson, a Negro leader in Memphis who worked side by side with King during the garbage strike. "His dream is still alive and always will be alive. His teachings of freedom, integration and nonviolence still seem to be the only way offered to people who are oppressed to throw off the yoke of the oppressor."

More than 150,000 persons have trekked past King's white marble crypt, a temporary resting place until completion of a permanent memorial next year. The sightseers dwindle to a steady trickle on weekdays but on weekends, according to cemetery official A. H. Watts, "they keep us hopping. We don't even try to keep a guest register there any more because the pages are used up so quickly."

A gas flame burns in front of the site, set in a small courtyard of white gravel. Although one SCLC staffer complained, "We've never buried Dr. King and we won't be able to do anything until we do," Abernathy and other SCLC staffers denied that the organization had lost potency.

"Abernathy can't be compared to King, but he unquestionably has the loyalty and confidence of the staff," says Hoqua Williams, who plans a voter education drive in Alabama this summer. Williams said his summer project reflects the changes that have been taking place in the SCLC. It will be quiet, he said, with little confrontation. Most of it will take place in individual homes, where residents will be instructed in the basics of politics.

"We're not going to concern ourselves so much with voter registration as with political education," said Williams. "An uneducated black electorate is as bad as no black electorate."

"The nation has changed more than the SCLC," said Andy Young, the group's executive secretary. "SCLC has always been responsive in part because there was a responsive administration. Today the country is suffering from a leadership vacuum."

THE SHORT AND LONG look of evening wear were modeled by these winners, Mrs. Larry Neibauer and Mrs. E. B. Marhofer, in District 7 sewing competition held Monday.

SENIOR WOMEN'S CLUB entries in the evening division included Mrs. Chester Antosz, Mrs. Donald Knox and Mrs. Thomas Grandel.

SKIRT LENGTHS REMAIN well above the knee—for those who can stand the exposure—as can Mrs. Torsten Carlson, Mrs. James Krezowski, both winners in 7th District, and Mrs. Stephen Thebault.

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

Spring Chores Require Eye Safety Precautions

Housecleaning and gardening two rituals of spring, are accompanied by whirls of activity in which safety precautions are too often ignored or forgotten, warns the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

"We must remember that this array of materials — aerosol cleaners and paints, garden chemicals, solvents as well as the tools being used — are often objects of fascination to young children," reminds John W. Ferree, executive director of the Society. "They want to get into the act and our accident files tell us with tragic repetitiveness the results in serious eye injuries and even blindness."

According to the latest data from The National Health Surveys, eye injuries are the leading cause of vision impairment in persons under 65, and more than 40 per cent of the accidents causing vision impairment in the U. S. today occur in the home.

"EYE SAFETY during spring cleaning and gardening chores can include do's as well as don'ts," adds Dr. Ferree. "Giving a child a task of his own, replacing potentially hazardous substances with harmless materials, gives him a sense of participation, as well as keeping him out of danger."

Eye hazards extend to adults as well as children. The Society recommends that all members of the family wear all-purpose safety goggles when mowing lawns (especially with power mowers), burning trash, pruning bushes, spraying plants with insecticides or while using chemical fertilizers. Your local optical equipment center can recommend proper safety goggles for around the home and garden.

The Society warns that trash fires were high on the list of last year's causes of serious eye accidents. Glass bottles and empty spray cans, tossed into a rubbish fire can mean tragedy if the heat explodes them, showering potentially blinding fragments of glass and metal. The danger is multiplied if the container still holds some combustible powder or liquid.

Bill Blass, If You Dare

Challenge These Seamstresses

by MARIANNE SCOTT
Women's Editor

Bill Blass and Yves St. Laurent are fortunate, indeed, that they don't have to compete with seamstresses from the Federated Women's Clubs. If they did, they'd lose, for it's doubtful that their workmanship could pass the stringent scrutiny of the judges.

Right side out or wrong side out, the clubwomen's creations are works of art.

Materials are carefully chosen for the ensemble; the styles are prudently chosen for the wearer, and the workmanship and fit are painstakingly perfect in every detail. Seams are uniformly trimmed and finished; linings are expertly inserted; and hems are neatly turned, often with lace bindings.

THIS YEAR'S ANNUAL sewing contest for 7th District was held Monday at the Northwest Suburban YMCA under the direction of Mrs. Edward Havlik of Palatine, Home Life district chairman. Participating in the competition were seamstresses from 10 district clubs who modeled their own creations.

In the senior division, daytime fashions, Mrs. Walter Hermesdorf of Arlington Heights Woman's Club was awarded first place for her green wool coat designed to be worn with a mink stole. The coat was lined in white satin sunback.

Mrs. Bill Blair of the Schaumburg Woman's Club was named second place winner in the daytime fashions. She had sewn an ensemble featuring the new Americana look: a red, white and blue striped coat and a blue dress of hopsacking.

A white crepe sheath, floor-length gown trimmed with opalescent white sequins at the neckline and cuffs won a first in the seniors' evening fashions for Mrs. Thomas Grandel of the Hoffman Estates Woman's Club.

Mrs. Chester Antosz of the Franklin Park Woman's Club earned second place honors for her pale green wool dress and coat ensemble. Rhinestone buttons were features of the dress.

Two ensembles in warm rich brown, another new spring color, took first and second place in the daytime fashions in the Junior club competition. Mrs. Torsten Carlson of the Des Plaines Junior Woman's Club placed first with her wool crepe suit, and Mrs. James Krezowski of Arlington Heights Juniors took second with her shirtwaist featuring brown voile skirt and a white bodice.

A FLOOR-LENGTH blue crepe was Mrs. E. B. Marhofer's winning entry in the Junior's evening fashions. Mrs. Marhofer is a member of Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club.

Other area entries included Mrs. Stephen Thebault of the Mount Prospect Juniors, who had sewn a yellow flowered mini dress; Mrs. Donald Knox of Arlington Heights Woman's Club with her floor-length, imported brocade in gold and white; Mrs. Alfred Cebulski of Hoffman Estates Woman's Club with her bright blue, gold and red chevron striped coat and navy skimmer.

Mrs. Jonathan Toerber of the Norwood Park Woman's Club had sewn a jacket, dress and hat ensemble of navy blue crepe combined with a Scandinavian print, Mrs. H. T. Engh of Edgebrook Woman's Club had entered her dress of pink windjammer.

JUDGES FOR THE 7th District competition were Mrs. Donna Swanson, sewing instructor in High School District 214 adult education classes, and Mrs. Verna Lesser and Mrs. Eleanor Urban, accomplished seamstresses from Elmwood Park. Prizes were gift certificates from the Fabric Mart, Hagenbrink's and The Golden Thimble.

Seeing Europe, Family Style

To Market, To Market — in England

by MARY ELLEN POURCHOT

(This is the third of a series.)

To shop for groceries in England, the American housewife should be equipped with 1) a strong satchel, 2) strong arms, and 3) a flexible state of mind regarding menu plans.

Early in the morning the daily marathon begins — women with their tote bags or wheeled baskets, big prams (buggies) and dogs on leashes.

The self-service grocery is small. Staple goods are plentiful though sometimes oddly packaged. For instance, dessert gelatin comes in congealed squares wrapped in cellophane and labeled "jelly." Surprisingly, some U. S. brands appear on the shelves.

Britain's mini-packaging jolts Americans oriented to the Giant Economy Size. Sugar comes in one- and two-pound packets, flour as large as three-pound bags, butter by the half-pound, milk in imperial pints, eggs six to a carton, ice cream only in half and one-pint bricks, laundry soap in two-pound boxes, peanut butter a mere taste in an eight-ounce jar.

THE SHELVES reveal the food tastes peculiar to the British. You'll see canned sheep's tongue, sauces and pastes in profusion, oxtail and kidney soups, treacle (a modified molasses), yoghurts of every variety, the same for sausages. Sugar selection ranges from castor and rock sugar to demarara, a crystallized brown sugar superb for hot cereal or tea. The "sweets" department offers flan cases, scone mixes, tarts and fairy cakes, sponges (yellow cakes) and tea biscuits, which are plain cookies.

As the cashier rings up the bill, the British woman stuffs her items into her carry-all. For some mysterious reason, large sacks are scarce in England (in parts of Europe as well). In defense, one buys a string bag — a marvelous contrivance of knotted cord and leather strap handles, which rolls into the purse or stretches to accommodate the most cumbersome purchases.

LEAVING THE grocer's, you realize that some items common on American shelves were missing: salad dressings, salted crackers, whipping cream in aerosol cans, grape jelly, frozen orange juice, hamburger buns and diet colas.

The butcher's sawdust floors, ceiling hooks from which hang sides of meat and rows of chickens still wearing their feet, heads and feathered collars. The counter is filled with kidneys, liver, tongue, tripe, lamb and bacon which taste like ham. The "mince" may resemble all-beef hamburger, but when served at lunch, your children suspiciously ask, "What's this?"

Strange meat cuts are labeled "English," "Scotch" or "New Zealand." You don't ask for a pound of Scotch, as the label only denotes the country of origin.

For fresh vegetables, the Englishman visits the greengrocer, whose wide variety of produce probably came that morning from the Covent Garden markets. You'll miss only that crisp iceberg lettuce and Halloween pumpkins. The grocer wraps your purchases in newspaper pages hooked to the wall.

YOUR SHOPPING isn't complete until you visit the fishmonger's, the bakery and the tuck shop for cigarettes. By then, you'll wonder how the English can cling to this old shopping ritual. Are they just stubborn towards change, or do they demand fresh products and personal treatment?

Perhaps statistics reveal some of the reasons. It was recently found that only 56 per cent of households in London had refrigerators. In all the United Kingdom only one-third owned refrigerators. Many of these are too small to hold large supplies. And to transport purchases, only 37 per cent of households sampled in 1964 owned a car.

As you collapse at your flat, you must consider the bonus to this daily rite. How do you think the English women get those rosy cheeks and slender legs?

ORT Group Plans A Theatre Party

Far Acres' ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) is planning a theatre party to see "Sweet Charity," starring Shirley MacLaine, Sunday, April 27, at the Bismarck Theatre in Chicago's loop.

Proceeds will go toward ORT's Earning Power Improvement Courses, a program which provides schools for short term training, primarily for adults too old to attend full scale ORT schools. "These smaller schools are often life saving for impoverished, displaced persons who find their old skills unneeded in their new countries," stated Mrs. Mel Klein of Buffalo Grove, president of the Far Acres chapter.

IN CHARGE of tickets for the evening is Mrs. Norman Katz, special projects chairman who may be reached at 537-1498. The party will also celebrate the doubling of the chapter's membership for which it received an award at the ORT Day celebrations March 19. The chapter will welcome its 100th member at its next meeting.

Teen Princess Contest

The deadline is Saturday, April 5, for Chicago area teens who wish to compete for the "Teen Princess — Chicago" title and a chance to win a trip to Mexico City and Acapulco. The winner will also get a wardrobe from Montgomery Ward Co., sponsor of the International Teen Princess Pageant.

Applications are available in the Wendy Ward Department of all Ward's stores.

The Potting Shed

by MARY B. GOOD

Sorry, but as green thumbs go, I don't believe in the animal. What's it all about? Planning, common sense, experience and a traffic pattern around, not through, the thimbergia.

For all the house plant failures among you, the biggest cause of death in your diffenbachia and all the rest of the interior foliage is watering with soft water. Better you should buy distilled water, collect rainwater or use the outside faucet, diverted from entering the water softener. Sodium residue (that white alkaline element) builds up and eventually kills the plant.

Outdoors, no plant will survive our changeable climate unless the gardener understands and provides for its needs. You wouldn't move an Eskimo to Jamaica, so before you relocate anything in your yard, check plant requirements.

WHAT ABOUT exposure, does it need a sunny or shady spot? Consider if your plant can take a dry place or will tolerate "wet feet?" Can it be planted near trees, or must it have wide open spaces? Is it acid-loving? Does it require soil additives to survive, and what kind of fertilizing and spray treatment does it insist on? Yes, it is a lot more trouble than slapping something into the ground haphazardly, neglecting it and then crabbing when it dies because you "can't grow anything."

Another rule of thumb (oops) suggests plant nothing in mud, only friable soil. When plants heave due to winter's alternate freezing and thawing, you want to fill air pockets, yes, but avoid grinding your iris into the ground with your shoe. This only deadlocks the soil so the plant can't breathe.

Remove metal containers before planting. This sounds rather elementary, but there are people who drop in their mugho pine metal containers and all.

Why invite maggots. Use deodorized fish emulsion preparation instead of dead fish carcasses around those begonias. Leave grandmother's garden habits with the horse and buggy.

Finally, sanitary garden practices in the potting shed control fungus diseases. There's more to soil than dirt!

St. John Church Guild To Meet Wednesday

The Afternoon Guild of St. John's Church Women in Bensenville will meet next Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. Theme of the program is "The Crisis in Belief and Behavior" and will be directed by Mrs. M. Reher.

Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. A. Heimsoth, Mrs. E. Heimsoth and Mrs. H. Horn.

All women of the church are invited. The Guild is now collecting articles for a spring rummage sale, slated for April 19 at the church, 4N425 Route 63.

Rummage Sale, Friday

Rachel Circle of the United Methodist Church will hold its annual rummage sale Friday, April 11, from 5 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, April 12, from 9 to 11 a.m. Co-chairmen of the event are Mrs. Merlin W. Kalloway and Mrs. Edith Weber who are also serving coffee during the sale.

Corsages for Sale

St. Mark's Guild of Queen of the Rosary parish in Elk Grove Village will hold its annual Easter corsage sale beginning at 9 a.m. tomorrow (Saturday) in the Grove Shopping Center Mall, Arlington Heights and Beltsfield Road, Elk Grove Village.

All corsages are made by the women from fresh carnations and are available in two sizes suitable for either a woman or a child. Additional information is available from Mrs. Gus Bavaro, 439-1082.

Star of 'Zorba' Makes These

Krustiki, A Russian Easter Pastry

by JEANNE LESEN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Actress Maria Karnilova gives the impression of being an entire cast of characters in both real life and the theater.

Currently co-starring in the Broadway musical, "Zorba," she still finds time to cook for her family, work on a large crewel embroidery wall hanging for their new apartment, study piano, bake holiday gifts for friends and even grow asparagus fern and ivy to use on gift wrappings.

So it's hardly extraordinary to find her also celebrating two Easters — the western one, which falls this year on April 6, and the Russian, or Eastern Orthodox one a week later.

Miss Karnilova in private life is the wife of actor-singer George S. Irving. They have a daughter, 18, a married son and one grandchild. In an interview, she said her busy schedule doesn't stop her from fixing dinner for her husband and daughter before she goes to the theater. Nor will it prevent her cooking the usual Russian Easter dinner for them and her son's family after their daughter-in-law does the honors for the Western Easter.

EXPERIENCE is the key. She's been cooking since the age of 12, when she took over the family kitchen during her mother's final illness.

"I was the youngest child, too young to earn money," she said. "I learned from my mother's bedside. She told me what to market for and how to cook. Inexpensive, hearty things like bortsch and cabbage soups.

"The only holiday cake we ever ate was kulich—it's a big babka, a yeast-raised cake. A little time-consuming to make but not difficult."

You won't find kulich at the Irving's Eastern dinner, she added, because "none of my family like it. It's too dry, and a good one shouldn't be sweet. They like the pashka—it's very sweet." (Pashka is a molded pot cheese dessert traditionally served with slices of kulich at Easter.)

INSTEAD OF kulich, Miss Karnilova makes a rich loaf cake in an old-fashioned hinged iron mold, then frosts it with swirls of white icing. She said the remainder of the dinner is traditional in a family sense. She likes to serve two meats—ham and maybe duck or goose or game.

Her taste for pork and game and more than one main course reflects her Russian heritage. She was born in Hartford, Conn., to Russian immigrant parents who took her back to Russia briefly during her childhood.

Returning to the United States, she soon became a member of the Metropolitan Opera's Children's Ballet and went on to become the Opera's prima ballerina.

"When I was in ballet, you had to be a glamor girl," she recalled. "They think ballet dancers are willowy, wisplike ladies."

She said that dancers, offstage, are far more likely to be wives who go home to cook and run households for their families. Miss Karnilova said her cooking in New York during the run of a play is pretty much limited to simple fare such as steaks, chops or fish, but she sometimes makes stuffed cabbage or stuffed peppers. At their country home near Port Jervis, N.Y., she also tries to keep things simple unless they have guests.

But when time permits, she also makes traditional Russian dishes.

One that she always makes for Easter is krustiki or fried pastries, customarily served with afternoon tea. "They were very traditional for Easter in my mother's time."

BUTTERFLY-SHAPED

Mari Karnilova's Easter krustiki are butterfly-shaped pastries. Beat 4 egg yolks with 5 tablespoons of heavy cream. Fold in 1 stiffly beaten egg white, ¼ teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons of either brandy, rum or whiskey. Add 1 cup of flour and stir well. Add 1 to 1½ more cups of flour and work dough with hands until it is stiff. Knead it until it loses stickiness and becomes elastic. Roll on lightly floured board as thin as possible—about 1/8 inch. Cut into strips about 1½ inches wide and 3½ inches long. Twist in center to make butterfly shape and fry a few at a time in hot deep fat until light golden brown. Turn to brown both sides. Drain on paper towels and sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Serve at room temperature.

Easter Ham Has A Honeyed Glaze

This year's Easter ham can wear a smooth, sleek look with an orange-honey glaze sharpened with horseradish. The glaze recipe covers a 5 to 7 pound smoked shank half ham.

Place ham, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part. Be careful that the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees) until the meat thermometer registers 160 degrees for a "cook-before-eating" half ham (22 to 25 minutes per pound), and 130 degrees for "fully-cooked" half ham (14 to 16 minutes per pound).

HONEYED GLAZE: Combine ¼ cup honey, 1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange-pineapple concentrate, 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg.

Using ½ cup of this mixture, brush it on ham 2 or 3 times during the last ½ hour of baking time. Mix 1 cup water and 2 tablespoons cornstarch with remaining honey-juice mixture; cook, stirring constantly, until thick and clear. Serve as sauce for ham.

EASTER CORSAGES will be sold Saturday, beginning at 9:30 a.m., near Ace Hardware Store in Rolling Meadows Shopping Center. Rolling Meadows Garden Club is making a variety using fresh carnations and orchids. Working on ribbons are Mrs. Wayne Des Parte, seated, and Mrs. John Lynch, club president.

Miss Burnett Is Bride

A small church wedding in Urbana, Ill., on March 29 united Claudia Burnett, daughter of the John Henry Burnetts, 516 W. Eastman St., Arlington Heights, and David E. Sumler, son of the Joseph Sumlers of Woodbridge, Va.

The 11:30 a.m. ceremony took place in the Unitarian Universalist Church, followed by a reception also in the church.

The bride and groom are both associated with the University of Illinois. The groom is an assistant professor of history, and the new Mrs. Sumler was graduated this past January and will enter library science graduate school in the fall.

FOR HER wedding, she wore a street-length white crepe dress and a matching bow headpiece to hold her shoulder-length veil in place. She carried a gardenia bouquet.

Her only attendant was Mary McCormick of Des Plaines who wore a pink crepe dress with a matching bow headpiece and veil. Her bouquet was of pink roses.

Best man was the groom's brother, Joseph Sumler Jr. of Alexandria, Va.

The newlyweds went to New Orleans for this vacation week and are making their home in Champaign. They will spend the summer months in Paris, France, while Mr. Sumler does research in French history.

He is a graduate of Wake Forest College, Winston-Salem, N.C., and has a master's and PhD from Princeton University.

'1776' Is in Running for Tony Award

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—The closing date for eligibility for the annual Tony Awards of the Broadway stage was March 16.
It was on that date, nose to the wire, that the "1776" musical opened at the 46th Street Theater. It may be a date that producers David Merrick and Harold Prince will not remember with affection.
Until "1776" arrived, the outstanding candidates in the best musical category were Merrick's "Promises, Promises" and Prince's "Zorba," both very fine entertainments. Of course, they were among the four musicals nominated to compete for Tonys. A third was the hippie show, "Hair," (Heaven forbid!). The fourth, "1776."

And if that last isn't the winner, there again will be no joy in Mudville, the tides will cease to rise and fall and clock hands will reverse direction.
EVERY SEASON brings at least two or three musicals that are excellent, that you enjoy greatly, and in the case of "Promises, Promises" and "Zorba" if lucky, there may be one about every five years that has that something extra, that imparts that lasting glow, that stands apart.
That is the way it is with "1776," just as it was with "Man of La Mancha," its immediate predecessor in the unforgettable sweepstakes.
You have to see it to believe that anyone could, so to speak, set the Declaration of Independence to music without being hooted out of town for sacrilege, malfeasance or just plain theatrical asininity, mainly the latter.
But Sherman Edwards, sometime history teacher, later a writer of popular songs, who fostered this notion for years and wrote the music and lyrics, librettist

"Now what we want to do is film a fight on top of that cable car as it goes up. Then we want to do another scene where our heroes jump off the car as it comes down and land in that river below. And, finally, we want to blow up the cable car and the station here. Can you do it?"
"Just give me the time — and the money. Nothing is impossible," replied 72-year-old Yakima Canutt, shifting a mouthful of chewing tobacco.
The fact that producer Elliott Kastner's fight for MGM's "Where Eagles Dare" is atop a swinging cable car and had to be staged thousands of feet in the air in the midst of Europe's stormiest weather in years didn't appear to bother Canutt.
IT WAS FOR just such "impossible" accomplishments that he was awarded an Oscar "for creating bigger and better stunt thrills in motion pictures."
During the 20 years in which Canutt has pursued his profession, he has staged such Peter Stone, neophyte director Peter Hunt and a wonderful cast make this miracle seem as easy and natural as losing a race track bet.

THE SHOW deals with the bickering in the Continental Congress in Philadelphia during the three months just prior to adoption of the Declaration. Dedicated, prodigious John Adams fights for the official break from England. He has strong opponents in southern delegates and a Pennsylvania Tory. Finally, it is agreed to draw up the document, and Thomas Jefferson writes it after being inspired by a visit from the young wife he hasn't seen for months. Then comes the climactic fight for adoption, which must be by unanimous vote.
This is presented excitingly via a text that has wit, humor and a straight dramatic line. The songs help along the story admirably without getting in the way. The founding fathers are depicted as real humans with the usual attendant virtues and frailties. They are a source of fun, but they are not satirized or ridiculed. This is a patriotic play, if you will, but not a maudlin one.

William Daniels as Adams and Howard da Silva as Ben Franklin are outstanding in a cast that is notable throughout. Paul Hecht, Clifford David, Roy Poole, David Ford, Emory Bass, Ronald Holgate, Ken Howard and Jonathan Moore are some of the others. Virginia Vestoff and Betty-Buckley are helpful as Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Jefferson.

movie action as the chariot races in "Ben-Hur," the Clark Gable-led gorilla hunt in "Mogambo" and the battles in such films as "Spartacus," "Ivanhoe" and "El Cid." He feels he may have topped even himself with "Where Eagles Dare."
Canutt has lived a lifetime of thrills. He was a world champion rodeo cowboy from 1917 through 1923 and holds five world title belts as "all-around" cowboy. He was a silent-day western star in the era of such idols as Buck Jones, and Hoot Gibson.
WHEN TALKIES ended his film career he began creating action and developing equipment that would make it possible to bring the most spectacular scenes to movie screens.

Canutt worked as a stunt man until he was 50, a remarkable age for this daredevil occupation.

"The great thing for me was that it gave me the experience of working with writers and putting more action in their scripts," he says.

"Before long producers began telling their directors, 'Don't worry about the action, old Yak will take care of that.'"

Richard Burton stars in "Where Eagles Dare," now playing at the Catlow Theatre.

Both cast and technical crews of the Country Corners Community Playhouse absorbed in techniques of terror for "The Haunting of Hill House."

Peter DuPre, stage manager, is also working out lighting effects while Nancy Shalin and Diane Aldridge prepare an appropriately chilling sound track. Meanwhile, under the direction of Hull House playwright and director, John McGrath, actors are working to set the mood of a thrilling mystery which will mark Country Corners' first production. It will be presented at St. Paul United Church, April 25, 26, and May 2 and 3. Information may be obtained by calling 381-2392.

Protect Fabrics

Homemakers can now cut down on cleaning by using an easy-to-apply aerosol spray for clothing and household fabrics that locks out soil and stains before they happen.

Called Fabric Guard, the new spray is the latest development of W. J. Hagerty & Sons, Ltd., Inc., South Bend, Ind., manufacturer of specialized home care products.

The spray creates an invisible soil repellent barrier on clothes, draperies, curtains, and upholstery, but does not affect the color, feel or porosity of fabrics and will not disturb pleats or creases in apparel.

It will also restore water-repellency to rainwear, and can be used to treat car tops, golf bags, tennis racquet covers, and canvas shoes.

Students at DuPage Continue Education

The College of DuPage office of admissions has reported that, since last October, students planning to transfer to four-year institutions have requested that $1,000 transcripts be sent to 208 different colleges.

Four-year schools in which College of DuPage students have shown the most interest are, in order of preference, Northern Illinois University, the University of Illinois at Chicago, Southern Illinois University, Western Illinois University, the University of Illinois at Champaign and Elmhurst College.

JAMES H. WILLIAMS, acting director of admissions at College of DuPage, said that four-year colleges are constantly sending representatives to talk with College of DuPage students who plan to transfer.

"Freshman and sophomore students at four-year schools have a dropout rate which sometimes reaches as high as 50 per cent," said Williams.

"For this reason four-year schools prize junior college students. Our students have proven themselves, and studies show that transferees from a junior college do as well, or better, than students who attend a four-year school from the beginning."

ALLINGHAM POINTED out that last year, of a graduating class of 600 at Wilton, only 127 took part in the school's baccalaureate. At York, he said, only one-third of the graduates took part, while at Addison Trail, only 10 per cent of the 250 graduates attended.

The board recommended that the baccalaureate be held in the community, and that the district would assist by informing the students of the program.

Kroepin indicated that, if community response and interest can be shown, the district might combine its baccalaureate program for the three schools in one school.

G. William Bingham, board member from Addison and a member of that village's clergy, said he would gauge the local interest in the Addison Trail and York area.

Piano Students Will Perform for Judges

Roselle piano students will have a chance to perform before friends and relatives at a piano solo festival May 24. The festival and clinic are sponsored by Roselle School Dist. 12 in cooperation with Musipar, the Music Parents Association.

Every child in grades four through eight is invited to participate. Children will prepare musical selections of their choice which they will perform before a judge. This is not a competitive clinic although each child will receive an evaluation sheet of his performance.

Judges for the clinic are Paul Ortscheider, Lake Park High School music teacher, and Mrs. Laura Boone, music teacher at Medinah and Roselle schools.

ENROLLMENT forms for the clinic may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Harriet Wilkens, 233 E. Maple, Roselle. Forms are to be returned by April 28 so that the clinic schedule can be completed.

Parents and friends of piano students are invited to attend the festival. Each child will be judged on his individual performance and will receive a ribbon in recognition of his participation.

Circuit Assembly Is Set

A Circuit Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses will take place April 11, 12, and 13 at Larkin High School in Elgin.

The Assembly will be concluded April 13 at 3 p.m. by a Bible lecture on "Law and Order - When and How?"

Kingdom Hall is the church building in which Jehovah's Witnesses hold the majority of their religious meetings. Bensenville's Kingdom Hall, located at 219 N. Pine Lane Ave., serves a congregation of 120.

Jehovah's Witnesses do not have a clergy-laity division in their congregation. All members of the congregation upon being baptized at an age of consent, are ministers.

The presiding minister of the Bensenville congregation is Walter A. Nealey Sr.

EVERY SUNDAY, the Bensenville Jehovah's Witnesses hold a one-hour discourse at 9 a.m. on a variety of topics. This is followed at 10 by a one-hour Bible lesson conducted on a question-and-answer basis. Everyone, including children, has an opportunity to contribute to the discussion.

In addition, each congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses provides a "Theocratic Ministry School." It is here that the Witnesses are helped to develop talks on various Bible subjects.

Following the "Theocratic Ministry School" is a service meeting where instruction is given in various ways of presenting the Christian message.

Each congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses is divided into study groups of approximately 10 persons. Individual groups meet in private homes once a week for a "Bible Study."

College Adds 1st Layman

The appointment of Frank S. Flick, president of Flick-Reedy Corp., Bensenville, to the board of directors of Mount St. Paul College has been announced by the Rev. Gabriel Stapleton, president of the college.

Flick, whose appointment by the board was confirmed by its chairman, the Rev. Edward DeBruin, is the first layman and non-member of the Salvatorian Fathers to serve on the board. The resolution to enlarge the college board of directors from six to eleven directors by the addition of laymen was adopted at a meeting March 12.

Reverend Stapleton announced that expansion of the present board is the first phase in a total reorganization, wherein the college will become independent of the Society of the Divine Savior except for the contributed services of its members, which will be done on an individual contract basis.

CONTROL OF AND responsibility for the college will be vested in a new board of directors, majority of whom will be laymen unaffiliated with the Society of the Divine Savior.

A native of Chicago and a mechanical engineering graduate of the University of Illinois, Flick, as president of Flick-Reedy, heads the Miller Fluid Power Division and the Flick-Reedy Education Enterprise. The former is the world's largest manufacturer of machine tool grade air and hydraulic power cylinders. The latter promotes individual moral responsibility and support of the Constitution; it provides speakers in a series on freedom and regimentation, which has twice earned the Freedom Foundation Award.

$14,097 OK'd for Sewer Plant

More funds are needed to complete required improvements to Itasca's sewage plant and to install a polishing pond.

Village board members Wednesday heard Trustee William Everham report that additional earthwork, change in the outlet structure, piping and other items will cost the village another $9,953.67.

Everham said it will be necessary to alter the pond slope and increase the depth of the lagoon.

Revisions in the initial plans to provide for future aeration of the lagoon dictated by the Illinois Sanitary Water Board also will require $3,519 for installation of a second concrete baffle wall, another $1,011.37 for electrical equipment and $613.80 for a change in ventilating units, Everham reported.

HE ASKED BOARD authorization of an expenditure of $14,097.84 as the cost of construction estimated by Wigert Construction Co. due to "emergency nature" of the proposed work. He also asked the board to waive general bid requirements.

In approving Everham's motion, village trustees deferred action on installation of a culvert under the Milwaukee Railroad tracks north of the lagoon at a reported bid of $14,686 and aeration equipment at an estimated cost of $76,000.

Trustees indicated that request for bids on proposed installation of the culvert and aeration equipment would be considered at a later date.

Greenbelt No Good for I-90

A report of soil borings in the Itasca greenbelt area south of Irving Park Road indicates a high water table and wet clay condition not suitable for highway embankment material.

This was the news brought before the village board by Village Pres. Wilbert Notkne. Trustees met in special session Wednesday due to cancellation of a regular Tuesday meeting.

The report dampened plans by the village to have the state excavate a lake area in the 60-acre greenbelt park.

Soil borings were made to determine feasibility of using the excavated material for highway embankment.

California — Nervous Wait for the Rumble

by PAUL R. JESCHKE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Mayor Joseph Alioto's anti-earthquake party is come as you are. Bring your own water wings.

The San Francisco mayor— tired of listening to rumors the Golden State is about to crack like a stale brownie and drop into the sea—has decided on a giant public celebration to dispel the gloom.

On April 18—the 63rd anniversary of the quake and fire that nearly leveled the city—coffee will be served from Army field kitchens in downtown Union Square. "We'll play Caruso records," says Alioto. "Maybe I'll even arrange for a special showing of the movie, 'San Francisco,' and join in a chorus or two with Jeannette MacDonald as she stands there in the ruins singing away."

Only partially hidden by Alioto's levity, however, is the fact some Californians are actually awaiting a cataclysmic temblor which they think will strike sometime during April. Others are merely nervous.

Dozens of letters have flooded into the state disaster office in Sacramento. Many are from out-of-state residents worried about friends and relatives.

A tremendous number of them are being addressed to Governor Reagan personally wanting to know what he's going to do about it," says Charles Samson of the disaster office.

Herb Caen, columnist for the San Francisco Chronicle, claims Doubleday Books asked him to write a sequel to "Baghdad by the Bay" titled "Baghdad in the Bay." And Howard Hughes, so the wags have it, will own the best surfing beach on the Pacific Coast after California drops off and waves lap at the Las Vegas Strip.

Actually, neither California officials nor earthquake scientists are in a position to deny absolutely a quake will strike. That's the catch. For while it may be illogical to assume the probability of a big rocker in the immediate future, no one can be positive it won't happen.

Says the U.S. Geological Survey in nearby Menlo Park: "The plain fact is that a major earthquake will probably occur in one of the earthquake prone areas of California. But whether it will occur this month or next or not until 10 or 20 years is something we simply cannot predict."

But if the federal government was reluctant to predict doomsday, not so a host of self-styled seers and prophets.

"God is going to punish California for its sins," said one Southern California minister as he led his congregation out of the state. Other groups fled to the state of earthquake and flood watch in the Rocky Mountains near Denver.

"A few years ago," explains Dr. Charles Richter, the famed earthquake expert, "in 1965 to be exact, we received spurious Washington and groups of hippies took up earthquake predictions for Jan. 17, Feb. 4, March 17, April 1, April 16, all of May, May 30 and for the Imperial Valley sometime in June or July. But it was a normal year—none came true."

Actually, scientists point out, California's several major fault lines have been slipping for as long as 100 million years. Because of the movement of the San Andreas Fault, Los Angeles is literally moving toward San Francisco at the rate of one to two inches a year.

In at least one respect, the predictions earthquake during April are accurate. Scientists say some 200 to 300 tremors are recorded every month in the San Francisco area alone. None is strong enough to be felt by man.

Biafra vs. Nigeria: Agony Goes On

by PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

By most of the rules Nigeria's tragic civil war should have been over months ago.

That it is not and in fact could go on for years was rediscovered personally this week by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, whose peace mission to Nigeria not only failed to produce results but also subjected him to the embarrassment of a snub by the leader of break-away Biafra. Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu rejected Wilson's proposal for a meeting outside rebel territory and accused the prime minister of conducting a "political and propaganda exercise."

An estimated million Biafrans have died so far in the conflict, most of them from starvation.

But the Biafrans not only have surged back from the edge of defeat but now also talk of moving on Port Harcourt, the port taken from them by government troops fairly early in the 21-month-old civil war.

Reasons for the continuation of the conflict are many.

The Ibo tribesmen who make up most of the population on the former eastern territory, now called Biafra, remain totally committed to independence.

Thirty thousand Ibos died in the northern territory massacre which preceded the civil war and they say never again will they entrust their security to others.

Intervention by the big powers also is a reason for the continuation of the automatic rifles and MIG17 fighter bombers.

Britain has backed a "one Nigeria" policy and is supplying arms to the Nigerian government in Lagos.

France has supported Biafra's "right of self-determination" and runs an airlift of small arms to Biafra from Gabon, one of four African nations that have recognized the Biafran government.

Also lined up on the side of the Lagos government are the Russians who have provided rockets, trucks, the latest in Attempting to stay neutral in the conflict has been the United States. It continues to maintain its embassy in Lagos but refuses to sell arms to either side. It has, however, loaned airplanes to help maintain the food airlift to Biafra on humanitarian grounds.

And so the war that should have been over months ago still goes on and victory by the Lagos government no longer can be considered a certainty.

Rumfeld's Poll Mailed

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Congressman Donald Rumfeld, R-13th, has announced that his seventh annual National Issues Poll is being mailed to homes throughout the 13th Congressional District.

Many of the major issues covered in the poll have carried over from last year, such as Vietnam, taxation, economic policy, air and water pollution, and the crises in the cities.

The questionnaire also deals with other critical concerns such as the situation in the Middle East, the Paris peace talks, and the movement to revise the Electoral College system.

"We are again using the automatic data processing cards, and I am hopeful that the response will be even greater than the excellent return last year," Rumfeld said.

THE 13TH DISTRICT poll received more than 20,000 replies in 1968.

The results of the 1969 poll will be released to the news media in the 13th District and also will be included in Rumfeld's next legislative report to residents of the district.

The 13th Congressional District of Illinois consists of the eight suburban townships of Elk Grove, Evanston, New Trier, Niles, Northfield, Palatine, Schaumburg, and Wheeling.

Eggs and Bunnies?

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—In case the children ask, Easter bunny first made the scene during a famine in Germany years ago.

A peasant woman put eggs in a nest outside. When the youngsters found them, a bunny hopped away. The boys and girls put two and two together, starting the rumor that rabbits bring Easter goodies.

Eggs got into the act centuries before. Ancients said these gifts from the hens stood for the new life returning to nature in spring.

Persians in that time before the scientific era liked the idea of eggs for another reason. They believed the earth had hatched from a giant egg.

In the name of Easter, American children roll eggs, hunt for eggs, dye eggs and have been known to get sick from eating too many.

But all that's tame compared to Easter happenings for children in some other lands.

Firepower and flowerpower combine to make Easter eve exciting for boys and girls in Florence. A cart loaded with firecrackers and posies pulls up to the cathedral door. Then, along a wire from the altar to the cart, a metal dove speeds along with a light for the fireworks' fuse.

Then it rushes back to the starting point. People think it's a good omen if the "dove" makes it to the altar again before the fireworks go off.

Bells rather than bunnies are supposed to bring Easter eggs in Belgium and France. Historians say the legend stems from the fact that in many places in those lands people believe bells go off to Rome on Good Friday and don't return until Easter. On the way back, they drop off eggs.

Young people in Romania carry lighted candles home from church Easter eve. At home they gaze into mirrors by this candlelight and try to see their future.

In Finland, Denmark and Norway some children trim birch branches with gay paper streamers and "beat" adults until they get hot cross buns or decorated eggs.

Some littering goes on in the Ukraine. Eggshells are tossed into streams to show the dead it is Easter.

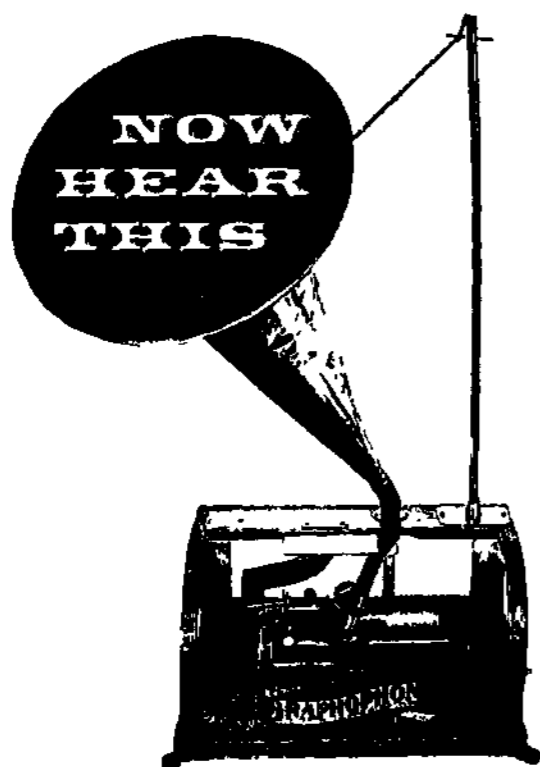

Young people in the Netherlands may be the craftiest of all when it comes to gathering Easter goodies. The week before Easter, all week, they collect eggs door to door.

Angling Reading

The return of spring has also brought the return of the Fishermen's Digest, with the seventh annual issue now available at sporting goods, book and department stores. Edited by angling expert Erwin A. Bauer, the new issue has 320 pages of articles and illustrations on where to fish, what tackle to use, tricks to help the fisherman, and a look at the future of fishing. The book, a companion to the popular Gun Digest, is also available for $4.95 from the Fishermen's Digest Association, 4540 W. Madison, Chicago, 60624.

Planting Trout

An experiment in stocking brown trout in Lake Michigan is underway by the Illinois Department of Conservation. The department put 10,000 browns into the lake, 5,000 each off Waukegan and Chicago's DuSable harbor. Eight inches long when stocked, the trout may grow to two pounds by next spring. They're expected to stay in relatively shallow water near the point of release, and to test the theory, the department is asking for cooperation. The fish were marked by clipping their fins, and any angler catching such a fish is asked to report the catch to the department.

Whopper Whitetails

The second annual big deer contest sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs produced some big deer, indeed. The champion was a 14-point buck, estimated at 378 pounds live weight, taken by Arizona Beggs Jr. in the Cache River bottom near Cypress. To make the trophy even more distinctive, Beggs took it with a 40 caliber ball fired by a black powder charge. In the junior division, the biggest buck was a six-point weighing 285 pounds, and taken by 18-year old Larry Snyder of Pittsfield in Pike County.

A Nature Teacher

State conservation director William L. Rutherford has named H. Dean Campbell as the department's supervisor of education. Campbell, director of the Sand Ridge Nature Center in the Cook County Forest Preserve District, begins the new job April 15. He's to establish a staff dedicated to help Illinois residents know more of their environment and its importance. Campbell's first specific job will be to publicize the development of the newly-acquired Goose Lake Prairie.

Until Proven Innocent

You're Presumed Guilty...

by MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

ORLANDO, Fla., UPI—There's a judge on the Boston Red Sox bench every day.

A jury, too, and that makes everything kind of cozy because the Red Sox pitchers like to have everything legal and proper every time they go to court.

It's a strange court. For one thing it's strictly private. No spectators or relatives allowed. No press, either. Unconventional, yes, but unbiased, no. Where the bias comes in is that any Red Sox pitcher hailed into this unique little court always is presumed guilty until proven innocent.

DARRELL JOHNSON, the Red Sox pitching coach, was talking about the whole thing here and he's something of an authority on the subject because he's the judge. He's the jury, too, so that gives you a rough idea how this peachy judicial system works.

"I think it works fine," Johnson said with a mild show of resentment when the topic of the court's constitutionality came up. "It's only for the pitchers on our club, nobody else. You wouldn't compare it with the Supreme Court or anything like that. It's more of a lower court. What we do is have a system of fines and all our fines are the same. One dollar, or one hog, as the fella call it. Say, for example, a pitcher is late getting out on the field from the clubhouse. That's one hog. Say he's not wearing his uniform right, like maybe his trouser leg is too far down. "That's another hog. There are all kinds of other infractions, too. Telling a lie costs you a hog and so does not getting a man over when you're supposed to sacrifice. Failure to execute fundamentals during a game, like not covering first base or backing up throws, also calls for a fine of one hog. It's the same if you're not paying attention to the game when you're on the bench or in the bullpen."

DICK WILLIAMS, the manager, is the high court and Johnson's never conflicts.

"Ours has nothing to do with the big things such as breaking curfew or something of that nature," said the Red Sox coach.

"Do you collect the fines personally?" somebody asked Johnson.

"No," he said, "Lee Stange and Jose Santiago do."

"Oh, enforcers eh?"

"I call 'em my collectors."

"Have they ever been fined?"

"Darn right they have. Santiago might have been the biggest contributor last year."

"WHERE DO YOU 'collectors' keep the money?"

"In a safety deposit box. They take account, too. The whole thing is right."

"You don't accept checks, do you?"

"Strictly cash. If you don't pay the day you're fined, it cost you double the next day."

"How does one of your pitchers know when he's fined?"

"THEY POLICE themselves and then let me know who has been fined. If the fella fined thinks he's not guilty, he can bring his case to Stange and Santiago but that doesn't do any good. They always say he's guilty."

"Is there any appeal after that?"

"Yes."

"To whom?"

"Me. That's when we go to 'court.' I always hope they bring it to court because then if they're found guilty it costs 'em double and I always find 'em guilty."

"Is there anything they can do about that?"

"Yeah, sue City Hall."

"DID ANYBODY on the staff manage to go through the season without being fined last year?"

"Nobody got away. Everybody contributed."

"How much did it come to?"

"About $700. We had a great party during an off day on the last road trip of the season. We did the thing up right with hors d'oeuvres and shrimp to begin with. It was a terrific party. No gate crashers or anything."

"Did all the pitchers attend?"

"Are you kidding?"

"Was there anything left over in the kitty?"

"Eighty bucks and we divvied it up."

"That means you're gonna have to start from scratch again this year, right?"

"No sweat," Johnson said, laughing. "We've got a pretty good nest egg going already."

Power Squadron Captures Trophy

Skokie Valley Power Squadron, a unit of the United States Power Squadrons, recently won the District 20 Educational Award, the Prince Henry the Navigator Trophy presented at the annual spring conference.

District 20 covers a five-state area: Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana and Missouri.

Winning the trophy is competitively vied for on the basis of members of the squadron taking advanced courses to those passing the courses in the District. Eighteen local squadrons of the USPS compete for the Trophy which is a circulating award.

Skokie Valley Power Squadron is a unit of the United States Power Squadrons, the world's largest educational organization dedicated to the teaching of the principles and practices of safe boating. The local squadron offers free classes in boating safety in the Glenbrook and Prospect Evening Adult Education Divisions in January and September. Membership in the local group is 214. Nationally, Power Squadron membership exceeds 73,000 persons in 370 local squadrons.

Hope may spring eternal, but it blooms only in April for Cub fans. It withers in May and dies in June. At least it has for 20 years.

But 1969 just could be the miracle year the Wrigley Field faithful have waited for. Some of the experts have actually picked the Cubs to win the National League pennant.

They may, but before Cub fans lose hearts and their heads, it might be a good idea to think back a bit to last year.

Remember Ken Holtzman, the new "Sandy Koufax"? He won 11 and lost 14 and had a pretty hefty ERA of 3.35. All year he cried about his arm not being in shape because of National Guard training. Chicago sportswriters picked up his whine, and echoed the alibi all year.

Kenny was a month late reporting to the Cubs, and he couldn't get his arm unbound by September? Ridiculous. It was his head and not his arm that caused the trouble.

During one stretch in August, he set opponents on their heels with three straight shutouts. This was the Holtzman Cub fans had waited for. And what was the reason for this amazing turn-about?

"I'm concentrating on every pitch now," said Ken. "Before, I was just playing catch with Randy." For three months he was playing catch? With that unbelievable statement, he placed himself in one of three dubious categories: Dumb, prima donna, or flake.

And a new year has not brought a new Holtzman. He's been rocked in every exhibition game but one when he hurled six strong shutout innings. Following that game Durocher was quoted as saying: "He was really concentrating out there today."

Would it be asking too much to expect a major league pitcher to concentrate every time he went to the mound?

Remember Ron Santo, the hustling, hard-hitting all-star? Instead of "Mr. Clutch," Ron was "Mr. Choke," striking out, popping up, hitting into game-ending double plays when all that was needed was a fly ball.

To err is human, though, and it would be a hard-hearted fan who couldn't forgive the Pizza-king a bad year at the plate. What's worrisome about Ron is not his bat, but his legs. There's a breakdown in communications somewhere — his brain doesn't seem to get the message from the rest of him that he isn't Ty Cobb.

Ron's on first, a pitch rolls a few feet away from the catcher. Every fiber, every muscle in his body yells, "No!", but his brain says "Go!" and off he tears like a bull moose pulling a freight. The throw usually beats him anywhere from 10 to 40 feet and Ron dusts himself off and walks slowly back to the dugout, really puzzled why he didn't make it.

And it's the same at any base under any circumstance. His base-running ability rates somewhere to the left of Hank Sauer, his daring to the right of Lou Brock. Enough to make anyone shudder.

Remember Adolfo Phillips, the next Willie Mays? Speed, power, color. Dolf had 'em all. All but heart, anyway.

When he blew one in the field, he faked an injury to cover up. When he was thrown at in the batter's box, he threw a tantrum. When he was moved around in the batting order, he pouted.

For the season, Dolf knocked in just 33 runs. He hit 13 homers and batted .341. Hardly a banner year.

Newspaper reports from Arizona said that Dolf was a new man this year, that the new addition to the Phillips family had instilled in him a sense of responsibility and a very serious determination to do well this year.

Which would be great news, if it's true. But the doubts remain and they're not likely to be resolved until someone blazes one under his chin. If he gets back in there and beats out a bunt, you'll know it's a new Dolf.

Yes, Cub fans, if Holtzman thinks and Santo stops and Dolf smiles, this could be the year. And if it is, I'll buy the beer. I've been waiting 20 years.

by PHIL KURTH

With dusk getting duskier, the drizzle that had dropped steadily from grayish skies grew in intensity until it was a full-fledged downpour.

This was the scene in Lombard late Tuesday afternoon when Vic Tomczak stepped to the plate, darkness closing in and the rain crashing around him.

Mike Dahlberg, who had walked the bases full, zeroed in on catcher Dennis Pulchinski and fired five fast balls through the rain. Tomczak, a man who seldom strikes out, listened in disbelief as the umpire's voice drowned out the pounding storm, "Strike Three."

And on this soggy note ended Lake Park's opening diamond encounter, a 2-0 loss to the Rams of Glenbard East. "We just weren't hitting the ball today," said a not-too-unhappy coach Norb Wesolowski — a malady to be expected in the early going with wintry weather virtually eliminating any pre-season batting practice for the Lancers.

Dahlberg experienced little difficulty with the visitors until the fifth and final inning of the rain-curtained contest.

After a walk to leadoff man Tom Milostan in the first, the Ram right-hander retired seven straight batters, striking out three of them, until Ralph Gallo (batting ninth in the order) rapped a sharp shot into right field for a single. Gallo reached second when Larry McDowell let the ball go past him in right but was nailed a moment later when he tried to take third on a pitch that bounced away from the catcher.

Tomczak walked to lead off the fourth and reached third when Jim Kulbeda overthrew first trying to double Vic after snaring a sizzling liner off the bat of Mike Kramarczyk. But Faust DeLazzer was retired on a sharp ground ball to second to end the inning.

Along with his five walks, Dahlberg fanned eight — including three in the final inning with darkness descending — and was touched for only one safety, Gallo's clean single.

The Rams rapped out six hits against Tim Schaper and Tom Stuckey and would have added to their run total but for some excellent defensive play by Lake Park.

In the first inning, Steve Daugherty cut down Bill McDaniel at the plate with a throw from left-center field. McDaniel had doubled and tried to score on a single by John Knudson. In the fourth, Tom Milostan made a diving stop of a ground ball headed toward center field and threw out McDaniel.

Even with errorless support afield, though, Schaper was touched for a run in the second and Stuckey a run in the fourth.

The winning run was scored by third baseman Ken White who led off the second frame with a walk. White went to second on a passed ball, held as Pulchinski whiffed, and went to third on a bloop infield hit by McDowell. Dahlberg followed with a line hit to right-center to bring in the season's first run.

McDowell greeted Stuckey with a line double to right-center on the first pitch, went to third on a wild pitch, and scored on an infield out.

MAN IN MOTION. Tom Johann of Wheeling is little more than a blur as he whizzes down the backstretch of four-lap relay at the Wildcat Relays. The 'Cats captured this event at 1:10.6 and went on to rule the 13-squad gathering for the first time in five years.

Road to Net Title Tougher

There's a common feeling in sports that the caliber of the opposition directly affects your own play. Simply stated: The better the competition, the better your performance.

Perhaps that's why Lake Park tennis coach Dan Hildebrandt talks rather enthusiastically about the better balance in the Tri-County this year.

"I think this is about the closest the conference has ever been. Fenton is tough, Ridgewood is tough, Wheaton North is always tough. Fenton lost almost no one, Ridgewood has their team almost intact, Wheaton North has a fine program — they have been first or second in sophomore competition for years, just like us.

"It's going to be a four-way race this year instead of the two-way race it has been."

You'd hardly think Hildebrandt would be so happy about it since the tennis title has been strictly a Wheaton North-Lake Park affair for two years. Both times the Lancers fell barely short of dethroning the Falcons.

This year the path to the crown will be triply tough with the Bisons and Rebels also blocking the way.

So Hildebrandt must feel confident that the better competition will bring out the best in his boys and he must also feel confident that his kids have the ability to go all the way.

If Tuesday's opener at West Leyden is any indication, his optimism may be well justified. The Lancers stepped from the starting gate with a 5-0 win over the Knights.

"The kids did real well except for one doubles team that finally got started after they were down match point.

Scott Werner and Cal Behrens (number one doubles) lost the first set (to Szymanski and Perry) 5-7 and were down 5-2 match point in the second. They finally won it 7-5 and took the last set 6-2.

"Last year we thought one of our big weaknesses was that we lost a lot of three-sets. I think our kids have worked harder to get into condition this year and I'm kind of happy to see the kids come back the way they did — it shows we're in pretty good shape for this early in the season."

Werner and Behrens are returning seniors Hildebrandt is counting heavily on, along with veteran Nick Snazuk and a balance of juniors.

Snazuk, a number one singles, whipped Arnussen 7-5, 6-4 and Hildebrandt says: "He made them close. He was ahead 4-1 and 4-0 and started experimenting.

"Behrens was conference champion at number three singles last year and Snazuk and Werner were our regular second doubles team. These guys are all about equal, and they can all play singles or doubles."

Chuck Zahara, sophomore number one singles champ a year ago, opened his varsity career with an impressive, 6-0, 6-0 win over Bruce Lloyd in number two singles.

John Robertson, sophomore number three singles champ last year, beat Leyden's Learnahan 6-1, 6-3, in his first varsity test at number three singles.

And John Fridlund and Eric Udd, number one doubles team on the sophomore squad last year, made it a clean sweep for Lake Park with 6-3, 6-3 sets over Quik and Lukassawicz.

"Jeff Mikes and Larry Pauly (both juniors) will be our number three doubles and Mark Friesel (a senior) might play some doubles this year. He was hurt in football and has been out of action, but he wants to play.

"Steve Elsberg who played on the varsity last year has been ill, but he's starting practice again now and I expect him to play some third singles. And we also have Randy Clark who played second singles for the sophomore team last year. With some hard work, he could develop."

Hildebrandt is confident of his '69 Lancers. "No doubt about it. They're a much more serious team, both mentally and physically, than they were last year, and they work harder. Desire and hard work and fun are still a part of tennis."

So is competition, and the Lancers are likely to get plenty of it.

Harper Net Coach Optimistic

When a coach's goal is a trip to the national finals with his team, you've got to call him an optimistic man.

That's just what Coach Roy Kearns is — optimistic. And he has reason to be as he prepares his Harper College tennis team for their first season ever.

The Hawks — weather permitting — will open up their campaign against Morton this Monday at 3 p.m. on the Recreation Park courts.

Kearns revealed his team's goal like this:

"We're looking at the season and pointing toward the Region IV and our conference meets. We hope to show well enough in those two contests to represent our area in the national finals."

The main cause for Kearns' hopefulness is Bill Von Boeckman. He lettered all four years at Arlington High School — the perennial local and state powerhouse.

"Bill looks like our No. 1 man," said Kearns. Then he listed his second through fifth men:

Luig Mueller from Fremd, Steve Engler from Mundelein, Russell Berry from St. Viator and Vince Engler, brother of Steve.

Other hopefuls on the team are Mike Wever from Forest View, Ron McGregor from Maine West, Dave Garland from Palatine and Marion Gizella from Maine West.

Presently, the Hawks are competing for the doubles spots. The Northern Illinois Junior College League (NIJCL) rules states that those who play in singles competition cannot compete in doubles play.

The Hawks have gotten in some good practices which was another reason for his optimism:

"We enjoyed that good weather at the beginning of March and we accomplished quite a bit I feel."

Presently, the NIJCL only allows two singles and one doubles match in a meet. However, Kearns points out that next year the rule will be changed and the league will be playing three singles and two doubles. So in this spring's meets, as a way of preparing for next year, they will be playing by next year's rules although the extra matches won't count.

Track Dual Cancelled

Harper College's outdoor track opener with Joliet last Tuesday afternoon was cancelled. The Joliet track was not in good enough shape to hold the dual meet, according to Harper coach Bob Notan.

The meet is to be rescheduled sometime in the future, Notan said.

The Hawks' next meet will be next Friday at Sauk Valley. Also competing will be Prairie State. The hosting school is located in Dixon.

Conant Wins On Links

Conant's golf team won its opening match of the 1968 season by a score of 163-173 over Addison Trail Tuesday at Golden Acres in Hoffman Estates.

Rich Orwerth shot a 40 to lead Conant and Rich Johnson, Pat Dwyer and Bruck Rucks each shot a 41. Chris Dilger fired a 43.

Decisive Weekend?

This has to be a week for the challengers to gain some ground in the two Paddock Classic Traveling leagues.

With the second half races roaring to a windup the leaders could just about wrap things up with explosive performances Saturday evening.

Buick-in-Evanston owns a big eight point lead in the men's division, but with seven points passed out each Saturday night, there could be some surprises with a Buick slump.

The leaders will tangle with Morton Pontiac Saturday at Gunnell's Lanes, and Morton currently finds itself in a battle for second.

That struggle for second place honors is extremely interesting with only seven points separating five clubs.

Grease Oil Co., which meets Des Plaines

Bowl Saturday, Striking Lanes, and Langlo's Refinishing are tied for second, but Striking and Langlo's collide this weekend.

Maitre d' Restaurant and Elk Grove V & S Hardware will round out the Saturday competition at Gunnell's.

The women will assemble at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights for the 6:30 p.m. bowling.

Doyle's Striking Lanes and Girard - Bruns, the two pace-setters, will both face formidable foes.

Doyle's - Striking, hoping to rebound from a loss last weekend, will tangle with Bank of Elk Grove at 6:30, and Girard - Bruns will take on Aloha-Duchess Beauty Salons.

In other matches it'll be Des Plaines Lanes vs. Lattaf Chevrolet and Morton Pontiac vs. Suna Bowl.

SKOKIE VALLEY Power Squadron's Past Commander Frank G. Malone, 735 Morris Drive, Palatine, holds District 20 Educational Award The Prince Henry the Navigator Trophy. Malone has served the United States Power Squadrons for over five years. Malone is now District 20 Secretary, and is serving on the National echelon educational committee.

Player Draft Set In Elk Grove Ball

Elk Grove Boys Baseball, Inc. will hold its annual Player Draft at 8 p.m., April 19, at the Salt Creek Country Club.

Managers of 37 baseball teams will be taking part in the drafting of boys from last season's instructional baseball, boys who are new residents, and boys who did not play on a team last year.

Grove Jr. High Dominates Tourney

The District 214 junior high school wrestling programs are getting stronger. That was the consensus of opinion following the district's annual wrestling tournament last Saturday at Forest View High School. The tourney was sponsored by the Arlington Heights VFW Post 961.

"I thought the caliber of wrestling was outstanding for junior high students," said Dave Theefeld, head wrestling coach at Forest View who helped supervise the meet.

Theefeld said that the meet was a great success, adding, "It was the largest number of entries we've ever had. Two hundred and twenty-six boys entered... that's 60 some better than we had turn out last year."

Elk Grove Junior High captured the team trophy in a runaway performance. The school took seven first places to register 109 points — the nearest competitors finished 64 points behind!

The rest of the team standings went like this:

Jack London (45), Holmes and St. Peter's (42 each), Miner (25), South (18), St. Emily's (15), Lincoln (12) and St. Collette's (4).

The runnersup — Jack London Junior High — also received a trophy for the school.

The most outstanding grappler of the meet was Craig Mann of Elk Grove. Mann, who wrestled at the 97-pound class — pinned four of his five opponents on his way to the championship. He also set a tourney record for the fastest pin in any weight class — 10 seconds flat! The tourney has been held since 1954.

Besides Mann, these were the individual winners:

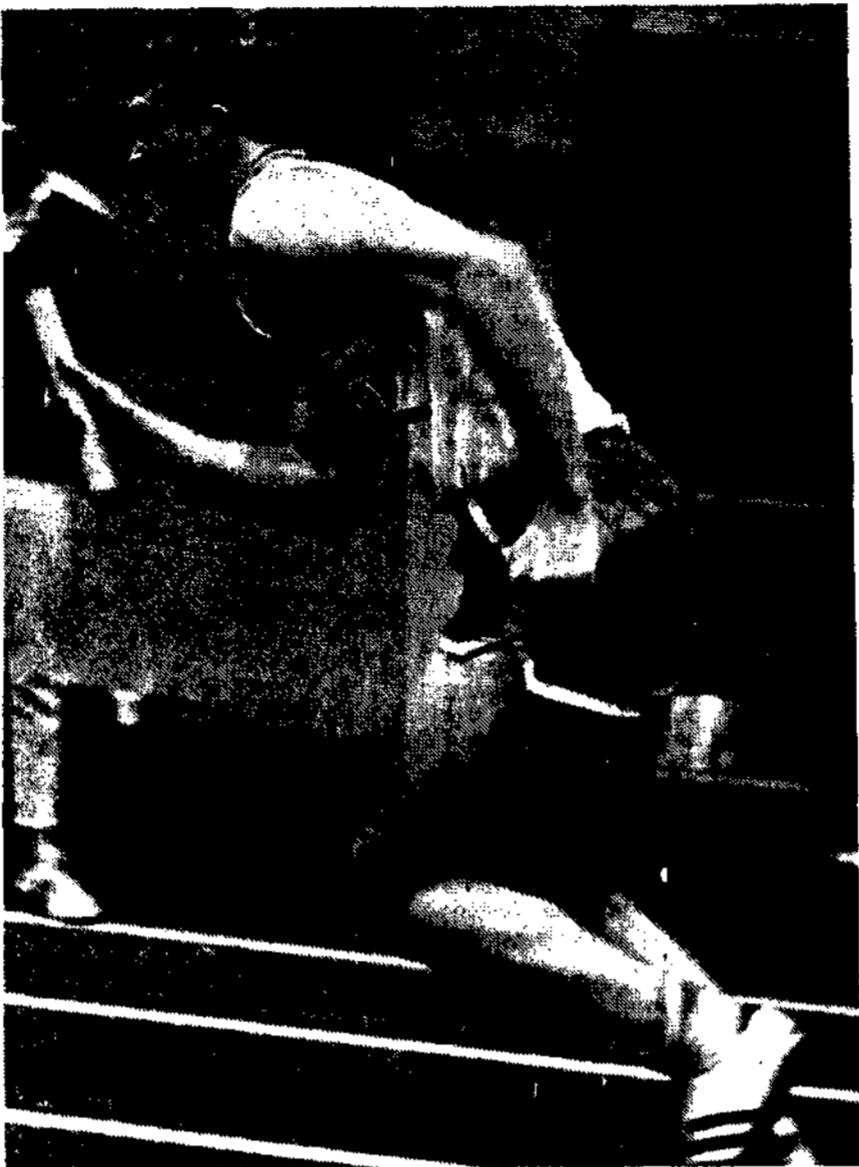

St. Peter's Frischman at 65 pounds, Rich Morris of Grove (70), Tom Evans of Grove (77), Bob Walser of Grove (83), Tony Martinez of Jack London (90), Louis Ciarizio of Grove (105), Jim Waldron of Miner (112), Paul Reed of London (118), Rick Slezak of London (125), Frank Frankini of Grove (135), Mike Sutter of Grove (145), Greg Brinkman of Holmes (155), Steve Dolphin of Holmes (165) and Sloan, heavyweight, unattached.

"I think the coaches and the physical education instructors in our junior high program should be complimented in their work," Theefeld said. "And a special thanks should go out to those people who helped in the tournament."

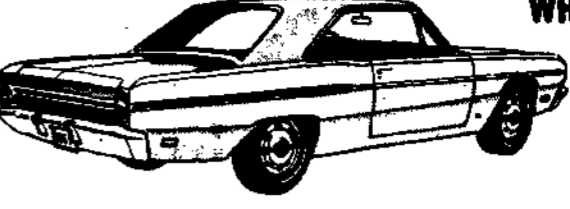

CHAMPIONSHIP RESULTS
65 Pounds — Frischman (St. Peter's) beat Walsh (Holmes), 14-3
70 — Morris (Grove) beat Egeadal (unattached), 11-0
77 — Evans (Grove) beat Fenderson (Miner), 7-0
83 — Walser (Grove) beat Millay (London), 5-2
90 — Martinez (London) beat Whitnel (South), 6-0

97 — Mann (Grove) pinned Rohn (Dempster), 27 seconds
105 — Ciarizio (Grove) pinned Semar (Lincoln), 1:39
112 — Waldron (Miner) beat Lanham (Holmes), 8-6
118 — Reed (London) beat Limlokren (Grove), 1-0
125 — Slezak (London) beat Fritz (South), 7-0
135 — Frankini (Grove) beat Hellstrand (St. Peter's), 8-6
145 — Sutter (Grove) pinned Grear (St. Emily's), 1:14
155 — Brinkman (Holmes) beat Nelson (St. Peter's), 10-7
165 — Dolphin (Holmes) pinned Steinbock, 2:30
Heavyweight — Sloan (unattached) beat Reiss (South), 7-0

DETERMINATION. Arlington's Mike Hadley shows grim determination to catch the leaders in one of the relays at Friday's Wildcat Relays at Wheeling. The Cardinal foursome failed to place in the relay, and the Arlington track squad also failed to take the meet's team title, with host Wheeling netting first and the Cards in second.

The Intermediate Division entry of the Northwest Suburban 'Y took home the first place trophy in the state competition, but the local swimmers didn't fare as well in the overall standings. B R Ryall YMCA reigns as the 1969 state champ after showing that produced 583 points. Champaign-McKinley YMCA was second with 494½ and East St. Louis third with 488½.

Top individual performance by an area swimmer was turned in by Jemma Allen, who took first in the 50 yard Midget backstroke with a 36.3 clocking.

Sue Stahnke placed second in the Prep 50 yard breaststroke after making it to sixth in her individual medley event.

Kathy Dalton of the Intermediates placed second in the 50 free with a 27.2

FV Thinclads End Long Losing Skid

A long dry spell ended on a wet but happy note last Tuesday night at Forest View.

The Falcon track team which hadn't enjoyed an outdoor victory since the 69-58 decision over Conant on May 2, 1967, finally tasted success.

They ended a nine dual meet losing streak by beating Hersey, 77-50, as the rain poured down near the conclusion of their first outdoor meet.

Forest View dominated the meet taking eight individual firsts and both relay events. Hersey registered five firsts.

Both schools had double winners — Rich Weigman for the Falcons and Skip Peterson for the Huskies. Weigman took both weight events with a 43½ in the shot put and a 117.9 in the discus.

Peterson captured the 100 yard dash in 10.4 and the 180 low hurdles in 20.4.

The other individual winners for the hosts were:

Mark James in the 120 high hurdles (6:1), Tom Vaughn in the 880 yard run (2:09), Dan Bell in the 440 dash (55.4), Mike Shanon in the 120 dash (23.5), Rick Polte in the long jump (17.9) and Don Hammer in the pole vault (10.0).

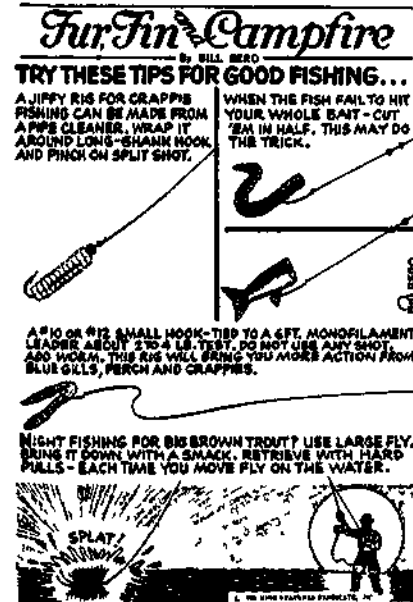

For the guests these thinclads made off with the top spots.

Greg Gawlik in the two mile run (10:31), Don Spry in the high jump (5-8) and Tom Klingner in the mile run (5:09).

Both Falcon relay teams won — the 880 crew registered a 1:56 compared to the Huskies' 1:39, and the mile relay four-some notched a 3:48 with the Huskie team having a 3:53.

Hersey's next meet will be this Tuesday at Elk Grove. Forest View won't be competing again until a week from this Tuesday at Fremd.

On The Pro Tour

Les Zikes, Jr., manager of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights, was only 26 pins shy of cashing in the recent $45,000 New Orleans Lions Open.

Zikes finished with 4715 pins for 24 games, and the final cash spot was 4741 at Pelican Lanes in New Orleans.

This marked the final official stop for Zikes on the Professional Bowlers Association Tour for 1968-69.

The winter tour ends this week in Akron, Ohio with the Firestone Tournament of Champions. The Saturday finals will be telecast nationally by ABC-Television, with a $25,000 first prize going to the winner. The finals will be aired from 2:30-4:00 p.m.

Skating Seminar Scheduled

The Amateur Skating Association of Illinois, in conjunction with the many member clubs, including the Mount Prospect Skating Club, is sponsoring a Skating Seminar at the Northbrook Sports Complex on Pfingsten Road, just north of Techny Road in Northbrook.

The Seminar is scheduled to start on Saturday, April 5, continuing every Saturday until May 10, 1969, with the exception of April 12, 1969.

The sessions will be from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon, for a charge of 50 cents per hour.

The sessions will be conducted by professional skating instructors and will be to teach anyone interested in learning how to skate. Fundamentals will be stressed, with emphasis on fitting skates, balance, and stroking.

Anyone interested in learning how to skate, and particularly those who may be interested in learning to speed skate, should plan to attend. Top flight intermediate and senior skaters will assist the professional instructors in the program.

Other than the one dollar charge for the two-hour session, the only other requirement is that the student be a member of the Amateur Skating Association of Illinois. Registration can be completed at the rink for a one-time charge of four dollars which includes insurance. All interested children in the Northwest Suburban Area are welcome to attend these sessions.

Contact Robert Vehe at CL 3-4191 in Mount Prospect, if you have any questions.

Grove Drops Net Opener

It was a cold, windy afternoon. The kind of day when a visiting team would just as soon stay home and have the meet rescheduled.

Elk Grove was the visiting team for a dual meet opener with Barrington, but the Bronchos decided to hold the meet.

The decision paid off handsomely as they captured their first victory of the new season by a 5-0 count.

However, the Grenadiers' lifeliner wasn't all a loss as the frosh-soph team turned the varsity score around for a 5-0 triumph of its own.

This is how the varsity singles action went:

Scott Russell beat Jay Thomas (6-0, 6-0) for the No. 1 title. Jay Morgan turned back Pete Tullio (2-6, 6-0, 6-2) in No. 2 action, and Bob Hofmann bested Jack Carriglio (6-4, 6-1).

In No. 1 doubles the team of Greg Russell and Bill Branham defeated Andy Lesnak and Ramesmith (6-1, 6-0). The second doubles combination of John Fjortuft and Rich Schauflier had to work hard before putting away Dave Griffith and Jerry Surdyski (6-4, 6-4).

Capturing singles wins for the Falcon frosh-soph were these three sophomores — Pat Massey (6-1, 6-1), Mark Hopkins (6-1, 6-2) and Ken Siebold (6-2, 6-0).

In doubles it was Al Lewandowski and Steve Maresso teaming up (6-1, 3-6, 6-3 and Chris Lesnak and Craig McPherson matching talents (6-0, 6-0).

New head coach Ken Rundquist said the Barrington team was plenty tough, but added that it was over now and the boys were concentrating on their home opener a week from Saturday against three other opponents — Fenton, Addison Trail and St. Charles. The quadrangular — "that's the one we're after," said Rundquist.

Countryside Atmosphere . . . with Downtown Convenience

The unusual aerial view shown above depicts one of the area's newest subdivisions . . . a group of outstanding homes that offer the airy charm of the suburban countryside, yet . . . only minutes away from a downtown village, schools, shops and the tollway systems.

As people move into such subdivisions, they also move out due to unforeseeable business transfers. When such transfers occur, the owner usually turns to a Realtor to handle the transaction.

Local Realtors are experts in these matters . . . they understand the requirements of the "new home" transferee and they deliver quick, trouble free service to the seller and the buyer.

The Paddock Real Estate section has many homes of this type for sale by Realtors. If you're buying or selling a newer home . . . it pays to deal with a professional Realtor.

The Men from Merrill Lynch are holding a free investment lecture course

If you're a new investor, or if you're thinking about investing, you owe it to yourself to take Merrill Lynch's free investment course.

In simple, easy-to-understand language, you'll learn what stocks and bonds are, why people buy them, how big dividends are, how much stocks are worth, why they change in price, and other basic information essential to the investor.

In addition, you'll find out how the New York Stock Exchange operates, what brokers do for their customers, and how to buy and sell securities. A review of the stock market today, where it stands, and where it might be heading will be included.

You'll also hear a discussion of specific stocks which our Research Department views as attractive. And you'll learn how to plan an investment strategy based on your specific needs and objectives. Naturally, there will be plenty of time for questions about the market in general or about specific securities.

The course is being held:

at the Holiday Inn
Rand Road, Mount Prospect on three consecutive Thursdays
April 10, 17 and 24
(YOU ATTEND ALL SESSIONS)
starting at 7:30 P.M. sharp

First National Realigns

First National Bank of Des Plaines has announced a new alignment of responsibilities among its principal officers. Maxwell D. Sawyer, president, will continue as chief executive officer of the bank, but will devote more time to forward planning, area redevelopment, expansion and diversification of bank activities and services, and matters of general bank policy.

Arthur Werdebaugh Is Bell Consultant

Arthur C.
Werdebaugh

Arthur C. Werdebaugh Jr., 51 Woodland Drive, Barrington, has been promoted by Illinois Bell Telephone Co. from account salesman to communications consultant in the Arlington Heights marketing department. In his new assignment he will handle the telephone accounts for Ampex Corp., Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., and Northwest Community, St. Alexius and Condell Memorial hospitals.

A graduate of Palatine High School, Werdebaugh studied at Northwestern University and Lake Forest College. He joined the company in 1960 as a station installer in Barrington.

SUBSEQUENTLY he was promoted to communications maintenanceman, installation repairman, commercial representative and salesman. For two years he served with the U.S. Navy Submarine School, based in Key West, Fla.

Werdebaugh and his wife, Shirley, are the parents of five children. He attends the Village Church in Barrington; takes an active part in the Christian Service Brigade; is a member of the Illinois Bell's Suburban Speakers' Bureau; works with home bound and handicapped students; and arranges teleconferences and handles educational communications requirements for Harper College and the high schools in the northwest suburbs.

Arthur R. Weiss, executive vice president, will assume the new designation of chief administrative officer and will be responsible for day to day bank operations. Replacing Weiss as head of commercial loans will be John W. Heddens Jr., vice president.

"These changes have been made in response to the pressures caused by the tremendous growth of the bank in recent years," Sawyer stated. "We have found it necessary to decentralize authority and decision making throughout our organization in order to continue to service our customers' banking needs efficiently and conveniently."

"WHILE STEPS have been taken in the past to organize our various activities along departmental lines, we now have found it advisable to similarly streamline the executive function which simply requires too much time for one individual to handle efficiently."

"This is especially true since the bank has decided to take a very active role in community redevelopment which we feel is so vital for the future prosperity of all local citizens and businesses."

Other top level changes include placing William E. Staat, vice president, in charge of real estate loans succeeding Arthur H. Behrens, who recently retired.

Jack E. Lavold, cashier, has been given responsibility for the operations department, thus filling the spot created by Heddens' change in duties. Continuing in their present functions heading other departments of bank activity are Robert F. Bruhn, vice president in charge of installment loans; Frederick F. Webster Jr., vice president — marketing; James S. Sheldon, vice president, trust department; and Bruce W. Phillips, assistant vice president, data processing.

AN EXTENSIVE remodeling program is now under way on the bank's second floor which will accompany the new alignment of official duties. The president's offices will be moved to an upstairs suite of rooms, which will include a conference area for bank, community, or other business use.

Also being prepared are enlarged quarters for the rapidly growing trust department in the east end of the building.

BUNNY GREETER: Eldon Ray, manager of the Golf Mill store of J. C. Penney Co., and chairman of the merchants' committee, greeted the April 5 visitor to the center.

A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., Arlington Heights, a subsidiary of A. O. Smith Corporation, Milwaukee, was awarded a first place trophy for the "most informative exhibit" at the recent National Farm Machinery Show in Louisville.

More than 225 farm machinery and equipment manufacturers from throughout the United States participated in the show.

The A. O. Smith exhibit, "Expanded Acres," consisted of a 20 by 30 foot Harvestore feed storage and processing system, a model farm layout, and a presentation displaying the economic difference of operating a conventional farm and the Harvestore farm.

Union Camp Buys Branigar

Union Camp Corp. has announced it has reached an agreement in principle with the stockholders of the Branigar Organization, Inc., Medinah-based land development company, to purchase 75 per cent of the stock of that firm for an undisclosed amount of cash.

Under the terms of the agreement the present management of the Branigar Organization will continue to operate the company as in the past, with Harvey Branigar as its president.

With annual sales of approximately $8 million, Branigar has for many years been in the business of developing and selling land and in resort and country club management. More recently its activities have included large second home or resort developments together with the creation of living amenities such as large man-made lakes and community centers such as the Indian Lakes Country Club in Bloomington.

In making the announcement, Alexander Calder Jr., president of Union Camp, noted that "the proposed acquisition will mark our first entry into the residential home site industry. It is a logical move for us in view of our extensive land holdings. Since we also manufacture dimensional lumber, sheathing, plywood and other building components," he added, "the new organization will extend our capabilities to further diversify in the shelter field. The Branigar Organization's wide range of skills in the second home and resort management field should prove invaluable in accelerating programs for developing properties owned by our company."

With annual sales of over $383 million in 1968, Union Camp is one of the major producers of forest products. It owns or controls 1,660,000 acres of land extending through six southeastern states.

The Russell Sandbergs of Elk Grove Village improved their property with the Robert L. Nelson, Realtor sign.

Mr. & Mrs. Russell Sandberg and their lovely baby daughter enjoyed their attractive, comfortable ranch home at 456 Lilac, in beautiful Elk Grove Village. But like so many suburban executives, Mr. Sandberg was suddenly being transferred to the DeVry Corporation in New Jersey.

The Sandberg's realized that they would be quite busy with the details of such an important move so they wisely relieved themselves of the problem of selling their home.

They of course wanted fast, convenient action but they still wanted to realize the best price for their prideful home.

The Sandberg's listed their home through the Robert L. Nelson, Realtors Elk Grove Office and within 2 short weeks, the home was sold by Chuck Flood, one of the 36 professional Nelson, Realtors salespeople. The Robert L. Nelson, Realtors sales standard of selecting qualified buyers, improves the property. If you're thinking of selling...

Edison Sets Sales High

Record electric sales of over 5.8 billion kilowatt hours highlighted Commonwealth Edison Company's activities in the north and northwest suburbs last year.

Les Milligan, vice-president of Edison's northern division, made the announcement in a year end report on the electric company's local activities. The division serves over 360,000 customers in the area extending from Chicago's northern city limits to the Wisconsin state line and from Lake Michigan west through half of McHenry County.

"Sales last year in northern division increased more than 630 million kilowatt hours over the 1967 total of 5.2 billion kilowatt hours," Milligan said. "The 12 per cent gain posted in our area during 1968 led all other divisions in the Edison system."

The local Edison official said heavy demand during the summer months provided a hefty boost in annual electric sales as customers used record amounts of electricity to operate air conditioners, refrigeration and other cooling devices.

Edison provides electric service in a 17,000-square mile area," Milligan said. While the northern division covers only about 9 per cent of the company's total square mile service area, it has nearly 15 per cent of its electric customers and kilowatt hour sales. In 1968 the division gained over 12,000 new customers."

Edison invested nearly $12 million to improve and expand electric facilities in northern division.

A MAJOR PART of the 1968 construction program was the installation of 13 huge transformers at community switching centers. The combined capacity of these transformers is equivalent to the power required by a city of almost 300,000 persons.

The transformers are now in service at power centers serving over a dozen communities. Among them are Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Evanston, Glenview, Palatine, Park.

Edison also continued its program of upgrading distribution lines throughout the Ridge, Schaumburg and Wheeling division. Nearly 95 miles of lines were tripled in capacity from 4,000 to 12,000 volts to provide for customers future power requirements. The stepped-up distribution system has been extended to almost every section of the division.

Milligan noted that last year the Atomic Energy Commission issued construction permits for the utility's Zion station, about 40 miles north of the Loop on Lake Michigan. With its twin 1.1 million kilowatt nuclear units, will be one of the largest nuclear stations in the nation. Its first unit is scheduled for service in 1972 with the second unit to go on the line a year later.

THIS EXPANDABLE bi-level, the Concord, is one of five model homes at "Northgate," a development by Miller Builders, Inc. in Arlington Heights. The three or four-bedroom home features a huge "dormitory" bedroom ideal for the growing family.

Rapid Sales at Northgate

A rapid rate of home sales has been experienced by Miller Builders, Inc. in the eight month old Northgate subdivision in Arlington Heights. Sheldon Lazar, sales manager for the highly diversified building firm's Northgate subdivision, said that 150 house contracts have been processed since the opening of the subdivision in July of 1968.

"We attribute the success of this particular subdivision to many varied factors," said Lazar, "not the least of which is its location in the popular suburb of Arlington Heights. Situated in the heart of a rapidly expanding northwest suburban area, Arlington Heights beckons families whose work lies in the many offices and plants that are located just minutes from their homes."

Three of the Northgate models are three-bedroom bi-levels: The Saratoga, priced at $38,950, with big bow bay windows highlighting both the living room and the colonial style 16 foot kitchen; the Jamestown, costing $35,950, with living and dining "L" and a 23 foot paneled recreation room; and the Connecticut, at $39,450, with a balcony staircase to the sleeping level and vaulted beamed ceiling in the living room.

Other models are designed for the growing family: the two-story Normandy, with four or five bedrooms, a colonial styled home priced at $41,950; and the Concord, an expandable bi-level at $40,950, which offers three or four bedrooms, one a huge 25 foot dormitory size room.

All Northgate homes have two-car garages, wall-to-wall carpeting, built-in oven and range and dishwasher and disposal in the kitchens.

Celebrate Joys of Easter

ALTHOUGH EASTER is primarily a religious holiday, children look forward to it every year as a time of Easter bunnies and egg hunts.

by JUDY MORRIS
"Christ is risen!" This joyful cry will be sung and spoken many times this weekend as local churches celebrate Easter with special services.
The young people of four area churches will present a cooperative Easter sunrise service at the First Presbyterian Church of Itasca.

SIX ADDISON churches will observe Good Friday today with a community worship service held at the United Presbyterian Church. The 7 p.m. service will center on the seven parts of the "Passion of our Lord."
The Addison United Presbyterian Church will hold Easter services at 8 and 10 a.m. Sunday.

Two Townships Approve Budgets

The annual town meetings in Addison and Bloomingdale Townships proved again to be somewhat less popular than a Beatie concert in Yankee Stadium or even a Little League baseball game.
About one out of every 1,000 persons in the two townships with a combined population of about 100,000 showed up Tuesday night to pass town and road budgets.

The estimated 100 persons voted on combined proposals totaling about $1 million.
In Bloomingdale Township, approximately 65 persons were on hand in the Bloomingdale Central School gym to witness a test of party politics between the winning and losing candidates.

Salary hikes for Bloomingdale Township officials were included in the approval of the $105,520 town fund.
The general assistance (relief) fund is $42,250 which includes such items as food, rent, clothing and medical care for needy persons. A total $8900 was approved for the Illinois Municipal Retirement fund for township employees.

The road and bridge fund totaled $170,100 for such items as tree removal and construction and maintenance of roads. The permanent hard road fund for maintenance was set at $113,000. Another $38,000 was marked for the construction or repair of bridges at the joint expense of the county.

slated for construction or repair of bridges at the joint expense of the county.
An expensive item in the road fund is oiling of roads which is about $80,000. Construction of roads is estimated to cost $29,000 while the maintenance of roads is about $200,000.

Rossi To Get Recount

by RICHARD BARTON
Edward Rossi, Democratic loser in Bloomingdale Township's supervisor race, filed a discovery petition yesterday afternoon to get a recount of Tuesday's ballots.
He lost by only 13 votes in the 3,700 vote contest.
Republicans swept all contests in both

Addison and Bloomingdale Township over Democrats and non-partisans.
Rossi's formal request for a recount was filed with the township clerk's office.
According to Chapter Six of the Handbook for Illinois Township Officers, within five days after the declaration of the results of an election, any candidate who received at least 95 per cent as many votes as the successful candidate may petition the town clerk for recount of certain precincts or districts.
The fee is $5 per precinct.

THE TOWN CLERK reconvenes the canvassing board with a three-day notice to the successful candidate. The board recounts the ballots.
"The result of this discovery is not to be certified, not to affect the prior canvass, not to be binding on any election contest, nor is it any prerequisite to such a contest," the handbook states.
Rossi therefore cannot gain election from this recount action since the original canvass held Wednesday morning has already been finalized.

The canvass board members are incumbent officials.
Results remained the same in Rossi's race, according to the canvass, but changed the count in other races. The White is in satisfactory condition with a fractured arm.

election was not affected by any major extent.

Any further attempts to change the results of the supervisor's race will have to be handled through court action.

Atty. Herbert Loftus of Addison drew up the petition.

"THE CANVASS WAS handled privately," Robert Burt, defeat Democratic candidate for town clerk, said.

"They are running the township like a private club and this has to be stopped."

Burt claimed the Democrats had requested to be informed of the canvass meeting, but weren't.

Burt lost his bid for election to Republican incumbent Leonard Norberg by about 400 votes. Norberg totaled over 2,000.

In Addison Township, Republicans Elbert Droegemueeller of Itasca and Donald Prindle of north Elmhurst won easily over Democrats Sid Ceaser of Bensenville and Harry Bendtsen Jr. of Wood Dale.

Droegemueeller totaled 3,318 votes, Prindle, 3,156; Ceaser, 2,243, and Bendtsen, 2,187.

Republican Town Clerk Robert Mittel of Wood Dale had a vote of 2,789 which carried him to victory over Democrat Joyce M. Kessler of Addison with 1,904 and non-

5 Car Crash On Ill. 53

One man was hospitalized and a woman treated and released at St. Alexius Wednesday afternoon after a five-car accident on Illinois 53 between Bryn Mawr and Ardmore Street, Itasca.

Itasca police said Roy J. White, 49, of Elmhurst, will be charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, carrying open liquor in his vehicle and driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

White is in satisfactory condition with a fractured arm.

According to police reports, White's car started a chain reaction of rear-end collisions with four other cars stopped in traffic.

Also injured was Teena J. Callendu, 21, of Stone Park. She was treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Miss Callendu was driving the car hit by White's car. Her car was undamaged.

Also slightly injured were the drivers of the three other cars. They were Gloria A.

Carlburg, 24, of Elmwood Park; Thomas E. Sweda, 34, of Lombard, and Victor Ghilardi, 49 of Lombard.

The last three cars in the chain reaction accident were drivable.

New Auditors to Get $10 More per Month

JUNE LANDMEIER is one of the organizers of the Golden Fellowship. (X)

Help for Aged

by TOM JACHIMIEC
It is easy for the elderly to be overlooked in the suburbs, especially when most activities are oriented to youths and adults.
June Landmeier of Des Plaines felt just about the same way years ago, spending her time working with young people. Since 1962, however, she has been devoting her time to the older generation, known as senior citizens.
A former recreation director at the Bensenville Home, she has been instrumental in starting seven Golden Fellowship groups for the elderly in the Chicago area.
"I worked with young people for many years," said Miss Landmeier, "and saw the need for a group for the elderly. Some were dropping out of the mainstream of life, and this disturbed me. I began to work with this age group and fell in love with it."
The Golden Fellowship in Bensenville meets the third Thursday of every month at one of four churches — Peace, Immanuel, St. John's, and United Methodist.
On the fourth Thursday of the month an outing usually is planned, Miss Landmeier said.

On May 15 and 16, the group is going to a tulip festival in Holland, Mich. Only a handful of members from Bensenville will make the trip, but they'll be joined by persons from other communities, she said.
The Bensenville group's next meeting will be at 11 a.m., April 17, at Immanuel Church. A representative of WTTW television will present a slide show and talk about the station's annual auction.
A high school choir from Fenton High will perform at the April 24 meeting at United Methodist Church.

$66,100 Post Office Planned For Addison

The U. S. Post Office Department is planning to build a $66,100 post office at the northwest corner of Church Street and Lincoln Avenue in Addison, according to Finley McGrew, a spokesman for U. S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Elmhurst. McGrew said he did not know when construction would begin.

Annex Draft Under Way

A pre-annexation agreement is being drafted for concurrence by Fenton High School Dist. 100 and the Village of Wood Dale for annexation of a high school site immediately east of the present junior high tract on North Wood Dale Road.
William Redmond and Samuel La Sosa, attorneys for the two taxing bodies, are preparing the pre-annexation agreement which would bring the land parcels within the corporate boundaries of Wood Dale.
Council members already have given the go-ahead to La Sosa to incorporate into the agreement provisions for requested water and sewer facilities, and the waiving of annexation and all other building fees.
Fenton board members had indicated their desire to obtain "an absolute guarantee" that the village would provide adequate sewer and water facilities to the north or west property line "when needed by the time construction starts on a high school building."
Village officials, however, are suggesting a "minimum guarantee" calling for a time limit of one year from signing of the ordinance for installation of the sewer and water facilities.

Village Beat Room for Thought

by SYD JAMIESON
The Wood Dale village manager screening committee last month approved with reluctance a recommendation to go along with the wishes of the village council on the employment of a village administrator.
The qualified endorsement was followed by another committee recommendation that the council call an immediate referendum for the establishment of a village-manager council form of government.
Voters are well aware that the April, 1967 referendum on the managerial form of government won by a 2-1 margin but has now been declared invalid.
The committee, by reiterating its previous recommendation for a referendum, has endeavored to apprise officials that village manager candidates have bluntly expressed disfavor on being hired under existing provisions.
THE VILLAGE had a village manager ordinance, now changed to village administrator. Candidates for village manager, however, preferred to have their jobs established by referendum, giving them more power than if established by ordinance.
For one thing if established by referendum, it would take another referendum to repeal that which has already been established, providing there was no contest on validity of the election as experienced in 1967.
A favorable vote of the people would also keep the managerial form of government under a more stable tenure than that dictated by the ordinance passed by the council.
The complete switch by the council recently to amend its present ordinance by simply replacing the title of "village manager" for that of "village administrator," has not provided the implementation desired by the screening committee.
SUCH ACTION MAY have expedited

employment of a qualified individual to take care of a multitude of duties now confronted by the council members, but it does not appear the council is relinquishing much by sanctioning the recruitment of a village administrator.
An ordinance can be rescinded or repealed with a majority vote of the commissioners. Under a referendum it is not that easy.
Meanwhile, the screening committee has given the council more room for thought in other areas — particularly to a possible changeover from Wood Dale's outdated commission form of government.
A village board of trustees with staggered terms of office for elected officials has been suggested as compared to the single four-year term now experienced for all commissioners.
Some committee members suggest that if the commission form is to remain, then the council should be expanded to perhaps seven commissioners and a mayor to keep abreast of Wood Dale's burgeoning population.
THESE WERE SOME of the ideas spelled out at a special joint meeting between the council and the committee called by Mayor Hansen on March 17.
The interest of the commissioners was so high that none showed up to hear what the committee had to say.
Only Hansen made it a point to meet with the advisory group.
Maybe the citizenry should petition for a new referendum on the managerial form of government and let the chips fall where they may.
They spoke once before on the question and only because of a legal technicality was the referendum declared invalid.
If the referendum had been valid, it would have replaced the ordinance and provided the screening committee with more ammunition in recruiting qualified candidates.

GOLDEN FELLOWSHIP members who attended a recent Bensenville Village Board meeting include, from left, Mrs. Mollie Heubert, Mrs. Anna Borgardt, and Mrs. Emma Beeken. Groups meet regularly at four churches in town. Members come from various communities in north DuPage County, including Bensenville, Roselle, and Bloomingdale.

Diocese Tells School Costs

The Diocese of Joliet has spent an average of $251.66 per pupil at the elementary level this past academic year. This is $36.49 higher than in 1967-68, according to recent statistics.
At the high school level, the per-pupil expenditure is $450.80, an increase of $22.95 over last year's costs. These figures were based on the cost of maintaining the Diocese's 75 elementary and 10 secondary schools.
The dollar value of the contributed services by religious personnel and expenses borne by parents for such items as textbooks and bus transportation are not included in the figures, diocesan authorities said. Were they included, the cost per-pupil would not be too far removed from the approximated average figure of $683 per pupil in public schools.
Due to rising costs, there will be a significant increase in next year's expenditures for non-public education, said Niles Gillen, superintendent of schools for the diocesan system. He added that the ultimate solution is to receive some assistance from the state.
There are more than a half-million non-public school students currently being educated at no cost to the state.

Senate OKs Fast MFT Pay Return

The Illinois Senate last week passed and sent to the House a bill authored by State Sen. Jack T. Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst, providing for the return of Motor Fuel Tax funds to municipalities and counties as soon as practical after collection.
Knuepfer's bill, inspired by the Local Government Commission, of which he is co-chairman, would assist municipalities and counties by providing for the immediate return of MFT funds.
AT PRESENT, these funds are deposited in the state treasury for periods as long as two or three years until such time as specific municipal projects are approved.
The state's revenue from these funds which have been invested, amounts to some eight million dollars per year.
This revenue would accrue to local governments rather than state government and provide them with additional funds to further improve roads within their boundaries, if the bill is adopted.

Detention Home Plans Told

Preliminary plans for DuPage County's first juvenile detention home were revealed Wednesday with an estimated cost of $1,617,000.
The home is designed to house 30 youths with recreation, psychological care and other care facilities for an average stay of from 7 to 21 days.
An architectural firm is preparing an eight-part report for presentation to the DuPage County Board of Supervisors' acceptance.
The ultimate home would house 60 youths. Plans provide for the addition of two 15-unit wings without any addition to other facilities. The addition is expected to be needed within two or three years after completion of the home.
Groundbreaking for the home is slated for Sept. 1.

THE HOME GROUNDS would be located in a corner of a massive county complex planned near Manchester and County Farm roads, west of Wheaton.
According to DuPage County Juvenile Court Magistrate Robert Nolan, if the home were open now there would be about 10 to 15 children in it.
He added that the peak time of 20 youths requiring detention comes in early summer.
Youths presently are being lodged in private homes and institutions, detention homes in other counties and sometimes in the DuPage County jail.
After the home's maximum capacity of 60 is reached, another home would have to be built, according to plans. "That would probably come within seven to ten years," Nolan said. "Anything after that estimate would be too much guess-work on my part."

Nolan said the percentage of girls held in detention in DuPage County is increasing.
"Formerly more boys were being held, but with the recent surge of drug abuse and other crimes, girls are being arrested more frequently," he said.
The detention home is planned for an equal number of girls and boys in the first construction and in the proposed additions. Each of the four ultimate wings would house 15 youths.

Marine Cited for Valor

A 21-year-old Addison man has been awarded the Silver Star medal for valor in combat in Vietnam.
Eugene Jarrell was also promoted to lance corporal after being given the medal recently by Maj. Gen. Ormand Simpson, commander of the 1st Marine Division in Vietnam.
Jarrell was a member of a nine-man reconnaissance patrol landed by helicopter to locate Communist mortar positions, according to United Press International (UPI) reports.
The team drew heavy fire seconds after scampering out of the chopper. A medical evacuation helicopter approached to lift a wounded marine out of the area, and Jarrell provided cover fire with his machine-gun.

According to the UPI, when the weapon jammed, he grabbed the wounded man's rifle, but it was shot out of his hands.
JARRELL SNATCHED a grenade launcher and ran through the landing zone blasting at the North Vietnamese positions until the marine was evacuated. Then he scurried through heavy fire to aid a wounded corpsman.
Shielding the corpsman with his body, Jarrell bandaged his wounds. A tracer round skinned past Jarrell's eyes, causing partial blindness.
He refused to be evacuated until the entire patrol was lifted out the next morning.

Sewer Job Nears Approval Stage

Final drafts of agreement between Itasca and Central Manufacturing District for a proposed Prospect-Thorndale sewer project slated to get under way this summer neared the signing stage this week.
Robert Bremer, attorney for CMD, presented the agreement documents to the village board Wednesday night.
He cautioned village officials that extended delays in executing the proposed ordinance would create possible problems in the start of construction estimated to get under way in March.
The $600,000 project from Prospect north to Thorndale and west to I-30 expressway has been under negotiation since last September.

Two Townships Approve Budgets

The annual town meetings in Addison and Bloomingdale Townships proved again to be somewhat less popular than a Beatie concert in Yankee Stadium or even a Little League baseball game.

About one out of every 1,000 persons in the two townships with a combined population of about 100,000 showed up Tuesday night to pass town and road budgets.

The estimated 100 persons voted on combined proposals totaling about $1 million.

In Bloomingdale Township, approximately 65 persons were on hand in the Bloomingdale Central School gym to witness a test of party politics between the winning and losing candidates.

Salary hikes for Bloomingdale Township officials were included in the approval of the $105,520 town fund.

The general assistance (relief) fund is $42,250 which includes such items as food, rent, clothing and medical care for needy persons. A total $8900 was approved for the Illinois Municipal Retirement fund for township employees.

The road and bridge fund totaled $170,100 for such items as tree removal and construction and maintenance of roads. The permanent hard road fund for maintenance was set at $113,000. Another $38,000 was marked for the construction or repair of bridges at the joint expense of the county.

In Addison Township, the town meeting was less boisterous with fewer outbursts and more decorum than at Bloomingdale. About 45 township electors turned out to vote in a total town fund of about $191,000.

The drop in the general assistance fund from about $215,000 last fiscal year to about $176,000 was also approved.

The township and road budgets cover fiscal years starting March 25, 1969 and ending March 30, 1970.

Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund was set at $11,500.

The total road fund was approved at about $382,000. The special hard road fund gets about $13,000. Another $60,000 is slated for construction or repair of bridges at the joint expense of the county.

An expensive item in the road fund is oiling of roads which is about $80,000. Construction of roads is estimated to cost $29,900 while the maintenance of roads is about $200,000.

Rossi To Get Recount

by RICHARD BARTON

Edward Rossi, Democratic loser in Bloomingdale Township's supervisor race, filed a discovery petition yesterday afternoon to get a recount of Tuesday's ballots.

He lost by only 13 votes in the 3,700 vote contest.

Republicans swept all contests in both

Addison and Bloomingdale Township over Democrats and non-partisans.

Rossi's formal request for a recount was filed with the township clerk's office.

According to Chapter Six of the Handbook for Illinois Township Officers, within five days after the declaration of the results of an election, any candidate who received at least 95 per cent as many votes as the successful candidate may petition the town clerk for recount of certain precincts or districts.

The fee is $5 per precinct.

THE TOWN CLERK reconvenes the canvassing board with a three-day notice to the successful candidate. The board recounts the ballots.

"The result of this discovery is not to be certified, not to affect the prior canvass, not to be binding on any election contest, nor is it any prerequisite to such a contest," the handbook states.

Rossi therefore cannot gain election from this recount action since the original canvass held Wednesday morning has already been finalized.

The canvass board members are incumbent officials.

Results remained the same in Rossi's race, according to the canvass, but changed the count in other races. The election was not affected to any major extent.

Any further attempts to change the results of the supervisor's race will have to be handled through court action.

Atty. Herbert Loftus of Addison drew up the petition.

"THE CANVASS WAS handled privately," Robert Burt, defeat Democratic candidate for town clerk, said.

"They are running the township like a private club and this has to be stopped," Burt claimed the Democrats had requested to be informed of the canvass meeting, but weren't.

Burt lost his bid for election to Republican incumbent Leonard Norberg by about 400 votes. Norberg totaled over 2,000.

In Addison Township, Republicans Elbert Droegemueller of Itasca and Donald Prindle of north Elmhurst won easily over Democrats Sid Ceaser of Bensenville and Harry Bendtsen Jr. of Wood Dale.

Droegemueller totaled 3,318 votes; Prindle, 3,156; Ceaser, 2,243, and Bendtsen, 2,187.

Republican Town Clerk Robert Mittel of Wood Dale had a vote of 2,789 which carried him to victory over Democrat Joyce M. Kessler of Addison with 1,904 and non-

A big bunny will greet youngsters and distribute candy at the annual Itasca Easter Egg Hunt Saturday at the parking lot across the street from Franzen School, 730 Catalpa Ave.

5 Car Crash On Ill. 53

One man was hospitalized and a woman treated and released at St. Alexius Wednesday afternoon after a five-car accident on Illinois 53 between Bryn Mawr and Ardmore Street, Itasca.

Itasca police said Roy J. White, 49, of Elmhurst, will be charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, carrying open liquor in his vehicle and driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

White is in satisfactory condition with a fractured arm.

According to police reports, White's car started a chain reaction of rear-end collisions with four other cars stopped in traffic.

Also injured was Teena J. Callendo, 21, of Stone Park. She was treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Miss Callendo was driving the car hit by White's car. Her car was undrivable.

Also slightly injured were the drivers of the three other cars. They were Gloria A.

Carlburg, 24, of Elmwood Park; Thomas E. Sweda, 34, of Lombard, and Victor Ghilardi, 49 of Lombard.

The last three cars in the chain reaction accident were drivable.

New Auditors to Get $10 More per Month

Voters in Bloomingdale and Addison Townships Tuesday at the annual town meeting approved $10-a-month pay increases for newly-elected auditors.

John Radov, Robert Dixon, and Clarence Benisek of Bloomingdale Township and Wallace Hartman, George Preston, and John Browne of Addison Township all received increases from $15 to $25 for each of the 12 meetings they attended as members of the board of auditors.

JUNE LANDMEIER is one of the organizers of the Golden Fellowship. IX

Help for Aged

by TOM JACHIMIEC
It is easy for the elderly to be overlooked in the suburbs, especially when most activities are orientated to youths and adults.
June Landmeier of Des Plaines felt just about the same way years ago, spending her time working with young people. Since 1962, however, she has been devoting her time to the older generation, known as senior citizens.
A former recreation director at the Bensenville Home, she has been instrumental in starting seven Golden Fellowship groups for the elderly in the Chicago area.
"I worked with young people for many years," said Miss Landmeier, "and saw the need for a group for the elderly. Some were dropping out of the mainstream of life, and this disturbed me. I began to work with this age group and fell in love with it."
The Golden Fellowship in Bensenville meets the third Thursday of every month at one of four churches — Peace, Immanuel, St. John's, and United Methodist.
On the fourth Thursday of the month an outing usually is planned, Miss Landmeier said.

On May 15 and 16, the group is going to a tulip festival in Holland, Mich. Only a handful of members from Bensenville will make the trip, but they'll be joined by persons from other communities, she said.

The Bensenville group's next meeting will be at 11 a.m., April 17, at Immanuel Church. A representative of WTTW television will present a slide show and talk about the station's annual auction.

A high school choir from Fenton High will perform at the April 24 meeting at United Methodist Church.

$66,100 Post Office Planned For Addison

The U S Post Office Department is planning to build a $66,100 post office at the northwest corner of Church Street and Lincoln Avenue in Addison, according to Finley McGrew, a spokesman for U S Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Elmhurst. McGrew said he did not know when construction would begin.

Annex Draft Under Way

A pre-annexation agreement is being drafted for concurrence by Fenton High School Dist. 100 and the Village of Wood Dale for annexation of a high school site immediately east of the present junior high tract on North Wood Dale Road.

William Redmond and Samuel La Sosa, attorneys for the two taxing bodies, are preparing the pre-annexation agreement which would bring the land parcels within the corporate boundaries of Wood Dale.

Council members already have given the go-ahead to La Sosa to incorporate into the agreement provisions for requested water and sewer facilities, and the waiving of annexation and all other building fees.

Fenton board members had indicated their desire to obtain "an absolute guarantee" that the village would provide adequate sewer and water facilities to the north or west property line "when needed by the time construction starts on a high school building."

Village officials, however, are suggesting a "minimum guarantee" calling for a time limit of one year from signing of the ordinance for installation of the sewer and water facilities.

Village Beat Room for Thought

by SYD JAMIESON
The Wood Dale village manager screening committee last month approved with reluctance a recommendation to go along with the wishes of the village council on the employment of a village administrator.

The qualified endorsement was followed by another committee recommendation that the council call an immediate referendum for the establishment of a village manager council form of government.

Voters are well aware that the April, 1967 referendum on the managerial form of government won by a 2-1 margin but has now been declared invalid.

The committee, by reiterating its previous recommendation for a referendum, has endeavored to apprise officials that village manager candidates have bluntly expressed disfavor on being hired under existing provisions.

THE VILLAGE had a village manager ordinance, now changed to village administrator. Candidates for village manager, however, preferred to have their jobs established by referendum, giving them more power than if established by ordinance.

For one thing if established by referendum, it would take another referendum to repeal that which has already been established, providing there was no contest on validity of the election as experienced in 1967.

A favorable vote of the people would also keep the managerial form of government under a more stable tenure than that dictated by the ordinance passed by the council.

The complete switch by the council recently to amend its present ordinance by simply replacing the title of "village manager" for that of "village administrator," has not provided the implementation desired by the screening committee.

SUCH ACTION MAY have expedited

employment of a qualified individual to take care of a multitude of duties now confronted by the council members, but it does not appear the council is relinquishing much by sanctioning the recruitment of a village administrator.

An ordinance can be rescinded or repealed with a majority vote of the commissioners. Under a referendum it is not that easy.

Meanwhile, the screening committee has given the council more room for thought in other areas — particularly to a possible changeover from Wood Dale's outdated commission form of government.

A village board of trustees with staggered terms of office for elected officials has been suggested as compared to the single four-year term now experienced for all commissioners.

Some committee members suggest that if the commission form is to remain, then the council should be expanded to perhaps seven commissioners and a mayor to keep abreast of Wood Dale's burgeoning population.

THESE WERE SOME of the ideas spelled out at a special joint meeting between the council and the committee called by Mayor Hansen on March 17.

The interest of the commissioners was so high that none showed up to hear what the committee had to say.

Only Hansen made it a point to meet with the advisory group.

Maybe the citizenry should petition for a new referendum on the managerial form of government and let the chips fall where they may.

They spoke once before on the question and only because of a legal technicality was the referendum declared invalid.

If the referendum had been valid, it would have replaced the ordinance and provided the screening committee with more ammunition in recruiting qualified candidates.

GOLDEN FELLOWSHIP members who attended a recent Bensenville Village Board meeting include, from left, Mrs. Mollie Haubert, Mrs. Anna Bergerdt, and Mrs. Emma Beecken. Groups meet regularly at four churches in town. Members come from various communities in north DuPage County, including Bensenville, Roselle, and Bloomingdale.

Diocese Tells School Costs

The Diocese of Joliet has spent an average of $251.66 per pupil at the elementary level this past academic year. This is $36.49 higher than in 1967-68, according to recent statistics.

At the high school level, the per-pupil expenditure is $450.80, an increase of $22.35 over last year's costs. These figures were based on the cost of maintaining the Diocese's 75 elementary and 10 secondary schools.

The dollar value of the contributed services by religious personnel and expenses borne by parents for such items as textbooks and bus transportation are not included in the figures, diocesan authorities said. Were they included, the cost per-pupil would not be too far removed from the approximated average figure of $683 per pupil in public schools.

Due to rising costs, there will be a significant increase in next year's expenditures for non-public education, said Niles Gillen, superintendent of schools for the diocesan system. He added that the ultimate solution is to receive some assistance from the state.

There are more than a half-million non-public school students currently being educated at no cost to the state.

Senate OKs Fast MFT Pay Return

The Illinois Senate last week passed and sent to the House a bill authored by State Sen. Jack T. Kneuper, R-Elmhurst, providing for the return of Motor Fuel Tax funds to municipalities and counties as soon as practical after collection.

Kneuper's bill, inspired by the Local Government Commission, of which he is co-chairman, would assist municipalities and counties by providing for the immediate return of MFT funds.

AT PRESENT, these funds are deposited in the state treasury for periods as long as two or three years until such time as specific municipal projects are approved.

The state's revenue from these funds which have been invested, amounts to some eight million dollars per year.

This revenue would accrue to local governments rather than state government and provide them with additional funds to further improve roads within their boundaries, if the bill is adopted.

Detention Home Plans Told

Preliminary plans for DuPage County's first juvenile detention home were revealed Wednesday with an estimated cost of $1,500,000.

The home is designed to house 30 youths with recreation, psychological care and other care facilities for an average stay of from 7 to 21 days.

An architectural firm is preparing an eight-part report for presentation to the DuPage County Board of Supervisors' acceptance.

The ultimate home would house 60 youths. Plans provide for the addition of two 11-unit wings without any addition to other facilities. The addition is expected to be needed within two or three years after completion of the home.

Groundbreaking for the home is slated for Sept. 4.

THE HOME GROUNDS would be located in a corner of a massive county complex planned near Manchester and County Farm roads, west of Wheaton.

According to DuPage County Juvenile Court Magistrate Robert Nolan, if the home were open now there would be about 10 to 15 children in it.

He added that the peak time of 30 youths requiring detention comes in early summer.

Youths presently are being lodged in private homes and institutions, detention homes in other counties and sometimes in the DuPage County jail.

After the home's maximum capacity of 60 is reached, another home would have to be built, according to plans. "That would probably come within seven to ten years," Nolan said. "Anything after that estimate would be too much guess-work on my part."

Nolan said the percentage of girls held in detention in DuPage County is increasing.

"Formerly more boys were being held, but with the recent surge of drug abuse and other crimes, girls are being arrested more frequently," he said.

The detention home is planned for an equal number of girls and boys in the first construction and in the proposed additions. Each of the four ultimate wings would house 15 youths.

Marine Cited for Valor

A 21-year-old Addison man has been awarded the Silver Star medal for valor in combat in Vietnam.

Eugene Jarrell was also promoted to lance corporal after being given the medal recently by Maj. Gen. Ormand Simpson, commander of the 1st Marine Division in Vietnam.

Jarrell was a member of a nine-man reconnaissance patrol landed by helicopter to locate Communist mortar positions, according to United Press International (UPI) reports.

The team drew heavy fire seconds after scurrying out of the chopper. A medical evacuation helicopter approached to lift a wounded marine out of the area, and Jarrell provided cover fire with his machine-gun.

According to the UPI, when the weapon jammed, he grabbed the wounded man's rifle, but it was shot out of his hands.

JARRELL SNATCHED a grenade launcher and ran through the landing zone blasting at the North Vietnamese positions until the marine was evacuated. Then he scurried through heavy fire to aid a wounded corpsman.

Shielding the corpsman with his body, Jarrell bandaged his wounds. A tracer round skimmed past Jarrell's eyes, causing partial blindness.

He refused to be evacuated until the entire patrol was lifted out the next morning.

Sewer Job Nears Approval Stage

Final drafts of agreement between Itasca and Central Manufacturing District for a proposed Prospect-Thorndale sewer project slated to get under way this summer neared the signing stage this week.

Robert Bremer, attorney for CMID, presented the agreement documents to the village board Wednesday night.

He cautioned village officials that extended delays in executing the proposed ordinance would create possible problems in the start of construction estimated to get under way in March.

The $600,000 project from Prospect north to Thorndale and west to I-90 expressway has been under negotiation since last September.

Two Townships Approve Budgets

The annual town meetings in Addison and Bloomingdale Townships proved again to be somewhat less popular than a Bantle concert in Yankee Stadium or even a Little League baseball game.

About one out of every 1,000 persons in the two townships with a combined population of about 100,000 showed up Tuesday night to pass town and road budgets.

The estimated 100 persons voted on combined proposals totaling about $1 million.

In Bloomingdale Township, approximately 65 persons were on hand in the Bloomingdale Central School gym to witness a test of party politics between the winning and losing candidates.

Salary hikes for Bloomingdale Township officials were included in the approval of the $106,530 town fund.

The general assistance (relief) fund is $42,250 which includes such items as food, rent, clothing and medical care for needy persons. A total $8900 was approved for the Illinois Municipal Retirement fund for township employees.

The road and bridge fund totaled $170,100 for such items as tree removal and construction and maintenance of roads. The permanent hard road fund for maintenance was set at $113,000. Another $38,000 was marked for the construction or repair of bridges at the joint expense of the county.

In Addison Township, the town meeting was less boisterous with fewer outbursts and more decorum than at Bloomingdale. About 45 township electors turned out to vote in a total town fund of about $191,000.

The drop in the general assistance fund from about $215,000 last fiscal year to about $176,000 was also approved.

The township and road budgets cover fiscal years starting March 25, 1969 and ending March 30, 1970.

Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund was set at $11,500.

The total road fund was approved at about $362,000. The special hard road fund gets about $13,000. Another $60,000 is stated for construction or repair of bridges at the joint expense of the county.

An expensive item in the road fund is oiling of roads which is about $80,000. Construction of roads is estimated to cost $29,000 while the maintenance of roads is about $200,000.

Five Elected in 3 Parks

Park district electors in Roselle, Bensenville and Bloomingdale Tuesday voted five men into six-year terms.

In Roselle, incumbent Ronald Rodeo, 580 Spring Hill, won by nearly 5 to 1 over John E. Wilson, 516 Rush St. The vote was 157 to 33.

Bensenville's election found Merle K. Hummell, 325 Roxane, the winner by more than 100 votes over Jerome W. Bochniak, 1215 W. Green Valley. Hummell racked up 264 votes. He will replace Jack Schuster, park president, on the park board as a commissioner.

In Bloomingdale, two incumbents won easily over write-in competition. Norm LoPrelli, 134 S. Circle Ave., and Leonard Gabinski, 217 Schick Road, won over several others who compiled few votes.

Gabinski is starting his first elected term since he was appointed earlier this year.

RODEO HANDLES the financial business of the Roselle park district.

Hummell, the only inexperienced park commissioner elected Tuesday, is an art teacher at East Leyden High School. He has worked with the East Bensenville Homeowner's Association for two years.

He has been associated with the Bensenville Boys Athletic Association for four years, he said, and has coached sports at high school level and baseball in the Bensenville Little League.

Rossi To Get Recount

by RICHARD BARTON

Edward Rossi, Democratic loser in Bloomingdale Township's supervisor race, filed a discovery petition yesterday afternoon to get a recount of Tuesday's ballots.

He lost by only 13 votes in the 3,700 vote contest.

Republicans swept all contests in both

Addison and Bloomingdale Township over Democrats and non-partisans.

Rossi's formal request for a recount was filed with the township clerk's office.

According to Chapter Six of the Handbook for Illinois Township Officers, within five days after the declaration of the results of an election, any candidate who received at least 95 per cent as many votes as the successful candidate may petition the town clerk for recount of certain precincts or districts.

The fee is $5 per precinct.

THE TOWN CLERK reconvenes the canvassing board with a three-day notice to the successful candidate. The board recounts the ballots.

"The result of this discovery is not to be certified, not to affect the prior canvass, nor is it binding on any election contest, nor is it any prerequisite to such a contest," the handbook states.

Rossi therefore cannot gain election from this recount action since the original canvass held Wednesday morning has already been finalized.

The canvass board members are incumbent officials.

Results remained the same in Rossi's race, according to the canvass, but changed the count in other races. The election was not affected to any major extent.

Any further attempts to change the results of the supervisor's race will have to be handled through court action.

Atty. Herbert Loftus of Addison drew up the petition.

"THE CANVASS WAS handled privately," Robert Burt, defeat Democratic candidate for town clerk, said.

"They are running the township like a private club and this has to be stopped."

Burt claimed the Democrats had requested to be informed of the canvass meeting, but weren't.

Burt lost his bid for election to Republican incumbent Leonard Norberg by about 400 votes. Norberg totaled over 2,000.

In Addison Township, Republicans Elbert Droege Mueller of Itasca and Donald Prindle of north Elmhurst won easily over Democrats Sid Ceaser of Bensenville and Harry Bendisen Jr. of Wood Dale.

Droege Mueller totaled 3,318 votes; Prindle, 3,156; Ceaser, 2,243, and Bendisen, 2,187.

Republican Town Clerk Robert Mittel of Wood Dale had a vote of 2,769 which carried him to victory over Democrat Joyce M. Kessler of Addison with 1,904 and non-

5 Car Crash On Ill. 53

One man was hospitalized and a woman treated and released at St. Alexius Wednesday afternoon after a five-car accident on Illinois 53 between Bryn Mawr and Ardmore Street, Itasca.

Itasca police said Roy J. White, 49, of Elmhurst, will be charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, carrying open liquor in his vehicle and driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

White is in satisfactory condition with a fractured arm.

According to police reports, White's car started a chain reaction of rear-end collisions with four other cars stopped in traffic.

Also injured was Teena J. Caliendo, 21, of Stone Park. She was treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Miss Caliendo was driving the car hit by White's car. Her car was undrivable.

Also slightly injured were the drivers of the three other cars. They were Gloria A.

Carlburg, 24, of Elmwood Park; Thomas E. Sweda, 34, of Lombard, and Victor Ghilardi, 49 of Lombard.

JUNE LANDMEIER is one of the organizers of the Golden Fellowship. (X)

Help for Aged

by TOM JACHIMIEC

It is easy for the elderly to be overlooked in the suburbs, especially when most activities are oriented to youths and adults.

June Landmeier of Des Plaines felt just about the same way years ago, spending her time working with young people. Since 1962, however, she has been devoting her time to the older generation, known as senior citizens.

A former recreation director at the Bensenville Home, she has been instrumental in starting seven Golden Fellowship groups for the elderly in the Chicago area.

"I worked with young people for many years," said Miss Landmeier, "and saw the need for a group for the elderly. Some were dropping out of the mainstream of life, and this disturbed me. I began to work with this age group and fell in love with it."

The Golden Fellowship in Bensenville meets the third Thursday of every month at one of four churches — Peace, Immanuel, St. John's, and United Methodist.

On the fourth Thursday of the month an outing usually is planned, Miss Landmeier said.

On May 15 and 16, the group is going to a tulip festival in Holland, Mich. Only a handful of members from Bensenville will make the trip, but they'll be joined by persons from other communities, she said.

The Bensenville group's next meeting will be at 11 a.m., April 17, at Immanuel Church. A representative of WTTW television will present a slide show and talk about the station's annual auction.

A high school choir from Fenton High will perform at the April 24 meeting at United Methodist Church.

$66,100 Post Office

Planned For Addison

The U. S. Post Office Department is planning to build a $66,100 post office at the northwest corner of Church Street and Lincoln Avenue in Addison, according to Finley McGrew, a spokesman for U. S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Elmhurst. McGrew said he did not know when construction would begin.

Annex Draft Under Way

A pre-annexation agreement is being drafted for concurrence by Fenton High School Dist. 100 and the Village of Wood Dale for annexation of a high school site immediately east of the present junior high tract on North Wood Dale Road.

William Redmond and Samuel La Sosa, attorneys for the two taxing bodies, are preparing the pre-annexation agreement which would bring the land parcels within the corporate boundaries of Wood Dale.

Council members already have given the go-ahead to La Sosa to incorporate into the agreement provisions for requested water and sewer facilities, and the waiving of annexation and all other building fees.

Fenton board members had indicated their desire to obtain "an absolute guarantee" that the village would provide adequate sewer and water facilities to the north or west property line "when needed by the time construction starts on a high school building."

Village officials, however, are suggesting a "minimum guarantee" calling for a time limit of one year from signing of the ordinance for installation of the sewer and water facilities.

Village Beat

Room for Thought

by SYD JAMIESON

The Wood Dale village manager screening committee last month approved with reluctance a recommendation to go along with the wishes of the village council on the employment of a village administrator.

The qualified endorsement was followed by another committee recommendation that the council call an immediate referendum for the establishment of a village-manager council form of government.

Voters are well aware that the April, 1967 referendum on the managerial form of government won by a 2-1 margin but has now been declared invalid.

The committee, by reiterating its previous recommendation for a referendum, has endeavored to apprise officials that village manager candidates have bluntly expressed distaste for being hired under existing provisions.

THE VILLAGE had a village manager ordinance, now changed to village administrator. Candidates for village manager, however, preferred to have their jobs established by referendum, giving them more power than if established by ordinance.

For one thing if established by referendum, it would take another referendum to repeal that which has already been established, providing there was no contest on validity of the election as experienced in 1967.

A favorable vote of the people would also keep the managerial form of government under a more stable tenure than that dictated by the ordinance passed by the council.

The complete switch by the council recently to amend its present ordinance by simply replacing the title of "village manager" for that of "village administrator" has not provided the implementation desired by the screening committee.

SUCH ACTION MAY have expedited

employment of a qualified individual to take care of a multitude of duties now confronted by the council members, but it does not appear the council is relinquishing much by sanctioning the recruitment of a village administrator.

An ordinance can be rescinded or repealed with a majority vote of the commissioners. Under a referendum it is not that easy.

Meanwhile, the screening committee has given the council more room for thought in other areas — particularly to a possible changeover from Wood Dale's outdated commission form of government.

A village board of trustees with staggered terms of office for elected officials has been suggested as compared to the single four-year term now experienced for all commissioners.

Some committee members suggest that if the commission form is to remain, then the council should be expanded to perhaps seven commissioners and a mayor to keep abreast of Wood Dale's burgeoning population.

THESE WERE SOME of the ideas spelled out at a special joint meeting between the council and the committee called by Mayor Hansen on March 17.

The interest of the commissioners was so high that none showed up to hear what the committee had to say.

Only Hansen made it a point to meet with the advisory group.

Maybe the citizenry should petition for a new referendum on the managerial form of government and let the chips fall where they may.

They spoke once before on the question and only because of a legal technicality was the referendum declared invalid.

If the referendum had been valid, it would have replaced the ordinance and provided the screening committee with more ammunition in recruiting qualified candidates.

GOLDEN FELLOWSHIP members who attended a recent Bensenville Village Board meeting include, from left, Mrs. Mollie Haubert, Mrs. Anna Borgardt, and Mrs. Emma Beeken. Groups meet regularly at four churches in town. Members come from various communities in north DuPage County, including Bensenville, Roselle, and Bloomingdale.

Diocese Tells School Costs

The Diocese of Joliet has spent an average of $251.66 per pupil at the elementary level this past academic year. This is $36.49 higher than in 1967-68, according to recent statistics.

At the high school level, the per-pupil expenditure is $450.80, an increase of $22.95 over last year's costs. These figures were based on the cost of maintaining the Diocese's 75 elementary and 10 secondary schools.

The dollar value of the contributed services by religious personnel and expenses borne by parents for such items as textbooks and bus transportation are not included in the figures, diocesan authorities said. Were they included, the cost per-pupil would not be too far removed from the approximated average figure of $683 per pupil in public schools.

Due to rising costs, there will be a significant increase in next year's expenditures for non-public education, said Niles Gillen, superintendent of schools for the diocesan system. He added that the ultimate solution is to receive some assistance from the state.

There are more than a half-million non-public school students currently being educated at no cost to the state.

Senate OKs Fast MFT Pay Return

The Illinois Senate last week passed and sent to the House a bill authored by State Sen. Jack T. Knuefer, R-Elmhurst, providing for the return of Motor Fuel Tax funds to municipalities and counties as soon as practical after collection.

Knuefer's bill, inspired by the Local Government Commission, of which he is co-chairman, would assist municipalities and counties by providing for the immediate return of MFT funds.

AT PRESENT, these funds are deposited in the state treasury for periods as long as two or three years until such time as specific municipal projects are approved.

The state's revenue from these funds which have been invested, amounts to some eight million dollars per year.

This revenue would accrue to local governments rather than state government and provide them with additional funds to further improve roads within their boundaries, if the bill is adopted.

Detention Home Plans Told

Preliminary plans for DuPage County's first juvenile detention home were revealed Wednesday with an estimated cost of $1.67 million.

The home is designed to house 30 youths with recreation, psychological care and other care facilities for an average stay of from 7 to 21 days.

An architectural firm is preparing an eight-part report for presentation to the DuPage County Board of Supervisors' acceptance.

The ultimate home would house 60 youths. Plans provide for the addition of two 15-unit wings without any addition to other facilities. The addition is expected to be needed within two or three years after completion of the home.

Groundbreaking for the home is slated for Sept. 1.

THE HOME GROUNDS would be located in a corner of a massive county complex planned near Manchester and County Farm roads, west of Wheaton.

According to DuPage County Juvenile Court Magistrate Robert Nolan, if the home were open now there would be about 10 to 15 children in it.

He added that the peak time of 20 youths requiring detention comes in early summer.

Youths presently are being lodged in private homes and institutions, detention homes in other counties and sometimes in the DuPage County jail.

After the home's maximum capacity of 60 is reached, another home would have to be built, according to plans. "That would probably come within seven to ten years," Nolan said. "Anything after that estimate would be too much guess-work on my part."

Nolan said the percentage of girls held in detention in DuPage County is increasing.

"Formerly more boys were being held, but with the recent surge of drug abuse and other crimes, girls are being arrested more frequently," he said.

The detention home is planned for an equal number of girls and boys in the first construction and in the proposed additions. Each of the four ultimate wings would house 15 youths.

Marine Cited for Valor

A 21-year-old Addison man has been awarded the Silver Star medal for valor in combat in Vietnam.

Eugene Jarrell was also promoted to lance corporal after being given the medal recently by Maj. Gen. Ormand Simpson, commander of the 1st Marine Division in Vietnam.

Jarrell was a member of a nine-man reconnaissance patrol landed by helicopter to locate Communist mortar positions, according to United Press International (UPI) reports.

The team drew heavy fire seconds after scampering out of the chopper. A medical evacuation helicopter approached to lift a wounded marine out of the area, and Jarrell provided cover fire with his machine gun.

According to the UPI, when the weapon jammed, he grabbed the wounded man's rifle, but it was shot out of his hands.

JARRELL SNATCHED a grenade launcher and ran through the landing zone blasting at the North Vietnamese positions until the marine was evacuated. Then he scurried through heavy fire to aid a wounded corpsman.

Shielding the corpsman with his body, Jarrell bandaged his wounds. A tracer round skimmed past Jarrell's eyes, causing partial blindness.

He refused to be evacuated until the entire patrol was lifted out the next morning.

Sewer Job Nears Approval Stage

Final drafts of agreement between Itasca and Central Manufacturing District for a proposed Prospect-Thorndale sewer project slated to get under way this summer neared the signing stage this week.

Robert Bremer, attorney for CMD, presented the agreement documents to the village board Wednesday night.

He cautioned village officials that extended delays in executing the proposed ordinance would create possible problems in the start of construction estimated to get under way in March.

The $600,000 project from Prospect north to Thorndale and west to I-90 expressway has been under negotiation since last September.

The Addison United Presbyterian Church will hold Easter services at 8 and 10 a.m. Sunday.

ALTHOUGH EASTER is primarily a religious holiday, children look forward to it every year as a time of Easter bunnies and egg hunts.

Two Townships Approve Budgets

The annual town meetings in Addison and Bloomingdale Townships proved again to be somewhat less popular than a Beale concert in Yankee Stadium or even a Little League baseball game.

About one out of every 1,000 persons in the two townships with a combined population of about 100,000 showed up Tuesday night to pass town and road budgets.

The estimated 100 persons voted on combined proposals totaling about $1 million.

In Bloomingdale Township, approximately 65 persons were on hand in the Bloomingdale Central School gym to witness a test of party politics between the winning and losing candidates.

Salary hikes for Bloomingdale Township officials were included in the approval of the $1,065,520 town fund.

The general assistance (relief) fund is $42,250 which includes such items as food, rent, clothing and medical care for needy persons. A total $8900 was approved for the Illinois Municipal Retirement fund for township employees.

The road and bridge fund totaled $170,100 for such items as tree removal and construction and maintenance of roads. The permanent hard road fund for maintenance was set at $113,000. Another $38,000 was marked for the construction or repair of bridges at the joint expense of the county.

In Addison Township, the town meeting was less boisterous with fewer outbursts and more decorum than at Bloomingdale. About 45 township electors turned out to vote in a total town fund of about $1,000.

The drop in the general assistance fund from about $215,000 last fiscal year to about $176,000 was also approved.

The township and road budgets cover fiscal years starting March 25, 1969 and ending March 30, 1970.

Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund was set at $11,500.

The total road fund was approved at about $362,000. The special hard road fund gets about $13,000. Another $60,000 is stated for construction or repair of bridges at the joint expense of the county.

An expensive item in the road fund is outfitting of roads which is about $80,000. Construction of roads is estimated to cost $29,000 while the maintenance of roads is about $200,000.

The stories are being published prior to the April 15 village elections in Bensenville, Itasca, Roselle, and Bloomingdale. No election is scheduled this year in Wood Dale.

Interviews with Stanley Haverkamp, incumbent village president of Bloomingdale, and Robert Meyers, will appear Monday. Haverkamp heads the Forward Party and Meyers the Alert Bloomingdale Citizens Party.

WEDNESDAY, interviews will appear on Robert Frantz, incumbent village president of Roselle, and William Florence, former village president. Frantz is running as an independent and Florence on the United Party ticket.

On Friday, interviews will be presented on Bensenville Village President Fred Stegung and John Varble. Stegung is heading the Civic Party and Varble the Action Party.

Itasca Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke's interview will appear April 14. Nottke leads the Action Party which is unopposed.

JUNE LANDMEIER is one of the organizers of the Golden Fellowship. IX

Help for Aged

by TOM JACHIMIEC
It is easy for the elderly to be overlooked in the suburbs, especially when most activities are oriented to youths and adults.
June Landmeier of Des Plaines felt just about the same way years ago, spending her time working with young people. Since 1962, however, she has been devoting her time to the older generation, known as senior citizens.
A former recreation director at the Bensenville Home, she has been instrumental in starting seven Golden Fellowship groups for the elderly in the Chicago area.
"I worked with young people for many years," said Miss Landmeier, "and saw the need for a group for the elderly. Some were dropping out of the mainstream of life, and this disturbed me. I began to work with this age group and fell in love with it."
The Golden Fellowship in Bensenville meets the third Thursday of every month at one of four churches — Peace, Immanuel, St. John's, and United Methodist.
On the fourth Thursday of the month an outing usually is planned, Miss Landmeier said.

On May 15 and 16, the group is going to a tulip festival in Holland, Mich. Only a handful of members from Bensenville will make the trip, but they'll be joined by persons from other communities, she said.

The Bensenville group's next meeting will be at 11 a.m., April 17, at Immanuel Church. A representative of WTTW television will present a slide show and talk about the station's annual auction.

A high school choir from Fenton High will perform at the April 24 meeting at United Methodist Church.

$66,100 Post Office Planned For Addison

The U. S. Post Office Department is planning to build a $66,100 post office at the northwest corner of Church Street and Lincoln Avenue in Addison, according to Finley McGrew, a spokesman for U. S. Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Elmhurst. McGrew said he did not know when construction would begin.

Annex Draft Under Way

A pre-annexation agreement is being drafted for concurrence by Fenton High School Dist. 100 and the Village of Wood Dale for annexation of a high school site immediately east of the present junior high tract on North Wood Dale Road.

William Redmond and Samuel La Susa, attorneys for the two taxing bodies, are preparing the pre-annexation agreement which would bring the land parcels within the corporate boundaries of Wood Dale.

Council members already have given the go-ahead to La Susa to incorporate into the agreement provisions for requested water and sewer facilities, and the waiving of annexation and all other building fees.

Fenton board members had indicated their desire to obtain "an absolute guarantee" that the village would provide adequate sewer and water facilities to the north or west property line "when needed by the time construction starts on a high school building."

Village officials, however, are suggesting a "minimum guarantee" calling for a time limit of one year from signing of the ordinance for installation of the sewer and water facilities.

Diocese Tells School Costs

The Diocese of Joliet has spent an average of $251.66 per pupil at the elementary level this past academic year. This is $36.49 higher than in 1967-68, according to recent statistics.

At the high school level, the per-pupil expenditure is $450.80, an increase of $22.95 over last year's costs. These figures were based on the cost of maintaining the Diocese's 75 elementary and 10 secondary schools.

The dollar value of the contributed services by religious personnel and expenses borne by parents for such items as textbooks and bus transportation are not included in the figures, diocesan authorities said. Were they included, the cost per-pupil would not be too far removed from the approximated average figure of $683 per pupil in public schools.

Due to rising costs, there will be a significant increase in next year's expenditures for non-public education, said Niles Gillen, superintendent of schools for the diocesan system. He added that the ultimate solution is to receive some assistance from the state.

There are more than a half-million non-public school students currently being educated at no cost to the state.

Senate OKs Fast MFT Pay Return

The Illinois Senate last week passed and sent to the House a bill authored by State Sen. Jack T. Knuepfer, R-Elmhurst, providing for the return of Motor Fuel Tax funds to municipalities and counties as soon as practical after collection.

Knuepfer's bill, inspired by the Local Government Commission, of which he is co-chairman, would assist municipalities and counties by providing for the immediate return of MFT funds.

AT PRESENT, these funds are deposited in the state treasury for periods as long as two or three years until such time as specific municipal projects are approved.

The state's revenue from these funds which have been invested, amounts to some eight million dollars per year.

This revenue would accrue to local governments rather than state government and provide them with additional funds to further improve roads within their boundaries, if the bill is adopted.

Sewer Job Nears Approval Stage

Final drafts of agreement between Itasca and Central Manufacturing District for a proposed Prospect-Thorndale sewer project slated to get under way this summer neared the signing stage this week.

Robert Bremer, attorney for CMD, presented the agreement documents to the village board Wednesday night.

He cautioned village officials that extended delays in executing the proposed ordinance would create possible problems in the start of construction estimated to get under way in March.

The $600,000 project from Prospect north to Thorndale and west to I-30 expressway has been under negotiation since last September.

Village Beat

Room for Thought

by SYD JAMIESON

The Wood Dale village manager screening committee last month approved with reluctance a recommendation to go along with the wishes of the village council on the employment of a village administrator.

The qualified endorsement was followed by another committee recommendation that the council call an immediate referendum for the establishment of a village-manager council form of government.

Voters are well aware that the April, 1967 referendum on the managerial form of government won by a 2-1 margin but has now been declared invalid.

The committee, by reiterating its previous recommendation for a referendum, has endeavored to apprise officials that village manager candidates have bluntly expressed disfavor on being hired under existing provisions.

THE VILLAGE had a village manager ordinance, now changed to village administrator. Candidates for village manager, however, preferred to have their jobs established by referendum, giving them more power than if established by ordinance.

For one thing if established by referendum, it would take another referendum to repeal that which has already been established, providing there was no contest on validity of the election as experienced in 1967.

A favorable vote of the people would also keep the managerial form of government under a more stable tenure than that dictated by the ordinance passed by the council.

The complete switch by the council recently to amend its present ordinance by simply replacing the title of "village manager" for that of "village administrator," has not provided the implementation desired by the screening committee.

SUCH ACTION MAY have expedited

employment of a qualified individual to take care of a multitude of duties now confronted by the council members, but it does not appear the council is relinquishing much by sanctioning the recruitment of a village administrator.

An ordinance can be rescinded or repealed with a majority vote of the commissioners. Under a referendum it is not that easy.

Meanwhile, the screening committee has given the council more room for thought in other areas — particularly to a possible changeover from Wood Dale's outdated commission form of government.

A village board of trustees with staggered terms of office for elected officials has been suggested as compared to the single four-year term now experienced for all commissioners.

Some committee members suggest that if the commission form is to remain, then the council should be expanded to perhaps seven commissioners and a mayor to keep abreast of Wood Dale's burgeoning population.

THESE WERE SOME of the ideas spelled out at a special joint meeting between the council and the committee called by Mayor Hansen on March 17.

The interest of the commissioners was so high that none showed up to hear what the committee had to say.

Only Hansen made it a point to meet with the advisory group.

Maybe the citizenry should petition for a new referendum on the managerial form of government and let the chips fall where they may.

They spoke once before on the question and only because of a legal technicality was the referendum declared invalid.

If the referendum had been valid, it would have replaced the ordinance and provided the screening committee with more ammunition in recruiting qualified candidates.

GOLDEN FELLOWSHIP members who attended a recent Bensenville Village Board meeting include, from left, Mrs. Mollie Haubert, Mrs. Anna Borgardt, and Mrs. Emma Beecken. Groups meet regularly at four churches in town. Members come from various communities in north DuPage County, including Bensenville, Roselle, and Bloomingdale.

Detention Home Plans Told

Preliminary plans for DuPage County's first juvenile detention home were revealed Wednesday with an estimated cost of $1,637,000.

The home is designed to house 30 youths with recreation psychological care and other care facilities for an average stay of from 7 to 21 days.

An architectural firm is preparing an eight-part report for presentation to the DuPage County Board of Supervisors' acceptance.

The ultimate home would house 80 youths. Plans provide for the addition of two 10-unit wings without any addition to other facilities. The addition is expected to be needed within two or three years after completion of the home.

Groundbreaking for the home is slated for Sept. 1.

THE HOME GROUNDS would be located in a corner of a massive county complex planned near Manchester and County Farm roads, west of Wheaton.

According to DuPage County Juvenile Court Magistrate Robert Nolan, if the home were open now there would be about 10 to 15 children in it.

He added that the peak time of 30 youths requiring detention comes in early summer.

Youths presently are being lodged in private homes and institutions, detention homes in other counties and sometimes in the DuPage County jail.

After the home's maximum capacity of 60 is reached, another home would have to be built, according to plans. "That would probably come within seven to ten years," Nolan said. "Anything after that estimate would be too much guess-work on my part."

Nolan said the percentage of girls held in detention in DuPage County is increasing.

"Formerly more boys were being held, but with the recent surge of drug abuse and other crimes, girls are being arrested more frequently," he said.

The detention home is planned for an equal number of girls and boys in the first construction and in the proposed additions. Each of the four ultimate wings would house 15 youths.

Marine Cited for Valor

A 21-year-old Addison man has been awarded the Silver Star medal for valor in combat in Vietnam.

Eugene Jarrell was also promoted to lance corporal after being given the medal recently by Maj. Gen. Ormand Simpson, commander of the 1st Marine Division in Vietnam.

Jarrell was a member of a nine-man reconnaissance patrol landed by helicopter to locate Communist mortar positions, according to United Press International (UPI) reports.

The team drew heavy fire seconds after scampering out of the chopper. A medical evacuation helicopter approached to lift a wounded marine out of the area, and Jarrell provided cover fire with his machine-gun.

According to the UPI, when the weapon jammed, he grabbed the wounded man's rifle, but it was shot out of his hands.

JARRELL SNATCHED a grenade launcher and ran through the landing zone blasting at the North Vietnamese positions until the marine was evacuated. Then he scurried through heavy fire to aid a wounded corpsman.

Shielding the corpsman with his body, Jarrell bandaged his wounds. A tracer round skimmed past Jarrell's eyes, causing partial blindness.

He refused to be evacuated until the entire patrol was lifted out the next morning.

Hulett Outlines Fire Plan

A program of "pre-fire planning" geared toward Centex Industrial Park, schools, shopping centers and other public facilities in Elk Grove Village was proposed Tuesday night by Fire Chief Allan Hulett.

At the heart of Hulett's suggestion is a complete study from a firefighting viewpoint of all buildings and the preparation of building layouts on microfilm.

Sketches would show the location of fire hydrants, ventilation systems, gas lines, sprinkling systems, possible hazard areas, locations of company records and major electrical controls, as well as any other information about the building that could assist in fighting fires.

A sample of the Tobin Stahl Co., 1099 Lunt Ave., was displayed to village board members Tuesday night, and the panel expressed strong interest in the idea.

HULETT SAID he had formulated a similar approach in Oak Lawn, where he previously served as fire chief.

"There we had only 40 industrial plants.

Here we have 450," he told the board.

Essentially, the proposed system would be operated in the communications center of the fire department. When a fire is reported, the department dispatcher uses a simple filing system to locate the floor plan of the building and other particulars about the location.

While trucks are enroute, basic information can be relayed to firemen, and once they are on the scene, any additional information requests can be answered with minimal delay.

Hulett said he believes the system would speed response to a fire and save wasted time and damage at the site if valuable information had to be discovered by the firemen while fighting a fire.

ADDITIONALLY, protection or evacuation of company records could be accomplished if firemen know their location. Special identity tags in the building also are in the plan.

Locations of easiest access into a locked building would be shown, saving valuable time at the scene of a fire, he added, through the use of special markings. Since those locations would be the likeliest spots of criminal entry, he added, they could be most carefully surveyed by patrolling police.

As a result of poking around in the industrial park, Hulett noted that on a number of plants and warehouses, identity and address of the building is either difficult to see or placed in such a way that it would be hard to find.

He proposed changes in street numbering ordinances to solve that problem, which the board agreed to investigate. Those changes also would affect all residences in the village.

On previous occasions Hulett has advocated a central alarm board connected to schools in the village, in addition to the usual in-building alarms. That, he said, would speed response to school fires and would be similar to the central burglary alarm board used by the police department for village businesses.

COST OF THE microfilming equipment, he estimated, would be an initial outlay of $1,000 for basic equipment. He added that the per-building cost would be about $2, in addition to the employee time to study all buildings in the program.

Centex Industrial Park Association members said they were "very enthused" about the idea and if necessary would be willing to assist in underwriting the cost of the project.

Hulett has been fire chief since Jan. 1.

UNVEILING THE CRUCIFIX in the tradition of Good Friday of ancient times, Father George Mulcahey of St. Joseph the Worker Church in Wheeling, and altar boy Edward Tomaszewicz will lead parishioners in mourning the death of Christ today at 3 p.m.

Mourn Death of Christ Today

by ANNE HEDBACK

Today is Good Friday, the day when Christians mourn the death of Jesus Christ . . . 2,000 years ago.

Good Friday in the Catholic church still reflects the ancient somber customs. It is the traditional farewell to a dead King.

The dramatic Catholic ceremonies began last night, on a note of joy, as a procession led by small girls strewing flower petals, escorted the consecrated hosts to a lavishly decorated side altar.

The flowers symbolize the veneration Catholics have for the Body of Christ which they believe actually present in the host.

The purpose of removing the hosts from the main altar, where they are normally kept, is to illustrate literally the idea of Christ's absence because of his death.

THERE WILL BE NO consecration of hosts on Good Friday, to illustrate dramatically the loss of Christ's life. The hosts from the side altar will be used to give communion to parishioners who attend the 3 p.m. service, scheduled for the time it is believed Christ died on the cross.

Today the crucifixes in the church, covered with purple drapes for two weeks, will be uncovered.

The crucifixes were covered on Passion Sunday, the day it is said Christ hid himself to keep from being stoned to death.

Christ later came out from hiding, was betrayed by Judas, and crucified. The unveiling of the crosses will symbolize Christ's coming out of hiding and subsequent crucifixion.

THE UNVEILING of the cross is itself a ceremony. Facing the left side of the altar, the priest holds up a purple shrouded crucifix. Admonishing the congregation to look at the cross, he first uncovers the top, then the right side, and then removes the drape entirely, holding the cross up to the light.

As the parishioners watch, the priest places the cross on a pillow at the foot of the altar, and removing his shoes to show his unworthiness, kneels and kisses the cross three times.

Then the congregation comes up to the altar rail and crucifixes are passed for each person to kiss, demonstrating faith and sorrow at Christ's death.

While the people file to the head of the church, the choir sings the "Reproaches." The "Reproaches" are hymns of lamentation in which Christ asks repeatedly, "My people, what have I done to you, or in what have I offended you? What more should I have done and did not?"

FOR THE REST of the afternoon the crucifix will remain on the pillow at the foot of the altar for all to see.

Tomorrow, Holy Saturday, the preparations for Easter will begin. A Pascal or Easter Candle is blessed and lit. The candle remains in the church for 40 days, until Ascension Thursday, to represent "the glorified body of Christ risen from the dead."

The candle containing five coals in the shape of a cross, representing Christ's wounds is blessed in the back of the church. During the subsequent procession to the altar the priest stops three times and tells the congregation the candle is "the Light of Christ."

THE PRIEST reads 21 prophecies from the Old Testament concerning Christ before blessing water used for baptisms for the rest of the year.

Holy Saturday was traditionally the day for baptisms of adults converted to the faith. Catechism instructions began the first day of Lent and finished on that day, allowing the converts to be baptized in time for Easter.

Hospital Releases 6 Firemen

The last six of 25 hospitalized firemen, including two Elk Grove Village lieutenants and the Mount Prospect fire chief, were released from St. Alexius Hospital yesterday morning, following inhalation of toxic fumes during response to an alarm in the industrial park.

A "violent chemical reaction" produced toxic fumes at the Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy, Elk Grove, Wednesday morning. While there were no injuries reported, 25 firemen were admitted for observation after inhaling the fumes.

Elk Grove Fire Chief Allan Hulett said 19 of the hospitalized firemen, including himself, were released Wednesday night.

THOSE RELEASED yesterday morning included Lt. Jerry Clifford, Lt. John Harr, firemen John Mergens, Tomas Casterton and Allen Busse, as well as Mount Prospect Chief Edwin Haberkamp.

Toxic fumes, which were feared to have caused lung damage, resulted from three chemicals mixed at the plant, the exact cause of which remains unknown.

"We were afraid of using any water in the building," Hulett said yesterday, "because some chemicals will detonate when they mix with water."

Additionally, the smoke resulting from the incident created unknown hazards for firemen, as there were floor vats filled with acid products which Hulett said were luckily avoided. Damage was described as minor.

Hulett said there will be a full investigation of the nature of chemicals in the building. "One of them decomposes, and as it does that, it heats up. We don't know if it broke into flame or not — even chemists don't know."

The chief, who had proposed a microfilm record of all industrial plants in Elk Grove, as well as schools, the hospital and commercial firms, said knowledge of the Sanford plant interior would have been helpful in handling the incident.

His proposal is to study all buildings, and put the floor plans on microfilm used in the department dispatching office to inform firemen of the nature of the building, content and hazards while enroute to an alarm.

EUGENE KEITH, opposing incumbent Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl's bid for re-election, accused Pahl of "outright lies."

Keith Ups Attack

by GEOFFREY MEHL

With Elk Grove Village municipal elections only 11 days away, Eugene Keith has stepped up his attack on Pres. Jack Pahl, accusing the incumbent of "outright lies."

Keith defended his involvement in school-park arrangements and the Northwest Municipal Conference, which Pahl said were "falsehoods."

"If Pahl will read the minutes of the meeting of July 9, 1962, and the Paddock Publications report of that meeting, he will find the information on the joint equipping and use of parks and schools which I negotiated with Dr. Bardwell," Keith retorted.

But Keith added that Pahl would "note that I did not claim to have negotiated that action, but that I vigorously supported that program, which was opposed by the president in office at that time (James Gibson)."

A Herald article dated July 12, 1962, notes " . . . Trustee Gene V. Keith . . . helped negotiate the agreement . . ."

KEITH ALSO CLAIMED that as an alternate delegate to the Northwest Municipal Conference under Gibson's administration, "I attended many meetings representing the village."

He added that Pahl's statement "that he has asked me to attend specific meetings over the past two years is an outright lie." Keith wondered how "his boiler-plate supporters — Trustees Ronald Chernick, George Conney and Charles Zetsek — feel about backing a man whose real character is now showing."

"Pahl . . . points to a sprinkling ban in 1964," Keith continued, but the mayoral candidate quoted Village Mgr. Charles Willis on June 20, 1968: "The water consumption of the village exceeds the capacity of the water system," and Keith claimed that sprinkling controls were put into effect. Pahl had attacked Keith for water shortages when Keith was in charge of the village water and sewer commission.

Keith added, "If Pahl wants to know what I have done over the past two years, during which time I was not given a chairmanship of a committee for obvious political reasons, I have spent a majority of my time fighting a battle for normalcy and solvency, against the dream world of Walter Mitty Pahl."

Involvement of the village in the Northwest Municipal Conference was a campaign plank issued by Keith in February, 1961. The plank noted, "Make Elk Grove Village an active partner in the Northwest Municipal Conference in order to take advantage of inter-municipality co-operation and also to benefit from the experience of other communities."

That was done the following year.

This Time—'A Different Smell'

by MARY DRESSER

For the second time in 12 months commuters from the northwest Chicago suburbs found themselves leaving the city yesterday amid reports of rioting on the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination. Below is the reflections of one area resident who went through both experiences.

"The smell was different on the street corners."

William Koretko of Elk Grove was in the middle of last year's rioting.

Yesterday afternoon there was "a world of difference," he said.

Koretko who manages a plant on Damen

Ave. and another on Roosevelt Road remembers the black clouds of smoke rising from the city in mid-afternoon as panicked motorists with their lights on struggled to escape the burning city.

"THIS TIME THE crowds in the area didn't seem anxious to start any action," reported Koretko. "The police were way ahead of the game."

Police, three and four deep on street corners near Lake and Damen were the first indication Koretko had of the disturbances in the West Side ghetto.

Koretko ran from his car into the industrial plant and immediately sent the shop and office force home.

"Some of the fellows were telling me there were fires in the Madison, Ashland, Western area," says Koretko. "That wasn't on the radio yet, but I believe them. They were absolutely right last year."

Last year Koretko remembers driving suburban women home through the burning city and putting terrified black women on buses that would take them to their threatened homes in the riot area.

THIS YEAR, blacks and whites left quietly.

"One of the guys in the shop told me 'I couldn't understand it last year, but this year it's completely ridiculous,'" says Koretko.

Koretko's employment force is composed of 15 per cent white, 50 per cent black, and 35 per cent Spanish.

"The Spanish fellows really have it tough," he says. "They keep saying, 'I want to start a fight, but what's my cause?'"

Pahl Denies Keith Charge

Just as charges of partisan politics enters all Elk Grove Village municipal elections, it is quickly and hotly denied by those charged.

This year, it was Eugene Keith making the accusation, and incumbent village Pres. Jack Pahl issuing denial.

Pahl, furious with the suggestion, declared Wednesday morning that neither the Republican nor Democratic township organizations were involved in his campaign, either under political banners or independently.

HE INSNISTED that his organizational support is made up of "Republicans, Democrats and Independents, all concerned and interested citizens, seeking the reelection of myself."

Pahl added that he did not know of any party support for other candidates, but vehemently insisted he was free of any ties to regular political organizations in his campaign.

Zoning Law Ready

After years of laying dormant, a comprehensive zoning ordinance was completed on schedule with weeks of intensive work in Elk Grove Village.

The recent drive for conclusion of the zoning ordinance problem was led by Village Trustee Richard McGrenera, who promised the document would be ready for presentation April 1.

At Tuesday's meeting of the board, the ordinance was ready, and the 91-page document will now be presented to the village plan commission for hearings. Petitioner in the case will be the village, represented by attorney Edward Hofert.

Technically an amendment to village ordinance 20, the document represents a complete revamping of the existing comprehensive ordinance, and according to McGrenera, prompt action by the board could lead to hearings within 30 days.

HE ADDED that he expected plan commission deliberation to extend another 30 days, leaving a 60-day total for the board and interested residents and developers to review the proposed ordinance.

Trustee Eugene Keith, who helped fashion the ordinance, noted that once it goes to the plan commission for hearings, the village can hold up all new zoning action until the new ordinance is adopted.

Three School Dist. 59 Candidates Air Views

An examination of viewpoints and platforms of the seven contending candidates for two School Dist. 59 board of education terms concludes today with the last three on the ballot.

Viewpoints of Harold Harvey, William Garvey, Paul Neuhauser and Ernest Rich were presented in earlier issues.

Today, the opinions of George Blanchard, Patrick Ordozensky and Harry Stewart are presented.

An eighth candidate, incumbent Albert Domancic, is seeking election to a one-year term and is unopposed.

GEORGE BLANCHARD on morale rumors in School Dist. 59: "I don't deal in rumors, only facts. I have an open ear and open mind." (EMA)

'Morale Problem'

Three issues form the base of Patrick Ordozensky's campaign for election to the School Dist. 59 board of education: Morale, communication, and the board's "abdication of responsibility."

According to him, concern that "we might lose some good teachers" because of low morale is the motivation behind his entry into a seven-man race for two seats on the board of education.

"I'm not contending that morale is low throughout the district," he said in an interview. "But enough of the teachers aren't happy. I think this morale problem can be traced directly to the board of education abdicating its responsibility."

WHO IS IN control? "I don't know if the board gave its responsibility to the administration, or if the administration merely filled the vacuum created by the abdication," Ordozensky said quietly.

Nonetheless, he believes that the current school board "accepts any and all ideas from Dr. (Donald) Thomas, and his staff at face value." He cited the current issue of the proposed ombudsman as an example, and used the example to launch an attack on communication, or lack thereof, in the district.

"An ombudsman is just one more barrier," he said, in the area of board-administration communication. The candidate added that the average citizen, and perhaps the board of education is "awestruck" with the education establishment in the district, and felt that they would be just as hesitant to come to an ombudsman. Citing the current probe into administration costs launched by Forest View School area residents, Ordozensky said, "I'm happy to see it, but the need for their work should never have arisen. The board should have asked questions long ago."

WHAT ABOUT the idea of a partnership between the board and the administration? "There's no partnership. The people, through the state legislature, have authorized themselves to operate public schools through the mechanism of a board of education they elect."

"The board's job is to effect the best possible education for children in the district, and the responsibility to do that rests solely with the board of education. There is no partnership; the board hires an administration, which works for the board."

Is the current board a "rubber stamp" panel? Ordozensky replied that while the term was invented by the press, "I think it's a fair statement."

"Morale problems do exist," he said, contending that the board should look into them. It was his belief that Wayne Little had valid questions to ask prior to his resignation, and Ordozensky hopes to meet with Little and compare morale notes.

The major complaint, he contends, is the "arbitrary manner" in which the administration works, and while declining to divulge details for the time being, mentioned several cases involving Dr. Richard Vlasak, assistant superintendent for instruction.

HE CITED Teacher Council interests in having a voice in appointing school principals, and problems among school social workers "who are arbitrarily over-ruled to the point that some are considering resigning."

These problems are more serious than district financial affairs, Ordozensky says.

Stewart: Simplify

Unlike other candidates for two three-year terms on the School Dist. 59 board of education, Harry O. Stewart was not available for an interview by Herald reporters.

Stewart, of 1433 Fern Drive, Mount Prospect, believes the communications issue is centered around the use of "big words" when the district deals with the general public. This, he contends, leads to confusion and lack of understanding.

He illustrates his point at candidate forums by noting that a principal is called a "unit director," and a teacher aide is called a "paraprofessional."

Stewart is opposed to an ombudsman, contending it would only serve to create more confusion and serve as a barrier in communication between the board and the public.

Additionally, the candidate has expressed the view that administrative costs are preventing adequate salary increases for teachers, suggesting that spending for administrative use should be curbed.

Stewart is fifth on the ballot.

HARRY STEWART'S opinion of School Dist. 59 administrative cost is that increases eliminate chances for teacher salary hikes.

Blanchard Doesn't Deal in Rumors

Last on the ballot of seven candidates for two School Dist. 59 board of education vacancies is George Blanchard, who wonders if there is anything behind a variety of rumors in the district, but isn't interested in pursuing the matter until the board is presented with evidence.

"I do not deal in rumors," he said, "only facts. But I'm willing to investigate a problem if a problem exists."

Blanchard was talking about alleged low morale in the district, especially among teachers. As a board member, he would like to "feel I can represent the people, listen and promote the wishes of the board and the administration."

As a representative of the Rupley School PTO, Blanchard has been attending board meetings for some time, developing an "extreme interest in the operation of the group. Would he be willing to probe the feelings of teachers?

"SCHOOL BOARD to faculty dialogue normally isn't necessary, but when circumstances warrant, yes, I'd be willing to ask questions, either individually or with other members of the board."

The only possible weak link in communications, he thinks, is between the administration and the teaching staff.

In terms of finances, Blanchard feels the use of tax anticipation warrants to the extent practiced by the district is "sound."

"It would be better to work on a cash basis, but it has been a board policy to keep district taxes down. An increase in state aid would help. Illinois is 'low, too low,' in terms of state aid to education. However, part of what we would get from increased state aid should be used to return to a cash operation," he contended.

He wondered if the "turmoil on college and secondary levels" was creeping into elementary education via the rumors in the district. "All of this is backed by the Students for a Democratic Society, a Communist organization. Are they infiltrating here? I don't know. It's pure supposition."

BLANCHARD LISTS THREE criteria for physical plants in order of importance: Safety, educational aid, and comfort, and believes the district should go beyond normal fire safety codes. While the dual use of John Jay School after the Juliette Low fire was "the most expedient way" to handle the unexpected problem, Blanchard is "not satisfied with maintenance in the schools, especially with fire hazards."

The issue of hiring an ombudsman gets neutral stand from Blanchard: "An ombudsman would be helpful, but I'm not sure if it would be $22,000 worth of helpful. I personally would like to investigate the idea, to avoid creating a buffer zone between the board and the administration. Cost should be planned beyond a one-year trial period; who's going to take a job for just one year?"

Beyond that, Blanchard would like to see someone expert in the field of labor relations rather than education occupying the office of ombudsman.

IN TERMS OF TEACHERS salaries, Blanchard commented "I'm told they are above average in this district," but he declined further comment because of the current salary negotiations underway with the district and the Teachers Council.

He didn't care for the belt-tightening program that resulted from over-hiring last year, "but it happened and we have to accept it. We're making the best of it."

Blanchard believes that some of the attacks on the administration "are overly exaggerated." As a board member, however, he said he could "guarantee there will be no hatchet throwing because someone brings a legitimate complaint to the board. I have an open ear and an open mind."

Hikers May Set Record

At least 1,780 teenagers and adults are registered to march in today's 16-mile "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban Northwest.

It could be the largest march of its kind in the history of this area.

David Wurm, youth minister at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect and a march coordinator, told the Herald that he estimated an additional 220 persons would register early this morning — if the weather stayed good.

The forecast for northern Illinois is cloudy and mild with occasional rain likely today. Heavy rain would cut the number of marchers.

However, Wurm said that it would be virtually impossible to cancel the march, which will snake through Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Only very bad weather would cancel the march, he said.

The hikers against poverty were to assemble this morning at 7:30 at Maine East High School, Dempster and Potter, in Park Ridge. The march was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

THE PARTICIPANTS must be sponsored on a fixed amount of money per mile. A sponsor, for example, could sponsor a teenager at 50 cents a mile. If the marcher completed the 16-mile route, the sponsor would owe $8.

The money will be donated to three benefit organizations — Bialfran relief, and Ecuadorian farm project and the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

The march, which will be protected and guided by police in the various suburbs, will move northwest from Park Ridge to Palatine. At Palatine, it will move south to the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, where it will end.

The route has been designed to keep the marchers clear of major highways, such as Northwest Highway, to avoid blocking traffic. The marchers are expected to arrive in Rolling Meadows at about 3 or 4 p.m.

About 200 adults will be needed along the route to serve as marshals. They will keep marchers in columns, in order, aid them in crossing streets, and man checkpoints along the route. Twelve checkpoints will permit marchers to drop out if they choose to do so and to rest and possibly obtain food.

THE HIKERS will wear armbands. Many have spent the week painting signs with slogans like "Down with Hunger" and "Soul Power."

The goal for donations is $120,000. Wurm is not optimistic about reaching that goal, but he said he would have to wait until tomorrow before he has even a rough estimate of the march's success.

Supporters of the march have been seeking support in area high schools during the past couple weeks. Many marchers have gained several sponsors, and they are prepared to march as far as possible.

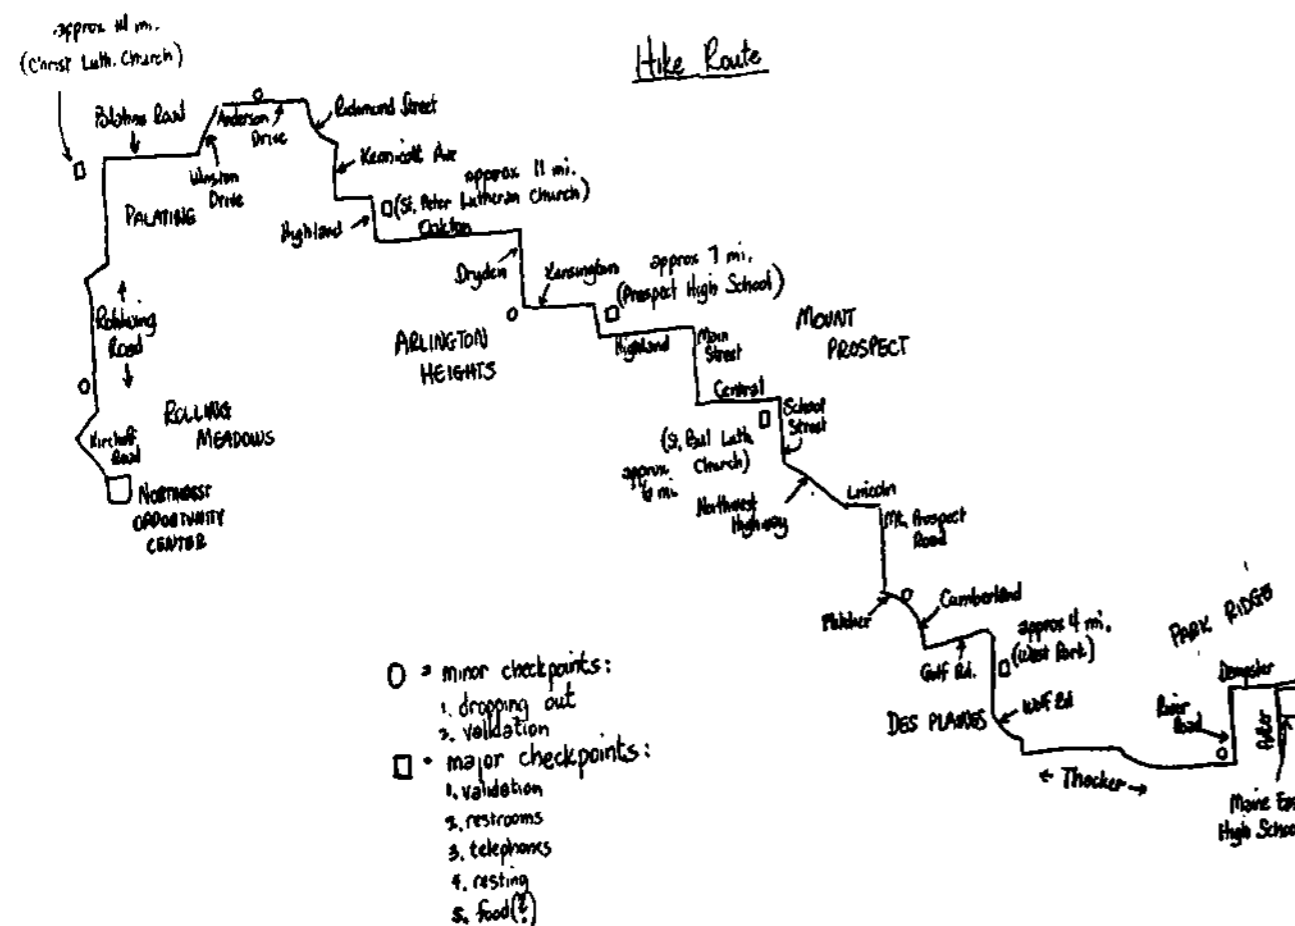

Roger Obst, 815 N. Drury Lane in Arlington Heights, has located about 40 sponsors. If he completes the entire walk, he can raise $115 as his contribution to the three funds.

Can he complete the march? "I hope so. I think it's really a great cause. But I've never walked that far before."

HE PLANS to wear tennis shoes to make the walk as comfortable as possible. However, his clothing depends on the weather; if it rains, he'll dress for it.

Peggy Schreiber of Arlington Heights has gained about 40 sponsors, and if she completes the march, she will have raised from $330 to $411. "I'm going to take the whole hike," she told a Herald reporter.

She is the daughter of the minister of Faith Lutheran Church, Rev. Vernon Schreiber. The family moved to Arlington Heights Jan. 21. Peggy has been actively seeking sponsors, and she is firmly convinced she will march the entire route.

VFW, Auxiliary Plan To Visit Viet Vets

A visit of 100 Vietnam veterans at Great Lakes Naval Hospital has been scheduled tomorrow by a group of 25 members of VFW Post 9284 and its auxiliary, from Elk Grove Village.

The visits will include a variety of gifts donated by local merchants and Girl Scout Troop 333.

Dist. May Trade 21-Cent Tax Hike

If legislation advocated by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie gets a General Assembly nod, School Dist. 59 residents may trade a possible 21-cent real estate tax increase for a 4 per cent state income tax.

Based on the governor's budget message to the Illinois General Assembly Tuesday, state aid to Dist. 59 may increase by as much as $1.3 million.

Ogilvie told state legislators he would like to see the minimum expenditure per child raised from $400 to $500, and it is reported that the all-important qualifying rate for state help will increase by only six cents under the governor's program.

The complicated formula for determining aid results in a figure of $2,735,500, an increase of $1,283,500.

School Dist. 59 officials are hoping for an increase in the range of $900,000 to $1 million, but they're not celebrating yet.

DISTRICT SUPT. Dr. Donald Thomas commented Tuesday that Ogilvie's proposals still have to get through the state

Library Is Set To Grow

A 6,000-square-foot addition to the Elk Grove Public Library is on the drawing boards for construction to begin in June. Floor plans and sketches of the proposal have been placed on display in the library.

The library's board of directors directed architect Richard Donatoni to prepare the working drawings, and expressed hope to get bids in June and begin construction 10 days later.

"No referendum will be required, as the ordinary revenue which comes to the library through the yearly tax levy will cover the construction cost," a spokesman said. "The present building is debt free, also having been built without a referendum."

With the design in keeping with that of the present building, constructed in 1965, use plans include a separate children's room as well as expansion of adult facilities.

House and Senate, adding, "No one has even introduced a bill as yet." Deadline for filing new bills in the General Assembly is April 13.

He added that to his knowledge the 90-cent proposed qualifying rate is still being debated, and there has been no official announcement on that.

The clue to state aid is the qualifying rate — the minimum tax rate a school district must have to qualify for state help. Dist. 59's educational rate is $1.46 per $100 assessed valuation, well above the current minimum qualifying rate of 84 cents.

While increases in the minimum expenditure in Illinois help, alterations in the qualifying rate could affect districts the size of Dist. 59 in terms of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Additionally, a flat grant, currently $47 but proposed to go to $48, affects the amount of money distributed from Springfield. The grant is an amount of money given to every child in Illinois, regardless of the local district's rate, assessed valuation, or enrollment.

Other factors affecting the amount of state aid are valuation, currently $232 million in Dist. 59, and average daily attendance, currently 8,500. Through a complicated formula, all those factors are considered in deciding which school district gets what.

Despite the magnitude of assistance possible for Dist. 59, other school districts won't get as much as they need, and some, like Chicago, are already complaining.

Thomas isn't complaining, but he commented that the proposal has a long way to go before becoming law.

He has repeatedly said that if state aid is not increased, the district will have to think about a possible 21-cent tax rate increase of its own in October.

Additionally, he expects assessed valuation to increase this year to as much as $272 million, which if nothing else will help in terms of state aid, as well as local revenue.

But, said Thomas, there never seems to be enough money. He was on the way to the Elk Grove Township annual town meeting, to do battle for $100,000 in excess funds there.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN SAVE MONEY-THEN SPEND IT and still have MORE left than you saved!

"Sheer, stark poverty prevents many oldsters from doing the things that the 'golden years' are supposed to make possible."

For the past ten years, through our newsletter, It's Your Money, which this Association originated, we have frequently emphasized that a shocking number of Americans are living impoverished lives. We have pointed out that

- The largest single group of poor is that characterized as "aged."
- Four-fifths of single persons over 65 are living on poverty incomes.
- Two-thirds of family heads over 65 have incomes of less than $4,000 annually.
- There are more than 1,000,000 Americans 85 years or older—the fastest growing age group in the nation.
- In the next 40 years, the number of Americans past 65 years will more than double. Those over 75 will triple by the year 2000 (which you will be if you are now in your 40s).

"Poor people are the bulk of the old," writes one authority. "If you weren't poor before you reached your 65th year, you are likely to be so afterward."

Why this condition? If the majority of Americans enjoy the highest living standards in the world, why are three out of four likely to be impoverished after they reach 65? The answer is in one word: improvidence. They are neglecting to take care of future needs.

These charts reveal strikingly how a pattern of saving helps to provide for later years. You save a fixed amount for 15 years. Then you spend the same amount for the next 15 years. For this pattern of deferred spending, you are handsomely rewarded. You still have more money left than you put in!

Thus, by saving $100 per month at, let's say, the age of 50, you will have a total of $28,241.29 in your account at age 65. If you take out $100 every month for the next 15 years (your life expectancy at age 65 will be another 15 years) you will still have a balance of $26,940.18 at age 80 (when you can expect to live an additional 7 years).

Here is the heart of the matter—the provision for later years now, while you are actively employed. The earlier you start, and the more you put away, the richer your rewards.

With our liberal dividends, compounded quarterly, on FSLIC-insured accounts, you have the safest and surest way of guaranteeing the kind of income you seek for the years ahead. Save now... while you can.

Warren B. Wilson, a lawyer from Chicago, has filed in the District Supreme Court in Washington, D. It's here. The car that took the motor world by surprise is here — the New Elgin Six, a year and a half ahead of the times.

Designed, tested, refined and perfected — slowly and carefully, while the Elgin factories were making war trucks — the New Elgin Six stands alone as the only thoroughly new after-the-war car on the market.

The New Elgin Six embodies 36 distinct improvements and refinements, every one worth while and sure to appeal to auto experts. These new cars have been given strenuous and severe tests of over 20,000 miles on all kinds of roads and have been found eminently satisfactory.

Village To Schedule Captain Examination

At the request of William H. Reilly Jr., of the Hoffman Estates fire and police committee, trustees have unanimously agreed to schedule a captains' examination in the near future.

Reilly, an insurance agent who several weeks ago negotiated a revised coverage plan for village employees, told the village board last Thursday that Chief John J. O'Connell has held the rank of lieutenant for eight years and reminded them that he has served as chief for the past six years.

In response to an inquiry from Trustee William W. Cowin, Reilly said that the commission on which he serves has never discussed a civil service status for the village police chief.

No date has been set for the captains' examination.

School Orchestra Tours

by MARILYN RUBEN
Wednesday at 1 p.m., members of a 48-piece orchestra disembarked from a bus in Elk Grove Village. They entered Admiral Byrd School, and waited while students in the third, fourth, and fifth grades filed into the auditorium. When everyone was seated, the conductor raised his baton, and the instruments burst into music.

The Chicago Symphony on tour? Not quite. The program is a second annual attempt by the Grove Junior High Orchestra to attract elementary school instrumentalists into School Dist. 59 musical activities. After similar appearances March 25 at Mark Hopkins, Salt Creek, and Clearmont Schools, the orchestra scheduled repeat performances Monday at Ripley, Ridge, and Grantwood, and held a special concert for parents at Grove Tuesday night.

"We selected the best players in the district for this presentation," said Eugene L. Moulten, music teacher at Grove. The concert program offered opportunities for wind players in the form of "Scarborough Fair," and "March in G" by Henry Purcell, for the string quartet - "Eleanor Rigby," and "Allegro" by Currelli. SOLOS WERE PLAYED by Bill Smedley, piano, in "Five Pieces for Younger Orchestras" by Bela Bartok, and Howard Schwartz, violin, in "Violin Concertino."

The entire orchestra closed with Grieg's composition of "Freddie and His Fiddle," plus "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning."

Moulten is aided in his work with youth by James Middleton, at Lively and Holmes schools, and Pauline Curtis who teaches at Dempster.

This tour was only one of the excellent programs sponsored by the district. There are several ensembles, a chamber orchestra, and performing groups in the fourth and fifth grades of the "feeder schools."

The string section of the orchestra is planning a spring concert.

There are 250 string players in the district including elementary school students, said Moulten. "We entered 17 in the local district contests as soloists. Thirteen came in first, three - second, and one - third," he boasted.

Action Deferred On Lake Site Plan

Until a final determination on maintenance of a lake site in the northern section of the village, trustees have agreed to temporarily defer action on site plan approval of Hoffman-Rosner's Twin Lakes subdivision.

Reportedly, this area, located at Hassell and Jones roads, is the last piece of land in the area owned and to be developed by the Arizona-based firm which has developed Hoffman Estates since its inception nearly 13 years ago.

Village officials have asked Bert Boeje, of the building firm, to contact the park district to determine its interest in maintaining the lake site. Boeje said the park district has agreed to care for a second lake on the development, which was originally planned for townhouses but has now been planned for single-family homes exclusively.

Action on the site plan approval is expected at the April 10 village board meeting.

Funarama Clubs Augment Ministry

The Rev. James Berndt, 251 Highland Blvd., Hoffman Estates, is the director of MUSICRAMA, an agency which conducts evangelistic meetings throughout the U. S. and abroad.

This organization also augments the ministry of Schaumburg Township churches through its Funarama clubs for children and its Singarama program for the entire family.

"We have children from all denominations in our Funarama program," Rev. Berndt said. About 100 boys and girls from Hoffman Estates participate in the Funarama clubs. Program directors are Dave Reyna and Harold Linquist, both of Hoffman Estates.

THE GIRLS Funarama Club meets on the first Friday of each month at 7 p.m. at Winston Churchill School, Jones Road and Evergreen. The Boys Funarama Club meets monthly on the third Friday. Club members are 7 to 12 years old.

A Talent Night will be featured at the April meeting of the Funarama clubs. The Girls' Funarama Club will meet on April 11 this month because of the Easter holiday. The Funarama Clubs meet from September to May.

UCP Plea Nets $2,780 In Four Communities

The communities of Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Hanover Park and Streamwood donated $2,780 in January to the United Cerebral Palsy fund-raising appeal.

The money donated during the "53-Minute March" will be used to continue and strengthen UCP's program of direct services, such as Child Development Center, family counseling, and research and education.

Mrs. George P. Bober, chairman of the Hoffman Estates campaign, reported that 249 men and women took part in the march and gathered $1,126.87.

In Schaumburg, $428.32 was collected by 78 volunteers, according to Mrs. Anton Oster, chairman. The 100 volunteers in Hanover Park gathered $411.53. Mrs. William Greshner, chairman, said.

In Streamwood, the drive was headed by Mrs. Charles Waterworth. There were 166 taking part in the march that netted $813.89.

Jayceetts Will Hear Spring Planting Talk

At a Monday meeting, the Elk Grove Village Jayceetts will hear John Sanecki, of Sanecki and Sons Greenhouse, Bensenville. Sanecki will give club members tips on spring planting, and will answer questions.

After a regular business meeting, there will be a "Penny Social."

THE MEETING WILL be held at the home of Collette Pokorny's, 3 Woodcrest, Elk Grove Village. Additional information may be obtained from her at 437-0649.

Items to be discussed at this meeting include the Bake Sale and the Jaycee Carnival Hot Dog Stand, along with the Bike Decorating Contest scheduled for June in conjunction with the Peony Pageant parade.

Members were asked to bring jewelry to be made into a jewelry tree as a gift to the Bensenville Home for the Aged, for an annual spring party to be held there.

Zoning Deferred

Action on granting B2 special use zoning for a service station, planned for construction at the intersection of Higgins and Golf roads, was deferred last week to the April 10 village board meeting.

Trustees have invited Irving Rootberg, of Admiral Builders, to attend the next board meeting and advise them of the oil company planning to lease the new station.

The station, of face-brick construction, will occupy two-thirds of an acre of the parcel totaling 23 acres.

Buy Warning Barriers

At the request of Kenny Dean, Hoffman Estates superintendent of streets, village trustees last week approved the expenditure of $750 for barricades with flashing lights to be used as warnings of street repairs.

Dean recommended outright purchase over rental which would have cost the village 25-cents per barricade each day.

Northwest Y Members Grow

The 16th annual meeting of Northwest Suburban YMCA marked another year of increased membership and size of operation.

Board member Carl Bowen was chairman of the meeting last week, which was combined with a buffet supper for the 'Y' board and guests. Floyd Kalber, NBC-TV news analyst, highlighted the program, answering questions from the audience.

Under the present board of directors, the 'Y' has a record enrollment of 21,575 members and operates under a budget of $770,000. This is the largest membership for any non-resident YMCA in the world, the group said.

Edwin C. Bruning, executive vice president of Charles Bruning Co., was reelected chairman of the board. Vice chairmen include John Gobeille, Mount Prospect, Stephen Jurco, Arlington Heights, and Thomas Crouch of Palatine, vice chairman at large.

Among the new members elected for three-year terms were Dr. Roger Eggert and Warren Lattof, both of Arlington Heights; Leonard Van Gaasbeek, Mount Prospect, and Joseph Lesniak, Prospect Heights.

HONORED FOR 15 years' service on the board were Charles Hodlmair, Elk Grove Village, Earl K. Riley, Arlington Heights, and Leonard E. Manuel, Schaumburg. Local members serving 10 years were Stanley C. Amren and John Gobeille, Mount Prospect; Arthur Edmunds, Long Grove, and Chester Guilian, Arlington Heights.

With constant growth in members and activities, the Northwest Suburban facilities continue to warrant expansion. A $1,050,000 building addition has been approved by the board, two-thirds of the amount to come from YMCA dues and general operations and the balance pledged by members and friends of the 'Y'.

Charles McClellan, executive director, hopes that ground can be broken in June. Some areas will be ready for use by December, but the entire project will take approximately a year.

The two largest pledges from 'Y' groups have come from the Women's Auxiliary and Indian Guides. The Auxiliary pledged $50,000, which will be raised by operating the 'Y' Snack Bar and conducting an annual Pancake Day. The Indian Guides, composed of father and son groups, pledged $10,500 to the new building program. Their annual Christmas tree sale accounts for the largest part of this amount.

CARL BOWEN of Arlington Heights serves as master of ceremonies at the 16th annual meeting of Northwest Suburban YMCA. (B-10)

An application for federal construction grants will be submitted to help the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) hasten its 10-year clean-up program.

The request for federal participation will be only for projects relating to sewage treatment, MSD Acting Chief Engineer Forrest Neil said Wednesday.

Prepared in 1967, the MSD's 10-year plan to clean up Cook County waterways through adequate sewage treatment will cost an estimated $793 million. The northwest suburbs stand to get $121,062,500 worth of improvements in the long-range program.

INCLUDED IN THE federal grant application, these projects are: a Poplar Creek reclamation plant and interceptors, $14,194,500; Hanover reclamation plant additions, $5,165,000; a Salt Creek reclamation plant and interceptors, $57,777,000; and an O'Hare reclamation plant and interceptors, $45,966,000.

Flood control projects and the MSD deep tunnel project are also detailed in the 10-year plan but are not included in the grant application.

Usual federal participation in projects is 30 per cent, according to Neil. Another three per cent is added by getting application approval from the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, he said. This approval has been given on all past applications.

Local financial capability on projects will hinge on the state legislature, the engineer pointed out.

THE MSD IS SEEKING legislative approval to issue up to $380 million in bonds without a public referendum. A unique pegged levy on the district's construction fund has limited annual income to $30 million and the figure has proved insufficient.

Neil said the district will be set back in its 10-year scheduling unless the district gets the bonding power.

The federal Water Pollution Control Administration asked the MSD to submit the federal application whether or not federal funds are immediately available. As funds become available, grant approval would be possible, it was explained.

IN HIS REQUEST FOR authority to submit applications, Neil wrote, "Filing such applications will also emphasize the need for increased spending on the part of the federal government in order to meet the goals of water quality desired by all."

According to the 10-year program, the northwest suburban reclamation plants are all to get underway in 1969, either through completion of plans or some construction.

Spanish Club Plays Host to Children

The Forest View High School Spanish Club played Easter bunny last weekend to some 30 Head Start children.

The children were from the Northwest Cook County Opportunity Center, Palatine. While the youngsters were entertained with games and cupcakes, the high schoolers tested their Spanish skills by conversing with them.

The party was held in Pioneer Park, Arlington Heights.

Pups To Be On Display

"We'll sell you the right puppy or no puppy at all," Gunder Mayer and Marvin Schmidman, owners of the new Puppy Palace store in Northpoint Shopping Center in Arlington Heights, tell their customers. The store will hold its grand opening Saturday.

On opening day, photographers will be available to present customers with pictures of themselves and the puppies of their choosing. The photos will be given to them on the spot without charge.

Both Schmidman and Mayer have been trained through a course at Puppy Palace headquarters. They stock only purebred puppies and normally have about 40 different American Kennel Club (AKC) breeds on hand.

TO MAKE SURE THE family has chosen the right dog, Puppy Palace lets the customer take the pup home on trial for seven days. If the dog isn't perfect for the family's needs, they will exchange him for another of equal value, the owners said.

The Puppy Palace in the Northpoint Shopping Center fully air conditioned, stocks an assortment of puppy training and health supplies. The center also includes a laboratory area where shots and health needs are attended by a staff veterinarian.

Franchised by Puppy Palace Enterprises, Inc., a subsidiary of Mars, Inc., there are also Puppy Palaces in the New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C., areas.

Scout-O-Rama Sales Drive On

Area Boy Scouts are out to sell 100,000 tickets to Scout-O-Rama to be held April 26 and 27 at Arlington Park Race Track Exhibit Hall.

Some 280 Scouting units in the Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America, are "busy boys these days," according to Robert Nord of Mount Prospect, chairman of the committee on tickets and attendance.

Scout-O-Rama will be built around activities of 300 Scout units' booths. Displays will range from communications, kite making and archery to fingerprinting and canoe building.

Marlin Hadley of Arlington Heights, Scout-O-Rama chairman, said this year the event will be open until 9 p.m. on Saturday and 5 p.m. on Sunday. Later hours will provide the public with a greater opportunity to see the show, Hadley said.

PARTICIPATING units will receive 30 per cent of proceeds from Scout-O-Rama for program and camping materials. Other funds will be used for program and camping facilities for Scouts in the Northwest Suburban Council.

The council area includes Arlington Heights, Barrington, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

Sewer in August

Installation of portable sewage treatment plants in Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg has been pushed back to an Aug. 14 completion date.

Re-drafting site preparation contracts to permit 10 more construction days was the reason given for the delay. Completion had been predicted by late June.

Forrest C. Neil, acting chief engineer for the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD), said bids for a previous contract were returned unopened March 25. A new contract offered for bid will provide 100 construction days with $50 liquidated damages for each day in default.

BID OPENING will be April 22 and the estimated $63,000 contract awarded at the May 6 board meeting, Neil said.

The treatment plants, designed to serve 500 homes each, or about 50,000 gallons per day, are a temporary sewage treatment measure until the MSD has the Salt Creek reclamation plant in operation.

Elk Grove Village's plant is to serve Centex homes west of Route 53. The unit will be installed along Salt Creek on the site of the future MSD reclamation plant.

A unit to serve Mor-Well Builders, Schaumburg, will go along Salt Creek next to an existing Schaumburg sewage treatment plant.

SITE PREPARATION is to include a pumping station, concrete slabs for a plant base, 1,080 feet of piping, fencing, electrical equipment and work and a six-inch gravel road.

Campfire Girls Will Open District Office

The Campfire Girls will open their first district office in this area on April 12.

Located in the Executive House at Oakton St. and Arlington Heights Road, the office will serve seven districts and many municipalities.

DISTRICT CHAIRMAN Gordon Glorich said that staff and volunteers in the Arlington Heights office will work with Campfire groups from the north shore, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village and Hoffman Estates.

Also served from the office are Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Park Ridge, Schaumburg and Barrington.

Campfire officials plan an Open House when the office opens.

Ski Club Is Planning Dinner and Dancing

"Up Hill '69," an evening of dinner and dancing will be held Saturday night by the Ixex Ski Club.

The special event, which is open to the public, will be held at the Nielsens Village, 7330 W. North Ave., Elmwood Park.

Dinner is scheduled for 8 p.m. This is preceded by cocktails at 6 p.m. and dancing from 10 p.m. to midnight.

TICKETS, in the form of a donation to the Ski Club, are $6.

The Ixex Ski Club is made up of young adults from Arlington Heights, Palatine, Buffalo Grove, Park Ridge, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect.

The group held four ski trips during the past winter.

Tennis Picture Bright Again

Cards Open in New Trier Invitational

by CHUCK WILLOUR

Tennis at Arlington has always been something special.

Other sports have their ups and downs, winning one year and losing the next, but the Cardinal netmen are notoriously consistent — they win, year in and year out.

And, much to the dismay of the other nine tennis squads in the Mid-Suburban League, this year will probably be little different. With five lettermen returning off last year's conference and district championship squad, the Cards once again have to be considered the favorite in the MSL net title chase.

But they will be getting a run for their money this year, feels Card coach Tom Pitchford. "Prospect, Forest View and Hersey should all have outstanding teams this year, so the league should be much more balanced than it has been in the past," he says. "The conference race should be between us four."

IF THINGS GO as the Card coach would like, though, Arlington will be repeating both crowns, conference and district. "I set my goals high," Pitchford explains. "If I don't then I feel like I'm letting the kids down."

"But," he adds, "after those kids go out on the tennis court in a match, they're on their own. I can't go out there and hit the ball for them. So what happens this year really depends on a lot of things that are beyond my control."

The Cards kick off their season Saturday at the tough New Trier Invitational, a meet that always has the state's top squads entered and gives state tennis fans a good indication of what to expect in the upcoming season.

NO MATTER what happens, though, it's bound to be another banner year for the Cards. Pitchford has four lettermen back off last year's team that were regulars, and the fifth saw more than enough action to gain experience.

Leading the list of returnees are Ken Jorgensen and Greg Harris, a pair of talented netmen who combined last year to claim the doubles title in both the conference and district meets. This season Pitchford expects to play these two at either first or second singles spot, probably alternating through the year. In tournaments and for the district, though, they'll probably team up again as a doubles entry.

Tom Pitchford

Also coming back to bolster Arlington hopes for a repeat crown is the doubles unit that finished second in the conference and district behind Jorgensen and Harris, Bill Stelling and Paul Stevens. As a duo, these two last year upset the sixth seeded doubles squad in the state meet.

EVALUATING THESE two doubles squads, Jorgensen-Harris and Stelling-Stevens, Pitchford says, "As doubles teams they're about equal, one could beat the other just about any time. They could be two of the better doubles teams in the state if they continue to work hard and develop the necessary teamwork."

In addition to these four, Pitchford also has senior Bob Crockett back, who will be manning the number three singles spot behind Jorgensen and Harris. Crockett, figures Coach Pitchford, will be able to hold his own against just about anybody in the area at third singles.

In addition to the Stelling-Stevens doubles unit, Pitchford plans on using juniors Rob Baer and Scott McKay as his second doubles team throughout the dual meet season.

"They will definitely be playing at second doubles," says their coach. "They're both over six feet tall, strong and aggressive. They will continue the Arlington reputation of outstanding doubles teams."

Filling out the squad is junior Doug Hostedler, a youngster who played on last year's sophomore team. There are also approximately 40 members of the Card frosh-soph team coached by Gary Brodman, any one of whom could move up to varsity some time this year.

Winning in tennis at Arlington has always been a tradition and it looks like tradition will be given more weight this year.

Craighead Heads West

Greg Craighead, 6-foot-2, 218-pound tackle from Wheeling, has signed a letter of intent to enroll at Washington State University next fall.

Craighead is one of five Illinois preps who have signed with the football Cougars of the Pacific-8 Conference.

Kickin' It Around

IF THERE APPEARS to be a pre-occupation with basketball in this space, two weeks after the season ended, bear with us while an exploration of thoughts formed during the state tournament runs its course.

You always pick up some interesting ideas among the congregation of coaches, administrators and press at a state tournament, and the most widely-discussed subject at the 1969 finals in Champaign was the possibility of splitting the tourney into a class system.

The talk didn't stop there either as a presentation was made on this class system at a meeting last week of the Illinois High School Athletic Directors Association. A committee is studying the proposal.

We have been of the firm conviction that the one-class basketball system in Illinois is the "only way," but some of the arguments offered by small school coaches have obvious merit.

And before you shrug them off with an easy-way-out "let's leave it the way it is" attitude, we feel the case for the smaller schools should be presented and considered.

When the class system was outlined to the athletic directors, a majority expressed favorable reaction although it was obvious there was much disagreement on just how it could be handled.

The man who's leading the campaign to put a class system into the Illinois high school tournament is Chuck Rolinski, basketball coach and athletic director at Toluca High School.

Now, if you've never heard of Toluca let it be said here that this is a small school — 170 students — with a successful basketball program. Exceptionally successful.

Rolinski is not a man to present a proposal without something to back him up, and he came armed with facts at the athletic directors meeting. He'd done his homework and done it well.

Grid Sign-Up
In Elk Grove

Pre-registration for Elk Grove Boys Football will be held this Saturday, April 5, at 9:30 a.m. at Grove Junior High.

Elk Grove will field three teams in the fall program in the Chicago Suburban League, a Pop Warner franchise member.

The teams will be in the Pee-Wee division (age 9-12, weight 85-95); Widget division (age 9-12, weight 85-100); and Junior division (age 10-13, weight 100-120).

The official weigh-in date will be Sept. 1, 1969.

Due to an anticipated increase in the number of boys in the program, Elk Grove Boys Football is in need of additional men coaches.

Anyone interested in helping out as a coach should contact League Commissioner Jack Walsh, Elk Grove Village Sports, phone 437-5151.

SKOKIE VALLEY Power Squadron's Past Commander Frank G. Malone, 735 Morris Drive, Palatine, holds District 20 Educational Award The Prince Henry the Navigator Trophy. Malone has served the United States Power Squadrons for over five years. Malone is now District 20 Secretary, and is serving on the National echelon educational committee.

Most everyone knows that Hebron in 1961 is the only district school ever to win the state basketball title in Illinois. And we also remember the Cobden Appleknockers, runnerup in 1964.

However, Rolinski presented some revealing statistics. Since 1936 only 56 district schools have advanced to the sectionals. That figures out to .0067 of a per cent chance for a district team to stay alive that long. For a district team to reach the state finals, the percentage drops to .0011.

"I did vote in 1961 against classification," Rolinski admits, "but since I've been thrown into a district, I see the futility of the present system and I firmly believe the longer you coach in a smaller school, the more convinced you become that it's a near impossibility to even win the sectional."

It should not come as a shock to anyone that the chances of small schools reaching the pinnacle of Illinois basketball are extremely slim. It is wonderful to set high goals, but these goals should be at least reasonably obtainable.

How can schools of 200 or 400 students compete against the likes of an Evanston or Proviso East, our last two state champs?

Evanston has a college-type campus, four separate sub-systems each with its own principal, and a student body of 4,800. Actually, with so much going for it, we wonder sometimes why Evanston doesn't make it to Champaign practically every year. They certainly should be able to find six or seven basketball players from 4,800 students.

Proviso East has 3,600 students in the top four grades and when Proviso battled Waukegan in the state tourney, the two schools boasted a combined enrollment of 7,550. To get to the state, Waukegan beat Thornton and Thornton has 4,350 students.

Is it any wonder the smaller schools are becoming a little disturbed?

The proposal offered by Toluca High coach has any school with enrollment under 500 in Class B and any school of over 1,000 in Class A. Schools in between could declare at the beginning of the season for either Class A or B, depending on just what caliber of club a school might possess.

The basketball plan did not call for the A and B champions to play each other, although plans have been put forth to have the champs play or for the top two teams in the B tournament to join the top six in A to make a final "Elite Eight."

What would happen to your Hebrons and Cobdens if a class system were set up? Wouldn't a boy at a smaller school be happier to win the sectional tourney under the present one-class arrangement than a Class B Championship?

Although we admittedly haven't been exposed to all the arguments pro and con of a class system in Illinois, we are beginning to favor such an arrangement with the stipulation that any school, regardless how small, could declare in advance if it wished to play with the big guys.

That would open the door for any school to chase the American dream, to become another Hebron and live in the memory of basketball fans throughout Illinois.

If you had that great club, that "once in a lifetime" group of five or six boys, you could go after that big Class A prize and try to become another Hebron.

But if you saw that your club just couldn't compete at a higher level, then you would have the more realistic alternative to compete in your own class, a Class B, for example.

There are many factors to consider in any discussion of a class system of basketball in Illinois, but what is important right now is that these possibilities are being explored — and not ignored.

With growth comes change and changes are coming so fast in the interscholastic sports setup in Illinois that nothing should be ignored just because that's the easy way out.

Ten Years Ago...

Palatine won the Class B title at the Oak Park Relays, winning four relay events. . . Ken Gordon placed second over the 60 yard hurdles. . . Arlington was sixth in Class A with Rich Bader taking the 50 yard dash in 5.5. . . Bob Barr's line single drove Bill Baumrucker home with the decisive run in Palatine's 15-11 final, 5-4 victory over Elia-Vernon.

MAN IN MOTION. Tom Johann of Wheeling is little more than a blur as he whizzes down the backstretch of four-lap relay at the Wildcat Relays. The 'Cats captured this event at 1:10.6 and went on to rule the 13-squad gathering for the first time in five years.

Harper Net Coach Optimistic

When a coach's goal is a trip to the national finals with his team, you've got to call him an optimistic man.

That's just what Coach Roy Kearns is — optimistic. And he has reason to be as he prepares his Harper College tennis team for their first season ever.

The Hawks — weather permitting — will open up their campaign against Morton this Monday at 3 p.m. on the Recreation Park courts.

Kearns revealed his team's goal like this:

"We're looking at the season and pointing toward the Region IV and our conference meets. We hope to show well enough in those two contests to represent our area in the national finals."

The main cause for Kearns' hopefulness is Bill Von Boeckman. He lettered all four years at Arlington High School — the perennial local and state powerhouse.

"Bill looks like our No. 1 man," said Kearns. Then he listed his second through fifth men:

Doug Mueller from Fremd, Steve Engler from Mundelein, Russell Berry from St. Viator and Vince Engler, brother of Steve.

Other hopefuls on the team are Mike Wever from Forest View, Ron McGregor from Maine West, Dave Garland from Palatine and Marion Gizella from Maine West.

Presently, the Hawks are competing for the doubles spots. The Northern Illinois Junior College League (NIJCL) rules states that those who play in singles competition cannot compete in doubles play.

The Hawks have gotten in some good practices which was another reason for his optimism:

"We enjoyed that good weather at the beginning of March and we accomplished quite a bit I feel."

Presently, the NIJCL only allows two singles and one doubles match in a meet. However, Kearns points out that next year the rule will be changed and the league will be playing three singles and two doubles. So in this spring's meets, as a way of preparing for next year, they will be playing by next year's rules although the extra matches won't count.

Verburg Paces Pirate Win

Jim Verburg must have made a lasting impression on Elk Grove.

This outstanding track man from Palatine led the Pirates with three first places of his own as they whipped the Grenadiers, 83-44, last Tuesday afternoon on Grove track.

The dual meet, which was the first for either team outside, saw the Pirates rack up eight individual firsts along with a relay win.

Verburg captured the 100 yard dash in 10.5, the 220 dash in 22.6 and also the long jump with a leap of 18-7/4.

HENRY SCHNIEPP also contributed greatly to the Pirate cause winning two events — the high jump with a 5-4 effort and the discus with a toss of 147 3/4.

Other top performances for Palatine were:

Howard Krutzing in the 190 low hurdles (21.3), Paul Davenport in the two mile run (10:12.3) and Ed Meyer in the pole vault (12-0).

Copping the top spots for the Grove were:

Pat Texidor in the 120 high hurdles (16.1), Bob Bachus in the 880 run (2:03.6), John Flesch in the 440 dash (52.6), Wayne Wille in the mile run (4:34.0) and Bill Tews in the shot put (45-7 3/4).

Palatine won the 880 relay with a 1:34.7 clocking. Elk Grove had a 1:38.0.

However, the Grenadiers topped the Pirates in the mile relay 3:39.8-3:40.1.

THE YOUNG Grenadiers made up for the upperclassmen's loss by doing some thumping of their own. They whipped the Pirates 86-41.

There are question marks on both squads for the rest of the outdoor season. For Palatine there is much doubt as to whether its excellent mile — Phil Donahue — will recover from mononucleosis in time to rejoin the team. Donahue holds the school record in the mile of 4:17.9.

Other healthy thincalcs that Coach Joe Johnson expects to carry much of the load are Jeff Olsberg, Jim Verburg, Mark Visk, Steve Bahnheth, Don Giancaspro and Paul Davenport.

"I don't think we'll have as good a dual meet team as we did last year," said Johnson. "But in the big relays and the multi-team meets we should do well."

There are four question marks for the Grenadiers, according to Coach Rich Bader. They are Mike Michela, Mel Greathouse, Mike Brown and Bob Texidor.

Greathouse was the latest casualty on the team. He damaged some muscles in his shoulder at the Wildcat Relays last Friday.

Bader, who was asked just what kind of outdoor season he expected, said this:

"It all depends on health reasons. If these kids come back we'll be decent. We'll still be better than we were last year and we'll beat some people even without them."

"We're five and five indoors and that surprised us. We beat four teams that beat us last year."

Bader said that if any of these four did not get back into playing shape over the next two weeks, they probably wouldn't be back at all.

Other guys who have been doing the job for the Grove have been Pat Texidor, John Flesch, Wayne Wille, Bob Bachus, Jim Ottinger and Bill Tews.

Palatine's next meet will be a triangular affair at Conant with Niles North on Tuesday. Elk Grove will also be back in action then hosting Hersey.

Conant Wins On Links

Conant's golf team won its opening match of the 1969 season by a score of 163-173 over Addison Trail Tuesday at Golden Acres in Hoffman Estates.

Rich Ortwerth shot a 40 to lead Conant and Rich Johnson, Pat Dwyer and Bruce Bucks each shot a 41. Chris Dilger fired a 43.

Track Dual Cancelled

Harper College's outdoor track opener with Joliet last Tuesday afternoon was cancelled. The Joliet track was not in good enough shape to hold the dual meet, according to Harper coach Bob Nolan.

The meet is to be rescheduled sometime in the future, Nolan said.

The Hawks' next meet will be next Friday at Sauk Valley. Also competing will be Prairie State. The hosting school is located in Dixon.

Fremd Head Football Position Still Open

A new head football coach to replace Dick Gavagan at Fremd High School has not been chosen yet.

Fremd athletic director said Wednesday. Coaches from within and coaches outside the district are being interviewed but no action has been taken yet.

Gavagan resigned as head coach two months ago.

The special event, which is open to the public, will be held at the Nielsen Village, 7230 W. North Ave., Elmwood Park. Dinner is scheduled for 8 p.m. This is preceded by cocktails at 6 p.m. and dancing from 10 p.m. to midnight.

Tickets, in the form of a donation to the Ski Club, are $6.

The Ilex Ski Club is made up of young adults from Arlington Heights, Palatine, Buffalo Grove, Park Ridge, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect. The group held four ski trips during the past winter.

Decisive Weekend? Vikes Lose Tennis

This has to be a week for the challengers to gain some ground in the two Paddock Classic Traveling leagues.

With the second half races roaring to a windup the leaders could just about wrap things up with explosive performances Saturday evening.

Buck-in-Evanston owns a big eight point lead in the men's division, but with seven points passed out each Saturday night, there could be some surprises with a Buick slump.

The leaders will tangle with Morton Pontiac Saturday at Gunnell's Lanes, and Morton currently finds itself in a battle for second.

That struggle for second place honors is extremely interesting with only seven points separating five clubs.

Gaare Oil Co., which meets Des Plaines Bowl Saturday, Striking Lanes, and Langlo's Refinishing are tied for second, but Striking and Langlo's collide this weekend.

Maitre d' Restaurant and Elk Grove V & S Hardware will round out the Saturday competition at Gunnell's.

The women will assemble at Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights for the 6:30 p.m. bowling.

Doyle's Striking Lanes and Girard - Bruns, the two pace-setters, will both face formidable foes.

Doyle's - Striking, hoping to rebound from a loss last weekend, will tangle with Bank of Elk Grove at 6:30, and Girard - Bruns will take on Aloha-Duchess Beauty Salons.

Fremd lost its opening tennis match of the season 4½ to ½ Tuesday at Glenbrook North.

Randy Seiler picked up Fremd's half-point.

Fremd's Mark Dryfus lost 6-2, 6-1, Tom Langer was defeated 6-1, 6-1, George Manthey and Bob Stanifeld lost 6-3 and 6-4 in a doubles match and Chuck Weber and Dan Chin lost 6-1, 6-2.

Assessor's Salary, Benefits Hit

by DON BRANNAN

Complaints against the township assessor's salary and fringe benefits dominated the annual town meeting in Schaumburg Township Tuesday. The chief complainers were Michael Barnett, Hoffman Estates; and Sigal Thorsen, unincorporated Schaumburg Township.

A budget and appropriation ordinance totaling $125,987 was approved by township residents at the town meeting. About 85 persons were present at Keller School.

The township budget includes the transfer of $27,000 to the Mental Health Fund, transfer of $10,000 to the General Assistance Fund, and the transfer of $20,700 to the Library Fund.

Over the objections of Michael Barnett of Hoffman Estates, the Town Fund was approved as proposed in the budget, with expenditures amounting to $68,287. This included office supplies, office help, and printing and publishing expenses for township officials.

THE TOWNSHIP assessor's annual salary is $7,250 in the 1969-70 budget since the current terms of both the assessor and collector run until January. After Jan. 1, the assessor will be paid at the rate of $125 a week.

The Republican township platform called for opening a central township office and reductions in salary for the collector and assessor. Ralph Lyster, elected collector, has agreed to collect only $5,000 in salary from excess commissions collected.

According to township Atty. Ed Hofert, the assessor's salary is established by law at $7,500 annually. However, Scott MacEachron has agreed to accept a salary of $6,000 per year, with the saving being used to finance the township office in the Buttery.

SIGAL THORSEN, defeated in a write-in bid for assessor in Tuesday's township election, questioned whether the budgeted $7,250 salary for the assessor might become mandatory for the next four years.

According to statute, the assessor's salary must be established 30 days before he takes office.

This political issue was finally resolved when MacEachron took the floor and stated openly, "I have agreed to serve for $6,000 a year, and I would dishonor both myself and my party if I failed to live up to that pledge."

Barnett, who is also a member of the Republican organization, complained that salaries and administrative expenses of

Lewin: Give Choice of Schools

(This is the first of four interviews with School Dist. 54 candidates running for three-year terms. The other interviews will appear next week. In addition to the four seeking three-year terms, eight are running for one-year terms and three are running for a two-year term. The election is April 12.)

by DON BRANNAN

Gerald Lewin, candidate for a three-year term on the Dist. 54 school board, said that if he is elected, he will propose a permissive transfer plan for the school district.

Under such a plan, a pupil could attend any school in the district if parents had sufficient reason for preferring attendance at the school. This would benefit working mothers, Lewin contended.

"All the schools in the district belong to all the people in the district," the candidate said.

At present, boundary lines are drawn establishing the attendance areas for the district's 14 elementary schools and three junior high schools.

Prerequisites for approving pupil transfers, Lewin said, would include a written request to the superintendent, class size would have to be kept within acceptable limits, and parents would have to provide transportation to school if they exercised this option.

"AS A CANDIDATE I feel an obligation to complete any term to which I am elected," Lewin said. He noted that three of the vacancies up for election this year are for the remaining time of unexpired terms.

"In the past, as shown by the present withdrawal study, a large segment of the district has felt that the board has failed to serve all of the district. As a board member, I would work to unify the district and provide the high level of education needed by our children."

"Too many people can't see the forest

for the trees," Lewin asserted. "We need more emphasis on the community's school system and less emphasis on village governments. Most of our tax bills go to the public schools."

Lewin indicated he was a school board candidate primarily because he was not satisfied with past board actions in dealing with Dist. 54 school problems. "Just doing good enough isn't good enough," remarked the candidate.

"It's debatable how poor the school district really is," said Lewin, speaking of the fiscal fitness of Dist. 54. "On the one hand, $1,000 for eighth grade graduation was removed from the budget last year. Yet two board members will be attending a convention in Miami this month."

(It is frequently mentioned that, in terms of the assessed evaluation behind each pupil, Dist. 54 is the "fourth poorest school district in Cook County." The school district has 10,200 pupils this year.)

LEWIN WAS ALSO critical of some of the architectural extras included in the district's new Nathan Hale School. He feels that if the district is in a financial squeeze, some money could have been saved by eliminating any frills in building the school. Hale will open for classes April 7.

"If the school district is poor, then let's do something about it," Lewin said.

In regard to the Schaumburg citizens committee studying the feasibility of disannexing that village from the school district, Lewin commented, "I don't think there's anything to be gained by disannexation."

Lewin noted that the board recently abolished all music fees in the district, which eliminated $6,000 revenue from the school budget.

According to the candidate, however, board debate about whether or not to abolish the fees was off-course. The board eventually followed the superintendent's recommendation and eliminated the music fees. Supt. Wayne Schaible indicated there was some question as to whether such fees could be charged by a school district.

LEWIN WAS CRITICAL of the board's approach on the subject, however. "The board pays an attorney for legal advice. It should be up to him to give an opinion on the legality of such fees."

"If these fees are illegal, then they should be abolished. But board members are not qualified to determine legal questions. Their job is to establish school policy."

Lewin also spoke out in favor of shorter board meetings. It is common for Dist. 54 meetings to run until midnight. He suggested that shorter meetings could be arranged if more work was done through board committees. For example, a board subcommittee could study the concept of a 12-month school year and report its findings.

In giving his position on family living education in the schools, Lewin said, "If these materials are educationally sound and medically sound, then let's use them."

He commented further that "if there is one abuse, it does not mean that an entire school program is bad."

"AS A BOARD MEMBER I don't intend to be a 'Yell and Holler' personality, but I feel that in regard to zoning issues, the school board should go to local village boards with logical, thought-out positions from the viewpoint of the school system."

"I can't accept the position that something has been tried before and hasn't worked," he concluded.

Ballots Are Available

Absentee ballots for the April 15 Hoffman Estates election became available at the village hall yesterday.

In accordance with state statutes, applications for absentee ballots must be filed not more than 30 days nor less than five days prior to the scheduled election.

The final day for application by mail for an absentee ballot is April 10, and the ballot must be returned to the village hall by mail no later than April 14. The last day for filing an absentee ballot in person is April 12, according to the village clerk's office.

Persons eligible to vote by absentee ballot are those who either expect to be absent from Cook County between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. April 15, or those who are physically incapacitated and unable to get to the polls.

Policeman Aids Colt's Birth

Schaumburg Policeman Joseph Karakas assisted in delivering a baby Tuesday afternoon, but it was not the usual case of a mother unable to reach the hospital. This baby was a colt.

Officer Karakas had stopped at a gas station at Algonquin and Meacham Tuesday at about 1:30 p.m. when a woman came up to him crying and requested his help. The woman, Mrs. Paul Loeber, 2034 Meacham Road, explained that her mare was in labor and having difficulty. "Could you please help me?" she asked.

Karakas then hurried with Mrs. Loeber to the Loeber farm north of Algonquin on Meacham Road.

"The mare had backed itself into a corner, and the colt was having trouble getting free from its mother," Karakas said. "The colt was blue from lack of oxygen when I arrived to help."

HOWEVER, the policeman was able to move the mare and to pull the colt from its mother in a head-first delivery. The foal, a filly with a brown coat, was up on its feet soon after birth.

"I felt like a new daddy" following the colt's birth, said Karakas. He indicated that he felt that spring had arrived.

This was the first foal that Karakas has assisted in delivering. However, the policeman has assisted in two human births.

While serving as a Chicago policeman during the great snowstorm of 1966-67, Karakas assisted two women who gave birth at home. The policeman has been with the Schaumburg Police Department since January 1968.

Last January Karakas' wife gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl. Their names are Joey and Lisa. And the policeman also has another child, David, 3.

For the 24-year-old policeman, Tuesday was April foal's day instead of April fool's day.

Ave. and another on Roosevelt Road remembers the black clouds of smoke rising from the city in mid-afternoon as panicked motorists with their lights on struggled to escape the burning city.

"THIS TIME THE crowds in the area didn't seem anxious to start any action," reported Koretke. "The police were way ahead of the game."

Police, three and four deep on street corners near Lake and Damen were the first indication Koretke had of the disturbances in the West Side ghetto.

Koretke ran from his car into the industrial plant and immediately sent the shop and office force home.

"Some of the fellows were telling me there were fires in the Madison, Ashland, Western area," says Koretke. "That wasn't on the radio yet, but I believe them. They were absolutely right last year."

Last year Koretke remembers driving suburban women home through the burning city and putting terrified black women on buses that would take them to their threatened homes in the riot area.

THIS YEAR, blacks and whites left quietly.

"One of the guys in the shop told me 'I couldn't understand it last year, but this year it's completely ridiculous,'" says Koretke.

Koretke's employment force is composed of 15 per cent white, 50 per cent black, and 35 per cent Spanish.

"The Spanish fellows really have it tough," he says. "They keep saying, 'I want to start a fight, but what's my cause?'"

Candidate Series Will Start Monday

A profile series of the 15 candidates involved in the Hoffman Estates village election will begin in the Herald next Monday.

First to be reviewed is background and qualification information, as well as facts obtained through personal interviews with the three candidates for clerk — Mrs. Virginia Netter of the village Republican Party (GOP); Mrs. Joan Holmes, running on the Hoffman Independent Party (HIP) ticket; and Mrs. Delores Ward, of the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP).

Wednesday's issue will feature similar information on the nine trustee candidates and the three-part series will conclude Friday with information on the village presidential nominees.

Firemen Aid

Three Hoffman Estates firemen helped combat what was called "a violent chemical reaction" in Elk Grove Village Wednesday morning at the Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy.

Deputy Fire Chief Ed Kalasas and two firemen, Don Selke and Robert Scholtz, were hospitalized for possible harmful effects due to toxic fumes following the fire, along with 15 other firemen. All have been released.

A TRUCK FROM the Hoffman Estates department also was on standby from the Elk Grove station during the chemical flare up and responded to one call.

Fire officials said the exact cause of the incident is unknown, but they know the fumes were produced when sodium dichloral - triazinetrione was mixed with an unknown chemical, producing the reaction.

Between The Lines

What Happened?

Beautification is one of those elusive things. Like the flag and motherhood, everyone is for it. And anytime development plans are presented to the village fathers you can be sure the sketches show plenty of trees and green areas.

Even the original plans presented for downtown Hoffman Estates showed "islands of landscape" (Downtown Hoffman Estates in the conglomeration of gas stations, individual businesses, shopping centers and most of all asphalt seas lying along Roselle Road between Golf and Higgins).

When plans for the downtown area were formulated nine years ago, developers had several things in mind that must have been waylaid at some point.

First of all the shopping areas on the east and west side of Roselle were to be connected by a pedestrian overpass. That's something that would still have merit and should be considered.

THE SHOPPING AREA to the west was to be ringed by apartments (according to the drawings, not more than 20 to the acre) and an 80-unit motel. A multi-story medical-office building was shown in the plans.

The east side had two large shopping center units. And all along the edges of Roselle Road were "islands of landscaping." All in all, the plans of 1960 look so much more attractive than what we know as reality in 1969.

A beautification of this area was planned some time ago, but didn't quite get off the ground. Maybe something positive will happen after April 15?

Another interesting note about the 1960 proposal: Apartments, one and two bedroom units only, were being constructed for the convenience of teachers and other single people working in the area. That brings to mind what all of the major apartment developers have told Schaumburg officials in the past six months — young executives will be occupying these units.

Light Vote Dumps Park Incumbents

Despite a light voter turnout Tuesday, three out of four incumbent candidates in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg park district races were rejected by electors.

And in both park districts, board members currently serving as park vice presidents were defeated in favor of newcomers.

In Hoffman Estates, where eight candidates were vying for two six year terms, challengers George F. Seaver Jr. and

Fred R. Weaver unseated incumbents Edwin L. Frank and William G. McGonigle.

A former village trustee, Seaver, 40, a resident of the High Point area, was the top vote getter with a record 522 ballots cast in his favor.

Weaver, 30, a resident of the Highlands, came in second with 309 votes.

MANY PARK district observers appeared convinced Wednesday that both candidates had received substantial support from GOP forces in the village.

During his term on the village board, Seaver, a pilot with United Air Lines, served as chairman of the park and recreation committee prior to formation of a park district.

Weaver is a unit sales manager with Procter and Gamble and has not previously been active either in civic or political groups in the village.

Contacted by the Herald after the election count came in, Frank expressed disappointment at his defeat but stressed that the choice "was up to residents of the park district."

He was a runner-up with 284 votes.

Frank said he is extremely sorry about not being able to "finish the job started at High Point Park" but also expressed "personal satisfaction" over "a job well done while on the board."

"I CAN'T envision living in a community and not becoming active again in some part of it," he said.

McGonigle, a former business partner of Trustee James Sloan, expressed confidence that "the two who got elected will function well on the board." He had captured 180 votes.

Other candidates were Philip Moore, 237 votes; Louis Dalitto, 101 votes; William Lee, 80 votes; and Anthony Infelise, 80 votes.

In Schaumburg, four candidates ran for two six-year terms, and a fifth, Doyle Erkenbeck, an incumbent, ran unopposed for the remaining two years of a full six-year term.

Newcomers John Brandenburg with 113 votes and John Deuss with 85 votes were successful in their bid for the six-year terms.

Both are residents of Weathersfield and have expressed an interest in park affairs for a number of years.

JAMES ASHER, the incumbent and park board president, gathered 62 votes, while Raymond C. Hum came in third with 75 votes.

Asher also is a Weathersfield resident while Hum lives in the Timbercrest subdivision.

Several park board observers in Schaumburg expressed concern over their feeling that Asher should not have run and doubted that his previous term had been completed.

Six-Year Term Winner Gets Highest Total

Mrs. Virginia McNaughton of Hoffman Estates received the most votes in Tuesday's library board election. She garnered 1,130.

Running behind her in vote totals were the other two candidates elected to six-year terms: George D. Pearson, 114 Alhambra Lane, Hoffman Estates, 1,004 votes; and Robert B. Lyons, 250 Hermitage Lane, Hoffman Estates, 1,074 votes.

The losing candidate in the library race was Mrs. Alice A. Martin, Hanover Park, with 888 votes.

Also elected for partial terms Tuesday were two unopposed candidates, Mrs. Marjorie Franck and Mrs. Judith Stiff.

Library Is 6,543 Cards Ahead Now

Schaumburg Township Library issued 6,543 new library cards last year and business was up 55 per cent over the preceding year, the annual library report shows.

In addition, the Schaumburg Township Library led all other libraries in the North Suburban Library System in the number of loan requests for the past year.

The township library now has almost 30,000 volumes.

DURING THE coming year, the library plans to develop a collection of 1,500 recordings with two listening areas, a small collection of 8 mm films, a picture collection in the children's room and a fine art print collection.

The library also plans to reduce its warrant debt from $72,000 to $35,000 in the next year, and the mortgage will be reduced from $21,860 to $18,000.

Approximately $15,000 will be set aside for the library's building fund to permit expansion at a later date. About 9,600 new books were added in the past year.

Sitting Class Set

This week members of Hoffman Estates Women's Club issued the last call for enrollment in "Operation Baby Sitting," a three-session course being offered to young people between the ages of 11 and 17.

Sponsored by the club's Home Life Committee, under the direction of Mrs. Leon Hammett, the free course is being offered in conjunction with Hoffman-Schaumburg Registered Nurses Club and representatives of the village police and fire departments.

Meetings will be held three consecutive Mondays this month — April 14, 21 and 28 at Hoffman Estates Fire Department, 160 Flagstaff Lane.

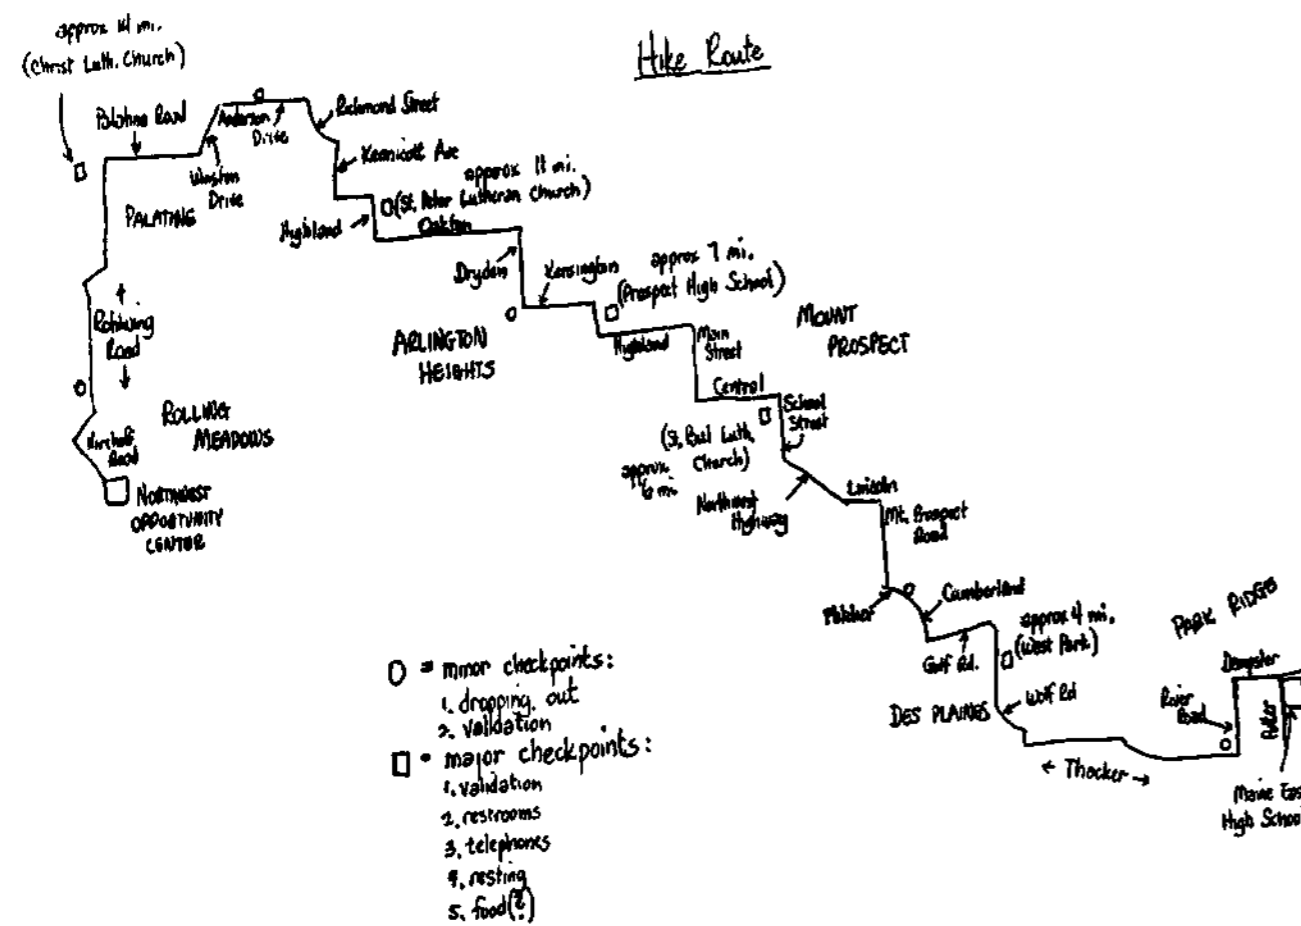

The April 14 meeting, an orientation period, will run from 7 to 8 p.m., while the other two meetings will be held from 7 to 9 p.m.

The five-hour course will cover infant care, emergencies and care of the older child in order to acquaint sitters and prospective sitters with proper handling of emergency situations and the duties of an efficient sitter.

Representatives of the fire department have asked that any persons who drive to the course, park in the adjacent lot rather than at either the front or rear of the firehouse.

Persons interested in attending the course are asked to send names, addresses, phone numbers, ages and school attended immediately to Mrs. Leon Hammett, 355 Alcoa Lane, Hoffman Estates, 60172.

Hikers May Set Record

At least 1,780 teenagers and adults are registered to march in today's 16-mile "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban Northwest.

It could be the largest march of its kind in the history of this area.

David Wurm, youth minister at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect and a march coordinator, told the Herald that he estimated an additional 220 persons would register early this morning — if the weather stayed good.

The forecast for northern Illinois is cloudy and mild with occasional rain likely today. Heavy rain would cut the number of marchers.

However, Wurm said that it would be virtually impossible to cancel the march, which will snake through Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Only very bad weather would cancel the march, he said.

The hikers against poverty were to assemble this morning at 7:30 at Maine East High School, Dempster and Potter, in Park Ridge. The march was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

THE PARTICIPANTS must be sponsored on a fixed amount of money per mile. A sponsor, for example, could sponsor a teenager at 50 cents a mile. If the marcher completed the 16-mile route, the sponsor would owe $8.

The money will be donated to three benefit organizations — Bialfran relief, and Ecuadorian farm project and the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

The march, which will be protected and guided by police in the various suburbs, will move northwest from Park Ridge to Palatine at Palatine. It will move south to the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, where it will end.

The route has been designed to keep the marchers clear of major highways, such as Northwest Highway, to avoid blocking traffic. The marchers are expected to arrive in Rolling Meadows at about 3 or 4 p.m.

About 200 adults will be needed along the route to serve as marshals. They will keep marchers in columns, in order, aid them in crossing streets, and man checkpoints along the route. Twelve checkpoints will permit marchers to drop out if they choose to do so and to rest and possibly obtain food.

THE HIKERS will wear armbands. Many have spent the week painting signs with slogans like "Down with Hunger" and "Soul Power."

The goal for donations is $120,000. Wurm is not optimistic about reaching that goal, but he said he would have to wait until tomorrow before he has even a rough estimate of the march's success.

Supporters of the march have been seeking support in area high schools during the past couple weeks. Many marchers have gained several sponsors, and they are prepared to march as far as possible.

Roger Obst, 816 N. Drury Lane in Arlington Heights, has located about 40 sponsors. If he completes the entire walk, he can raise $115 as his contribution to the three funds.

Can he complete the march? "I hope so. I think it's really a great cause. But I've never walked that far before."

HE PLANS to wear tennis shoes to make the walk as comfortable as possible. However, his clothing depends on the weather; if it rains, he'll dress for it.

Peggy Schreiber of Arlington Heights has gained about 40 sponsors, and if she completes the march, she will have raised from $330 to $411. "I'm going to take the whole hike," she told a Herald reporter.

She is the daughter of the minister of Faith Lutheran Church, Rev. Vernon Schreiber. The family moved to Arlington Heights Jan. 21. Peggy has been actively seeking sponsors, and she is firmly convinced she will march the entire route.

Sewage, Water OK For Realtor and Bank

The village sewer and water committee, under the leadership of Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble, recently agreed to serve Schaumburg State Bank and Nelson Realty, who will both be building new facilities in a portion of Schaumburg not presently able to provide these services.

During last week's village board meeting, Noble, a candidate for village president on the Hoffman Estates Party ticket, reported the decision of his committee.

In related action, Noble proposed, and the board accepted, purchase of a $2,300 Graphotype machine, manufactured by Addressograph Corp., for processing and addressing water bills sent to area residents every other month.

Assessor's Salary, Benefits Hit

by DON BRANNAN

Complaints against the township assessor's salary and fringe benefits dominated the annual town meeting in Schaumburg Township Tuesday. The chief complainers were Michael Barnett, Hoffman Estates; and Sigal Thorsen, unincorporated Schaumburg Township.

A budget and appropriation ordinance totaling $125,987 was approved by township residents at the town meeting. About 85 persons were present at Keller School.

The township budget includes the transfer of $27,000 to the Mental Health Fund, transfer of $10,000 to the General Assistance Fund, and the transfer of $20,700 to the Library Fund.

Over the objections of Michael Barnett of Hoffman Estates, the Town Fund was approved as proposed in the budget, with expenditures amounting to $68,287. This included office supplies, office help, and printing and publishing expenses for township officials.

THE TOWNSHIP assessor's annual salary is $7,250 in the 1969-70 budget since the current terms of both the assessor and collector run until January. After Jan. 1, the assessor will be paid at the rate of $125 a week.

The Republican township platform called for opening a central township office and reductions in salary for the collector and assessor. Ralph Lyerla, elected collector, has agreed to collect only $5,000 in salary from excess commissions collected.

According to township Atty. Ed Hofert, the assessor's salary is established by law at $7,500 annually. However, Scott MacEachron has agreed to accept a salary of $6,000 per year, with the saving being used to finance the township office in the Buttery.

SIGAL THORSEN, defeated in a write-in bid for assessor in Tuesday's township election, questioned whether the budgeted $7,250 salary for the assessor might become mandatory for the next four years.

According to statute, the assessor's salary must be established 30 days before he takes office.

This political issue was finally resolved when MacEachron took the floor and stated openly, "I have agreed to serve for $6,000 a year, and I would dishonor both myself and my party if I failed to live up to that pledge."

Barnett, who is also a member of the Republican organization, complained that salaries and administrative expenses of

Lewin: Give Choice of Schools

(This is the first of four interviews with School Dist. 54 candidates running for three-year terms. The other interviews will appear next week. In addition to the four seeking three-year terms, eight are running for one-year terms and three are running for a two-year term. The election is April 12.)

by DON BRANNAN

Gerald Lewin, candidate for a three-year term on the Dist. 54 school board, said that if he is elected, he will propose a permissive transfer plan for the school district.

Under such a plan, a pupil could attend any school in the district if parents had sufficient reason for preferring attendance at the school. This would benefit working mothers, Lewin contended.

"All the schools in the district belong to all the people in the district," the candidate said.

At present, boundary lines are drawn establishing the attendance areas for the district's 14 elementary schools and three junior high schools.

Prerequisites for approving pupil transfers, Lewin said, would include a written request to the superintendent, class size would have to be kept within acceptable limits, and parents would have to provide transportation to school if they exercised this option.

"AS A CANDIDATE I feel an obligation to complete any term to which I am elected," Lewin said. He noted that three of the vacancies up for election this year are for the remaining time of unexpired terms.

"In the past, as shown by the present withdrawal study, a large segment of the district has felt that the board has failed to serve all of the district. As a board member, I would work to unify the district and provide the high level of education needed by our children."

"Too many people can't see the forest

for the trees," Lewin asserted. "We need more emphasis on the community's school system and less emphasis on village governments. Most of our tax bills go to the public schools."

Lewin indicated he was a school board candidate primarily because he was not satisfied with past board actions in dealing with Dist. 54 school problems. "Just doing good enough isn't good enough," remarked the candidate.

"I can't accept the position that something has been tried before and hasn't worked," he concluded.

This Time—'A Different Smell'

by MARY DRESSER

For the second time in 12 months commuters from the northwest Chicago suburbs found themselves leaving the city yesterday amid reports of rioting on the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination. Below is the reflections of one area resident who went through both experiences.

"The smell was different on the street corners."

William Koretko of Elk Grove was in the middle of last year's rioting.

Yesterday afternoon there was "a world of difference," he said.

Koretko who manages a plant on Damen

Ave. and another on Roosevelt Road remembers the black clouds of smoke rising from the city in mid-afternoon as panicked motorists with their lights on struggled to escape the burning city.

"THIS TIME THE crowds in the area didn't seem anxious to start any action," reported Koretko. "The police were way ahead of the game."

Policeman Aids Colt's Birth

Schaumburg Policeman Joseph Karakas assisted in delivering a baby Tuesday afternoon, but it was not the usual case of a mother unable to reach the hospital. This baby was a colt.

Officer Karakas had stopped at a gas station at Algonquin and Meacham Tuesday at about 1:30 p.m. when a woman came up to him crying and requested his help. The woman, Mrs. Paul Loeber, 2034 Meacham Road, explained that her mare was in labor and having difficulty. "Could you please help me?" she asked.

Karakas then hurried with Mrs. Loeber to the Loeber farm north of Algonquin on Meacham Road.

"The mare had backed itself into a corner, and the colt was having trouble getting free from its mother," Karakas said. "The colt was blue from lack of oxygen when I arrived to help."

HOWEVER, the policeman was able to move the mare and to pull the colt from its mother in a head-first delivery. The foal, a filly with a brown coat, was up on its feet soon after birth.

"I felt like a new daddy" following the

This was the first foal that Karakas has assisted in delivering. However, the policeman has assisted in two human births. While serving as a Chicago policeman during the great snowstorm of 1968-69, Karakas assisted two women who gave birth at home. The policeman has been with the Schaumburg Police Department since January 1968.

Last January Karakas' wife gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl. Their names are Joey and Lisa. And the policeman also has another child, David, 3.

For the 24-year-old policeman, Tuesday was April foal's day instead of April fool's day.

Three Hoffman Estates firemen helped combat what was called "a violent chemical reaction" in Elk Grove Village Wednesday morning at the Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy.

Deputy Fire Chief Ed Kalassa and two firemen, Don Selke and Robert Schell, were hospitalized for possible harmful effects due to toxic fumes following the fire, along with 15 other firemen. All have been released.

A TRUCK FROM the Hoffman Estates department also was on standby from the Elk Grove station during the chemical flare up and responded to one call.

Fire officials said the exact cause of the incident is unknown, but they know the fumes were produced when sodium dichloral-triazinetriene was mixed with an unknown chemical, producing the reaction.

Between The Lines

What Happened?

Beautification is one of those elusive things. Like the flag and motherhood, everyone is for it. And anytime development plans are presented to the village fathers you can be sure the sketches show plenty of trees and green areas.

Even the original plans presented for downtown Hoffman Estates showed "islands of landscape." (Downtown Hoffman Estates in the conglomeration of gas stations, individual businesses, shopping centers and most of all asphalt seas lying along Roselle Road between Golf and Higgins.)

When plans for the downtown area were formulated nine years ago, developers had several things in mind that must have been waylaid at some point.

First of all the shopping areas on the east and west side of Roselle were to be connected by a pedestrian overpass. That's something that would still have merit and should be considered.

THE SHOPPING AREA to the west was to be ringed by apartments (according to the drawings, not more than 20 to the acre) and an 80-unit motel. A multi-story medical-office building was shown in the plans.

The east side had two large shopping center units. And all along the edges of Roselle Road were "islands of landscaping." All in all, the plans of 1960 look so much more attractive than what we know as reality in 1969.

A beautification of this area was planned some time ago, but didn't quite get off the ground. Maybe something positive will happen after April 15?

Another interesting note about the 1960 proposal: Apartments, one and two bedroom units only, were being constructed for the convenience of teachers and other single people working in the area. That brings to mind what all of the major apartment developers have told Schaumburg officials in the past six months — young executives will be occupying these units.

Light Vote Dumps Park Incumbents

Despite a light voter turnout Tuesday, three out of four incumbent candidates in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg park district races were rejected by electors.

And in both park districts, board members currently serving as park vice presidents were defeated in favor of newcomers.

In Hoffman Estates, where eight candidates were vying for two six year terms, challengers George F. Seaver Jr. and

Fred R. Weaver unseated incumbents Edwin L. Frank and William G. McGonigle.

A former village trustee, Seaver, 40, a resident of the High Point area, was the top vote getter with a record 522 ballots cast in his favor.

Weaver, 30, a resident of the Highlands, came in second with 309 votes.

MANY PARK district observers appeared convinced Wednesday that both candidates had received substantial support from GOP forces in the village.

During his term on the village board, Seaver, a pilot with United Air Lines, served as chairman of the park and recreation committee prior to formation of a park district.

Weaver is a unit sales manager with Procter and Gamble and has not previously been active either in civic or political groups in the village.

Contacted by the Herald after the election count came in, Frank expressed disappointment at his defeat but stressed that the choice "was up to residents of the park district."

He was a runner-up with 264 votes.

Frank said he is extremely sorry about not being able to "finish the job started at High Point Park" but also expressed "personal satisfaction" over "a job well done while on the board."

"I CAN'T envision living in a community and not becoming active again in some part of it," he said.

McGonigle, a former business partner of Trustee James Sloan, expressed confidence that "the two who got elected will function well on the board." He had captured 180 votes.

Other candidates were Philip Moore, 237 votes; Louis Dalitto, 101 votes; William Lee, 90 votes; and Anthony Infelise, 80 votes.

In Schaumburg, four candidates ran for two six-year terms, and a fifth, Doyle Erkenbeck, an incumbent, ran unopposed for the remaining two years of a full six-year term.

Newcomers John Brandenburg with 113 votes and John Deuse with 85 votes were successful in their bid for the six-year terms.

Both are residents of Weathersfield and have expressed an interest in park affairs for a number of years.

JAMES ASHER, the incumbent and park board president, gathered 63 votes, while Raymond C. Hum came in third with 75 votes.

Asher also is a Weathersfield resident while Hum lives in the Timbercrest subdivision.

Several park board observers in Schaumburg expressed concern over their feeling that Asher should not have run and doubted that his previous term had been completed.

Six-Year Term Winner Gets Highest Total

Mrs. Virginia McNaughton of Hoffman Estates received the most votes in Tuesday's library board election. She garnered 1,130.

Running behind her in vote totals were the other two candidates elected to six-year terms: George D. Pearson, 114 Alhambra Lane, Hoffman Estates, 1,094 votes; and Robert E. Lyons, 250 Hermitage Lane, Hoffman Estates, 1,074 votes.

The losing candidate in the library race was Mrs. Alice A. Martin, Hanover Park, with 888 votes.

Also elected for partial terms Tuesday were two unopposed candidates, Mrs. Marjorie Franck and Mrs. Judith Stiff.

Library Is 6,543 Cards Ahead Now

Schaumburg Township Library issued 6,543 new library cards last year and business was up 55 per cent over the preceding year, the annual library report shows.

In addition, the Schaumburg Township Library led all other libraries in the North Suburban Library System in the number of loan requests for the past year.

The township library now has almost 30,000 volumes.

DURING THE coming year, the library plans to develop a collection of 1,500 recordings with two listening areas, a small collection of 8 mm films, a picture collection in the children's room and a fine art print collection.

The library also plans to reduce its warrant debt from $72,000 to $58,000 in the next year, and the mortgage will be reduced from $21,800 to $18,000.

Approximately $15,000 will be set aside for the library's building fund to permit expansion at a later date. About 9,800 new books were added in the past year.

Sitting Class Set

This week members of Hoffman Estates Women's Club issued the last call for enrollment in "Operation Baby Sitting," a three-session course being offered to young people between the ages of 11 and 17.

Sponsored by the club's Home Life Committee, under the direction of Mrs. Leon Hammett, the free course is being offered in conjunction with Hoffman-Schaumburg Registered Nurses Club and representatives of the village police and fire departments.

Meetings will be held three consecutive Mondays this month — April 14, 21 and 28 at Hoffman Estates Fire Department, 160 Flagstaff Lane.

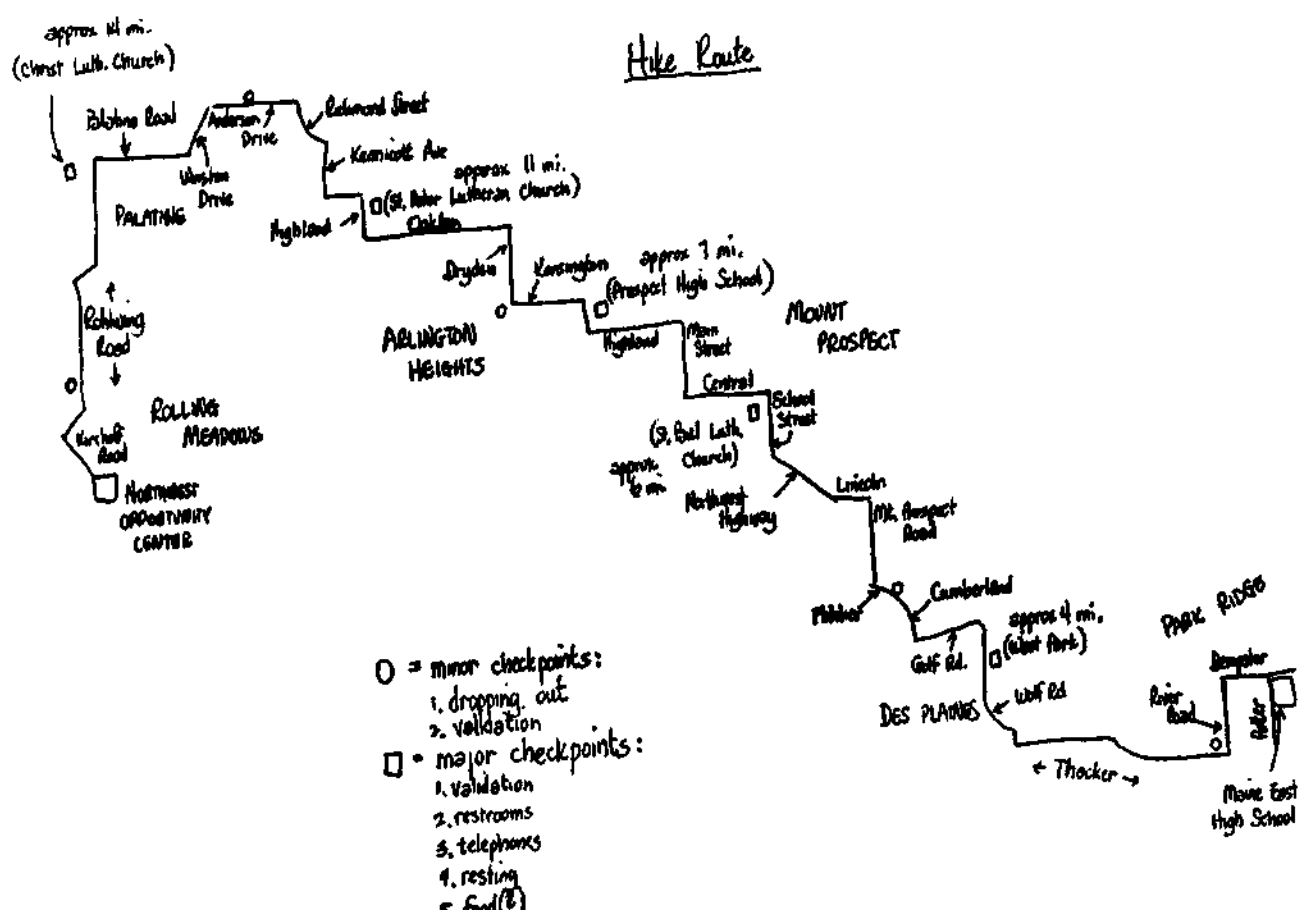

The April 14 meeting, an orientation period, will run from 7 to 8 p.m., while the other two meetings will be held from 7 to 8 p.m.

The five-hour course will cover infant care, emergencies and care of the older child in order to acquaint sitters and prospective sitters with proper handling of emergency situations and the duties of an efficient sitter.

Representatives of the fire department have asked that any persons who drive to the course, park in the adjacent lot rather than at either the front or rear of the firehouse.

Persons interested in attending the course are asked to send names, addresses, phone numbers, ages and school attended immediately to Mrs. Leon Hammett, 355 Alcoa Lane, Hoffman Estates, 60172.

Hikers May Set Record

At least 1,700 teenagers and adults are registered to march in today's 16-mile "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban Northwest.

It could be the largest march of its kind in the history of this area.

David Wurm, youth minister at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect and a march coordinator, told the Herald that he estimated an additional 220 persons would register early this morning — if the weather stayed good.

The forecast for northern Illinois is cloudy and mild with occasional rain likely today. Heavy rain would cut the number of marchers.

However, Wurm said that it would be virtually impossible to cancel the march, which will snake through Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Only very bad weather would cancel the march, he said.

The hikers against poverty were to assemble this morning at 7:30 at Maine East High School, Dempster and Potter, in Park Ridge. The march was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

THE PARTICIPANTS must be sponsored on a fixed amount of money per mile. A sponsor, for example, could sponsor a teenager at 50 cents a mile. If the marcher completed the 16-mile route, the sponsor would owe $8.

The money will be donated to three benefit organizations — Bialfran relief, and Ecuadorian farm project and the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

The march, which will be protected and guided by police in the various suburbs, will move northwest from Park Ridge to Palatine at Palatine. It will move south to the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, where it will end.

The route has been designed to keep the marchers clear of major highways, such as Northwest Highway, to avoid blocking traffic. The marchers are expected to arrive in Rolling Meadows at about 3 or 4 p.m.

About 200 adults will be needed along the route to serve as marshals. They will keep marchers in columns, in order, aid them in crossing streets, and man checkpoints along the route. Twelve checkpoints will permit marchers to drop out if they choose to do so and to rest and possibly obtain food.

THE HIKERS will wear armbands. Many have spent the week painting signs with slogans like "Down with Hunger" and "Soul Power."

The goal for donations is $120,000. Wurm is not optimistic about reaching that goal, but he said he would have to wait until tomorrow before he has even a rough estimate of the march's success.

Supporters of the march have been seeking support in area high schools during the past couple weeks. Many marchers have gained several sponsors, and they are prepared to march as far as possible.

Roger Obst, 818 N. Drury Lane in Arlington Heights, has located about 40 sponsors. If he completes the entire walk, he can raise $115 as his contribution to the three funds.

Can he complete the march? "I hope so. I think it's really a great cause. But I've never walked that far before."

HE PLANS to wear tennis shoes to make the walk as comfortable as possible. However, his clothing depends on the weather; if it rains, he'll dress for it.

Peggy Schreiber of Arlington Heights has gained about 40 sponsors, and if she completes the march, she will have raised from $330 to $411. "I'm going to take the whole hike," she told a Herald reporter.

She is the daughter of the minister of Faith Lutheran Church, Rev. Vernon Schreiber. The family moved to Arlington Heights Jan. 21. Peggy has been actively seeking sponsors, and she is firmly convinced she will march the entire route.

Sewage, Water OK For Realtor and Bank

The village sewer and water committee, under the leadership of Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble, recently agreed to serve Schaumburg State Bank and Nelson Realty, who will both be building new facilities in a portion of Schaumburg not presently able to provide these services.

During last week's village board meeting, Noble, a candidate for village president on the Hoffman Estates Party ticket, reported the decision of his committee.

In related action, Noble proposed, and the board accepted, purchase of a $2,300 Graphotype machine, manufactured by Addressograph Corp., for processing and addressing water bills sent to area residents every other month.

Why GOP Entered

The alleged complete failure of the Jenkins-Noble administration in the areas of planning and zoning was cited as one of the prime reasons for the entry of the GOP in Hoffman Estates elections according to a news statement received Thursday from Fred Downey, Republican candidate for village president.

"In choosing the slate, the Republican state-making committee paid special attention to the qualifications of candidates pertaining to zoning and planning," Downey said. "Every member of the Republican slate is concerned with these areas of village administration and two of us, Virginia Hayter and myself, have more experience in this area than all the candidates on the other slates combined."

Downey said he and Mrs. Hayter have spent countless hours during the last seven years testifying at zoning and planning hearings in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows.

"AS REPRESENTATIVES of School Dist. 54," Downey said, "Mrs. Hayter and I have tried to point out the relationship of village zoning and planning practices to providing an adequate tax base on which to operate the school districts. Since all of us are interested in the best possible education for our children, and since about 80 per cent of our property taxes go to the school districts to provide this education, we feel it essential that a spirit of cooperation exist between school districts and village administrators."

"In Hoffman Estates, our words have gone unheeded and the result has been that the assessed valuation per student has declined from $11,000 in 1962 to about $8,500 today."

He noted that the likelihood of further devaluation seems imminent because of continuing zoning practices in the village, such as Kaufman and Brood's large number of three-bedroom townhouse units.

DOWNEY SAID the problem is further complicated by a group in Schaumburg presently investigating the possibility of disincorporating their village from Dist. 54 in order to form their own separate school district. "One of their stated reasons for considering this action is fear of continuation of the zoning practices of the Jenkins-Noble administration."

"The Hoffman Estates GOP village slate proposes to implement good long-range planning and zoning by adherence to a professionally prepared master plan of the village. Such a plan will direct land use in the village to the most efficient means of increasing assessed valuation, broadening the tax base and making our village a better place to live and raise our families," Downey said.

"In no other way can we hope to overcome the difficulties in which we now find ourselves."

Assessor's Salary, Benefits Hit

by DON BRANNAN

Complaints against the township assessor's salary and fringe benefits dominated the annual town meeting in Schaumburg Township Tuesday. The chief complainers were Michael Barnett, Hoffman Estates; and Sigal Thorsen, unincorporated Schaumburg Township.

A budget and appropriation ordinance totaling $125,987 was approved by township residents at the town meeting. About 85 persons were present at Keller School.

The township budget includes the transfer of $27,000 to the Mental Health Fund, transfer of $10,000 to the General Assistance Fund, and the transfer of $20,700 to the Library Fund.

Over the objections of Michael Barnett of Hoffman Estates, the Town Fund was approved as proposed in the budget, with expenditures amounting to $68,287. This included office supplies, office help, and printing and publishing expenses for township officials.

THE TOWNSHIP assessor's annual salary is $7,250 in the 1969-70 budget since the current terms of both the assessor and collector run until January. After Jan. 1, the assessor will be paid at the rate of $125 a week.

The Republican township platform called for opening a central township office and reductions in salary for the collector and assessor Ralph Lyerla, elected collector, has agreed to collect only $5,000 in salary from excess commissions collected.

According to township Atty. Ed Hofert, the assessor's salary is established by law at $7,500 annually. However, Scott MacEachron has agreed to accept a salary of $6,000 per year, with the saving being used to finance the township office in the Buttery.

SIGAL THORSEN, defeated in a write-in bid for assessor in Tuesday's township election, questioned whether the budgeted $7,250 salary for the assessor might become mandatory for the next four years.

According to statute, the assessor's salary must be established 30 days before he takes office.

This political issue was finally resolved when MacEachron took the floor and stated openly, "I have agreed to serve for $6,000 a year, and I would dishonor both myself and my party if I failed to live up to that pledge."

Barnett, who is also a member of the Republican organization, complained that salaries and administrative expenses of

Lewin: Give Choice of Schools

(This is the first of four interviews with School Dist. 54 candidates running for three-year terms. The other interviews will appear next week. In addition to the four seeking three-year terms, eight are running for one-year terms and three are running for a two-year term. The election is April 12.)

by DON BRANNAN

Gerald Lewin, candidate for a three-year term on the Dist. 54 school board, said that if he is elected, he will propose a permissive transfer plan for the school district.

Under such a plan, a pupil could attend any school in the district if parents had sufficient reason for preferring attendance at the school. This would benefit working mothers, Lewin contended.

"All the schools in the district belong to all the people in the district," the candidate said.

At present, boundary lines are drawn establishing the attendance areas for the district's 14 elementary schools and three junior high schools.

Prerequisites for approving pupil transfers, Lewin said, would include a written request to the superintendent; class size would have to be kept within acceptable limits, and parents would have to provide transportation to school if they exercised this option.

"AS A CANDIDATE I feel an obligation to complete any term to which I am elected," Lewin said. He noted that three of the vacancies up for election this year are for the remaining time of unexpired terms.

"In the past, as shown by the present withdrawal study, a large segment of the district has felt that the board has failed to serve all of the district. As a board member, I would work to unify the district and provide the high level of education needed by our children.

"Too many people can't see the forest

for the trees," Lewin asserted. "We need more emphasis on the community's school system and less emphasis on village governments. Most of our tax bills go to the public schools."

Lewin indicated he was a school board candidate primarily because he was not satisfied with past board actions in dealing with Dist. 54 school problems. "Just doing good enough isn't good enough," remarked the candidate.

"It's debatable how poor the school district really is," said Lewin, speaking of the fiscal fitness of Dist. 54. "On the one hand, $1,000 for eighth grade graduation was removed from the budget last year. Yet two board members will be attending a convention in Miami this month."

(It is frequently mentioned that, in terms of the assessed evaluation behind each pupil, Dist. 54 is the "fourth poorest school district in Cook County." The school district has 10,200 pupils this year.)

LEWIN WAS ALSO critical of some of the architectural extras included in the district's new Nathan Hale School. He feels that if the district is in a financial squeeze, some money could have been saved by eliminating any frills in building the school. Hale will open for classes April 7.

"If the school district is poor, then let's do something about it," Lewin said.

In regard to the Schaumburg citizens committee studying the feasibility of disannexing that village from the school district, Lewin commented, "I don't think there's anything to be gained by disannexation."

Lewin noted that the board recently abolished all music fees in the district, which eliminated $6,000 revenue from the school budget.

According to the candidate, however, board debate about whether or not to abolish the fees was off-course. The board eventually followed the superintendent's recommendation and eliminated the music fees. Supt. Wayne Schable indicated there was some question as to whether such fees could be charged by a school district.

LEWIN WAS CRITICAL of the board's approach on the subject, however. "The board pays an attorney for legal advice. It should be up to him to give an opinion on the legality of such fees."

"If these fees are illegal, then they should be abolished. But board members are not qualified to determine legal questions. Their job is to establish school policy."

Lewin also spoke out in favor of shorter board meetings. It is common for Dist. 54 meetings to run until midnight. He suggested that shorter meetings could be arranged if more work was done through board committees. For example, a board subcommittee could study the concept of a 12-month school year and report its findings.

In giving his position on family living education in the schools, Lewin said, "If these materials are educationally sound and medically sound, then let's use them."

He commented further that "if there is one abuse, it does not mean that an entire school program is bad."

"AS A BOARD MEMBER I don't intend to be a 'Yell and Holler' personality, but I feel that in regard to zoning issues, the school board should go to local village boards with logical, thought-out positions from the viewpoint of the school system."

"I can't accept the position that something has been tried before and hasn't worked," he concluded.

Ballots Are Available

Absentee ballots for the April 15 Hoffman Estates election became available at the village hall yesterday.

In accordance with state statutes, applications for absentee ballots must be filed not more than 30 days nor less than five days prior to the scheduled election.

The final day for application by mail for an absentee ballot is April 10, and the ballot must be returned to the village hall by mail no later than April 14. The last day for filing an absentee ballot in person is April 12, according to the village clerk's office.

Persons eligible to vote by absentee ballot are those who either expect to be absent from Cook County between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. April 15, or those who are physically incapacitated and unable to get to the polls.

This Time—'A Different Smell'

by MARY DRESSER

For the second time in 12 months commuters from the northwest Chicago suburbs found themselves leaving the city yesterday amid reports of rioting on the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination. Below is the reflections of one area resident who went through both experiences.

"The smell was different on the street corners."

William Koretko of Elk Grove was in the middle of last year's rioting.

Yesterday afternoon there was "a world of difference," he said.

Koretko who manages a plant on Damen

Ave. and another on Roosevelt Road remembers the black clouds of smoke rising from the city in mid-afternoon as panicked motorists with their lights on struggled to escape the burning city.

"THIS TIME THE crowds in the area didn't seem anxious to start any action," reported Koretko. "The police were way ahead of the game."

Police, three and four deep on street corners near Lake and Damen were the first indication Koretko had of the disturbances in the West Side ghetto.

Koretko ran from his car into the industrial plant and immediately sent the shop and office force home.

"Some of the fellows were telling me there were fires in the Madison, Ashland, Western area," says Koretko. "That wasn't on the radio yet, but I believe them. They were absolutely right last year."

Last year Koretko remembers driving suburban women home through the burning city and putting terrified black women on buses that would take them to their threatened homes in the riot area.

THIS YEAR, blacks and whites left quietly.

"One of the guys in the shop told me 'I couldn't understand it last year, but this year it's completely ridiculous,'" says Koretko.

Koretko's employment force is composed of 15 per cent white, 50 per cent black, and 35 per cent Spanish.

"The Spanish fellows really have it tough," he says. "They keep saying, 'I want to start a fight, but what's my cause?'"

Candidate Series Will Start Monday

A profile series of the 15 candidates involved in the Hoffman Estates village election will begin in the Herald next Monday.

First to be reviewed is background and qualification information, as well as facts obtained through personal interviews with the three candidates for clerk — Mrs. Virginia Netter of the village Republican Party (GOP); Mrs. Joan Holmes, running on the Hoffman Independent Party (HIP) ticket; and Mrs. Delores Ward, of the Hoffman Estates Party (HEP).

Wednesday's issue will feature similar information on the nine trustee candidates and the three-part series will conclude Friday with information on the village presidential nominees.

Firemen Aid

Three Hoffman Estates firemen helped combat what was called "a violent chemical reaction" in Elk Grove Village Wednesday morning at the Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy.

Deputy Fire Chief Ed Kalassa and two firemen, Don Selke and Robert Schell, were hospitalized for possible harmful effects due to toxic fumes following the fire, along with 15 other firemen. All have been released.

A TRUCK FROM the Hoffman Estates department also was on standby from the Elk Grove station during the chemical flare up and responded to one call.

Fire officials said the exact cause of the incident is unknown, but they know the fumes were produced when sodium dichloral-triazinetriene was mixed with an unknown chemical, producing the reaction.

Policeman Aids Colt's Birth

Schaumburg Policeman Joseph Karakas assisted in delivering a baby Tuesday afternoon, but it was not the usual case of a mother unable to reach the hospital. This baby was a colt.

Officer Karakas had stopped at a gas station at Algonquin and Meacham Tuesday at about 1:30 p.m. when a woman came up to him crying and requested his help. The woman, Mrs. Paul Loeber, 2034 Meacham Road, explained that her mare was in labor and having difficulty. "Could you please help me?" she asked.

Karakas then hurried with Mrs. Loeber to the Loeber farm north of Algonquin on Meacham Road.

"The mare had backed itself into a corner, and the colt was having trouble getting free from its mother," Karakas said. "The colt was blue from lack of oxygen when I arrived to help."

HOWEVER, the policeman was able to move the mare and to pull the colt from its mother in a head-first delivery. The foal, a filly with a brown coat, was up on its feet soon after birth.

"I felt like a new daddy" following the colt's birth, said Karakas. He indicated that he felt that spring had arrived.

This was the first foal that Karakas has assisted in delivering. However, the policeman has assisted in two human births. While serving as a Chicago policeman during the great snowstorm of 1966-67, Karakas assisted two women who gave birth at home. The policeman has been with the Schaumburg Police Department since January 1968.

Last January Karakas' wife gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl. Their names are Joey and Lisa. And the policeman also has another child, David, 3.

For the 24-year-old policeman, Tuesday was April foal's day instead of April fool's day.

A beautification of this area was planned some time ago, but didn't quite get off the ground. Maybe something positive will happen after April 15?

Another interesting note about the 1960 proposal: Apartments, one and two bedroom units only, were being constructed for the convenience of teachers and other single people working in the area. That brings to mind what all of the major apartment developers have told Schaumburg officials in the past six months — young executives will be occupying these units.

Light Vote Dumps Park Incumbents

Despite a light voter turnout Tuesday, three out of four incumbent candidates in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg park district races were rejected by electors.

And in both park districts, board members currently serving as park vice presidents were defeated in favor of newcomers.

In Hoffman Estates, where eight candidates were vying for two six year terms, challengers George F. Seaver Jr. and

Fred R. Weaver unseated incumbents Edwin L. Frank and William G. McGonigle.

A former village trustee, Seaver, 40, a resident of the High Point area, was the top vote getter with a record 522 ballots cast in his favor.

Weaver, 30, a resident of the Highlands, came in second with 309 votes.

MANY PARK district observers appeared convinced Wednesday that both candidates had received substantial support from GOP forces in the village.

During his term on the village board, Seaver, a pilot with United Air Lines, served as chairman of the park and recreation committee prior to formation of a park district.

Weaver is a unit sales manager with Procter and Gamble and has not previously been active either in civic or political groups in the village.

Contacted by the Herald after the election count came in, Frank expressed disappointment at his defeat but stressed that the choice "was up to residents of the park district."

He was a runner-up with 284 votes.

Frank said he is extremely sorry about not being able to "finish the job started at High Point Park" but also expressed "personal satisfaction" over "a job well done while on the board."

"I CAN'T envision living in a community and not becoming active again in some part of it," he said.

McGonigle, a former business partner of Trustee James Sloan, expressed confidence that "the two who got elected will function well on the board." He had captured 180 votes.

Other candidates were Philip Moore, 237 votes; Louis Daliotto, 101 votes; William Lee, 90 votes; and Anthony Infelise, 80 votes.

In Schaumburg, four candidates ran for two six-year terms, and a fifth, Doyle Erkenbeck, an incumbent, ran unopposed for the remaining two years of a full six-year term.

Newcomers John Brandenburg with 113 votes and John Deuss with 85 votes were successful in their bid for the six-year terms.

Both are residents of Weathersfield and have expressed an interest in park affairs for a number of years.

JAMES ASHER, the incumbent and park board president, gathered 62 votes, while Raymond C. Hum came in third with 75 votes.

Asher also is a Weathersfield resident while Hum lives in the Timbercrest subdivision.

Several park board observers in Schaumburg expressed concern over their feeling that Asher should not have run and doubted that his previous term had been completed.

Six-Year Term Winner Gets Highest Total

Mrs. Virginia McNaughton of Hoffman Estates received the most votes in Tuesday's library board election. She garnered 1,130.

Running behind her in vote totals were the other two candidates elected to six-year terms: George D. Pearson, 114 Alhambra Lane, Hoffman Estates, 1,094 votes; and Robert B. Lyons, 250 Hermitage Lane, Hoffman Estates, 1,074 votes.

The losing candidate in the library race was Mrs. Alice A. Martin, Hanover Park, with 888 votes.

Also elected for partial terms Tuesday were two unopposed candidates, Mrs. Marjorie Franck and Mrs. Judith Stiff.

Library Is 6,543 Cards Ahead Now

Schaumburg Township Library issued 6,543 new library cards last year and business was up 55 per cent over the preceding year, the annual library report shows.

In addition, the Schaumburg Township Library led all other libraries in the North Suburban Library System in the number of loan requests for the past year.

The township library now has almost 30,000 volumes.

DURING THE coming year, the library plans to develop a collection of 1,500 recordings with two listening areas, a small collection of 8 mm films, a picture collection in the children's room and a fine art print collection.

The library also plans to reduce its warrant debt from $72,000 to $55,000 in the next year, and the mortgage will be reduced from $21,380 to $18,000.

Approximately $15,000 will be set aside for the library's building fund to permit expansion at a later date. About 9,600 new books were added in the past year.

Sitting Class Set

This week members of Hoffman Estates Women's Club issued the last call for enrollment in "Operation Baby Sitting," a three-session course being offered to young people between the ages of 11 and 17.

Sponsored by the club's Home Life Committee, under the direction of Mrs. Leon Hammett, the free course is being offered in conjunction with Hoffman-Schaumburg Registered Nurses Club and representatives of the village police and fire departments.

Meetings will be held three consecutive Mondays this month — April 14, 21 and 28 at Hoffman Estates Fire Department, 160 Flagstaff Lane.

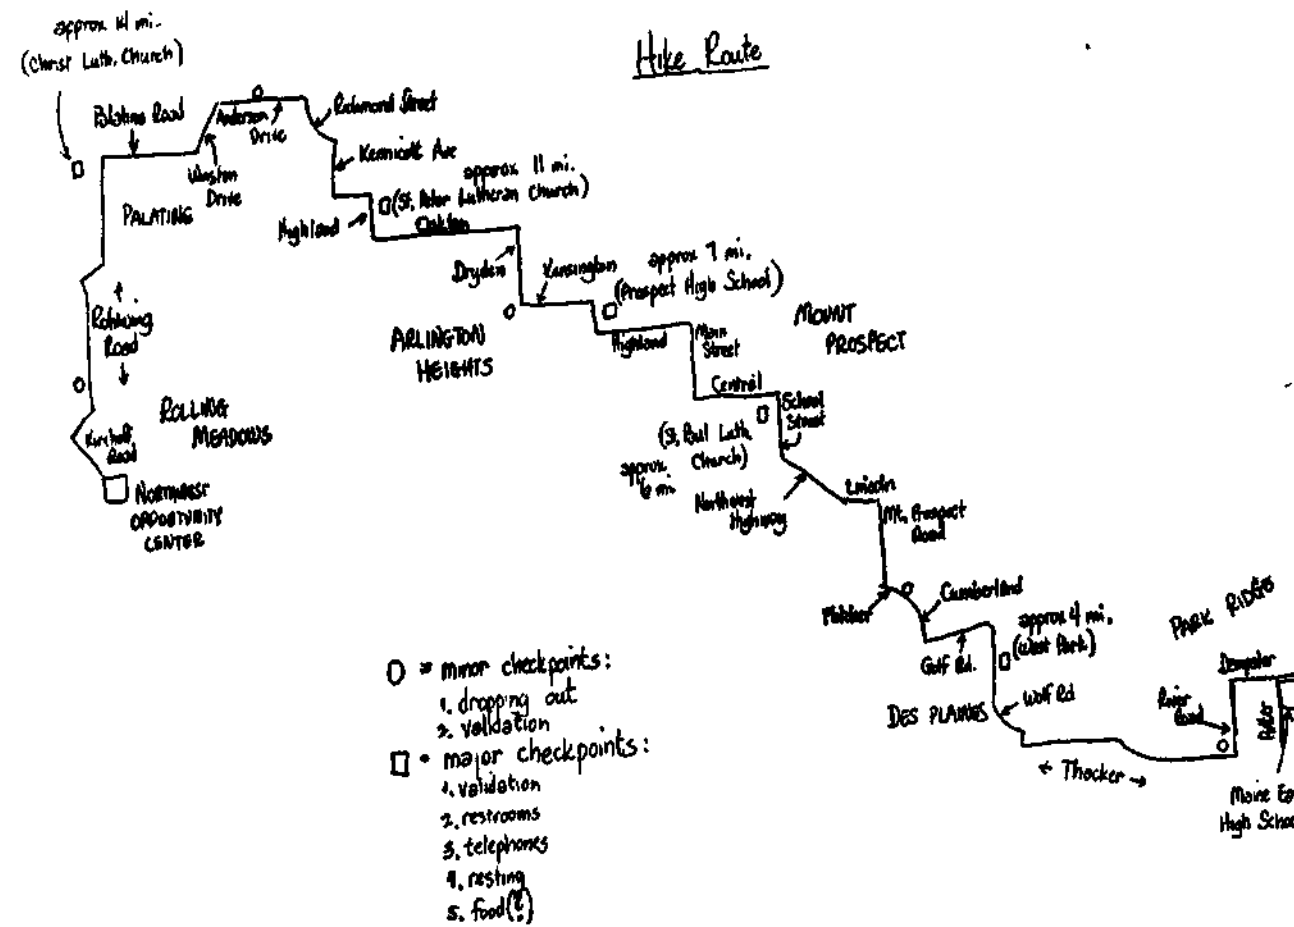

The April 14 meeting, an orientation period, will run from 7 to 8 p.m., while the other two meetings will be held from 7 to 9 p.m.

The five-hour course will cover infant care, emergencies and care of the older child in order to acquaint sitters and prospective sitters with proper handling of emergency situations and the duties of an efficient sitter.

Representatives of the fire department have asked that any persons who drive to the course, park in the adjacent lot rather than at either the front or rear of the firehouse.

Persons interested in attending the course are asked to send names, addresses, phone numbers, ages and school attended immediately to Mrs. Leon Hammett, 355 Alcoa Lane, Hoffman Estates, 60172.

Hikers May Set Record

At least 1,780 teenagers and adults are registered to march in today's 16-mile "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban Northwest.

It could be the largest march of its kind in the history of this area.

David Wurm, youth minister at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect and a march coordinator, told the Herald that he estimated an additional 220 persons would register early this morning — if the weather stayed good.

The forecast for northern Illinois is cloudy and mild with occasional rain likely today. Heavy rain would cut the number of marchers.

However, Wurm said that it would be virtually impossible to cancel the march, which will snake through Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Only very bad weather would cancel the march, he said.

The hikers against poverty were to assemble this morning at 7:30 at Maine East High School, Dempster and Potter, in Park Ridge. The march was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

THE PARTICIPANTS must be sponsored on a fixed amount of money per mile. A sponsor, for example, could sponsor a teenager at 50 cents a mile. If the marcher completed the 16-mile route, the sponsor would owe $8.

The money will be donated to three benefit organizations — B'nai B'rith, and Ecuadorian farm project and the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

The march, which will be protected and guided by police in the various suburbs, will move northwest from Park Ridge to Palatine at Palatine, it will move south to the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, where it will end.

The route has been designed to keep the marchers clear of major highways, such as Northwest Highway, to avoid blocking traffic. The marchers are expected to arrive in Rolling Meadows at about 3 or 4 p.m.

About 200 adults will be needed along the route to serve as marshals. They will keep marchers in columns, in order, aid them in crossing streets, and man checkpoints along the route. Twelve checkpoints will permit marchers to drop out if they choose to do so and to rest and possibly obtain food.

THE HIKERS will wear armbands. Many have spent the week painting signs with slogans like "Down with Hunger" and "Soul Power."

The goal for donations is $120,000. Wurm is not optimistic about reaching that goal, but he said he would have to wait until tomorrow before he has even a rough estimate of the march's success.

Supporters of the march have been seeking support in area high schools during the past couple weeks. Many marchers have gained several sponsors, and they are prepared to march as far as possible.

Roger Obst, 816 N. Drury Lane in Arlington Heights, has located about 40 sponsors. If he completes the entire walk, he can raise $115 as his contribution to the three funds.

Can he complete the march? "I hope so. I think it's really a great cause. But I've never walked that far before."

HE PLANS to wear tennis shoes to make the walk as comfortable as possible. However, his clothing depends on the weather; if it rains, he'll dress for it.

Peggy Schreiber of Arlington Heights has gained about 40 sponsors, and if she completes the march, she will have raised from $330 to $411. "I'm going to take the whole hike," she told a Herald reporter.

She is the daughter of the minister of Faith Lutheran Church, Rev. Vernon Schreiber. The family moved to Arlington Heights Jan. 21. Peggy has been actively seeking sponsors, and she is firmly convinced she will march the entire route.

Sewage, Water OK For Realtor and Bank

The village sewer and water committee, under the leadership of Trustee Howard "Jack" Noble, recently agreed to serve Schaumburg State Bank and Nelson Realty, who will both be building new facilities in a portion of Schaumburg not presently able to provide these services.

During last week's village board meeting, Noble, a candidate for village president on the Hoffman Estates Party ticket, reported the decision of his committee.

In related action, Noble proposed, and the board accepted, purchase of a $2,300 Graphotype machine, manufactured by Addressograph Corp., for processing and addressing water bills sent to area residents every other month.

Why GOP Entered

The alleged complete failure of the Jenkins-Noble administration in the areas of planning and zoning was cited as one of the prime reasons for the entry of the GOP in Hoffman Estates elections according to a news statement received Thursday from Fred Downey, Republican candidate for village president.

"In choosing the slate, the Republican slate-making committee paid special attention to the qualifications of candidates pertaining to zoning and planning," Downey said. "Every member of the Republican slate is concerned with these areas of village administration and two of us, Virginia Hayter and myself, have more experience in this area than all the candidates on the other slates combined."

Downey said he and Mrs. Hayter have spent countless hours during the last seven years testifying at zoning and planning hearings in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Elk Grove Village and Rolling Meadows.

"AS REPRESENTATIVES of School Dist. 54," Downey said, "Mrs. Hayter and I have tried to point out the relationship of village zoning and planning practices to providing an adequate tax base on which to operate the school districts. Since all of us are interested in the best possible education for our children, and since about 80 per cent of our property taxes go to the school districts to provide this education, we feel it essential that a spirit of cooperation exist between school districts and village administrators."

"In Hoffman Estates, our words have gone unheeded and the result has been that the assessed valuation per student has declined from $11,000 in 1962 to about $8,500 today."

He noted that the likelihood of further devaluation seems imminent because of continuing zoning practices in the village, such as Kaufman and Brood's large number of three-bedroom townhouses units.

DOWNEY SAID the problem is further complicated by a group in Schaumburg presently investigating the possibility of annexing their village from Dist. 54 in order to form their own separate school district. "One of their stated reasons for considering this action is fear of continuation of the zoning practices of the Jenkins-Noble administration."

"The Hoffman Estates GOP village slate proposes to implement good long-range planning and zoning by adherence to a professionally prepared master plan of the village. Such a plan will direct land use in the village to the most efficient means of increasing assessed valuation, broadening the tax base and making our village a better place to live and raise our families," Downey said.

"In no other way can we hope to overcome the difficulties in which we now find ourselves."

District 23 'Is On Treadmill'

Ogilvie Throwing 'Bits and Pieces'

Supt. Edward Grodsky, Prospect Heights, has called Gov. Richard Ogilvie's school aid program inadequate for District 23.

"He is throwing us bits and pieces," says Grodsky. "We're still going to be in a hole."

Dist. 23 is on a tax anticipation warrant treadmill that started in 1964 and is on the way to a "disastrous situation," according to Grodsky.

The district needs passage of the 21-cent referendum on April 12 in order to keep itself above water, even if the governor's proposal does throw in a life jacket, Grodsky says.

He anticipates going from the present 70 per cent of tax anticipation warrants to the legal maximum of 75 per cent within the next year. Wheeling and Elk Grove are already at 75 per cent but those districts face a brighter future than Dist. 23, says Grodsky.

BOTH WHEELING and Elk Grove have substantial industrial development within their areas and can anticipate an eventual up-swing in assessed evaluation over a five year period.

"We will still be a bedroom community," mourns Grodsky.

He anticipates a $300,000 deficit next year. "Even with help in state aid we are in trouble," he says.

The problem is that when tax revenue comes in in July, $270,000 of the funds will immediately have to be used to pay back the warrants. The district will then have to issue more warrants to supplement the remaining tax money.

"We will still be $200,000 short," says Grodsky.

If the state comes up with the $550 per-pupil student aid it will bring in $140,000 next year leaving a deficit of $60,000. Grodsky says the district should be able to "use a sharp pencil" and cut out the $60,000.

However, if the state contribution is $500 per pupil, the district will receive only $85,000 and will be $105,000 in the red.

MEANWHILE, Dist. 23 is tottering under the financial burden of potential raises in teachers' salaries, plus the need to hire eight new teachers for the new McDonald Road School and maintain that school.

"We have to start decreasing those warrants," says Grodsky. "If we don't, we won't have a glimmer of getting out nor can we continue as we have now."

Supt. Kenneth Gill of Wheeling Dist. 21 says he admires Ogilvie's courage.

"This would be the largest increase schools have ever received in the State of Illinois," says Gill. "I think he's a brave guy."

Gill believes Dist. 21 will finally become solvent if the state kicks in and the student population stabilizes.

HE SAYS THE people in his district cannot take another increase, especially because the high school district is asking for 33 cents on April 12.

"We would only obtain $180,000 from the people if we went the limit of 21 cents in the educational fund and 12 cents in the building fund," he says.

Gill says he could foresee consolidation of Districts 23 and 21 in the future. If the state aid formula is passed, Dist. 23 would be in a better position to consolidate with other districts, he notes.

UNVEILING THE CRUCIFIX in the tradition of Good Friday of ancient times, Father George Mulcahey of St. Joseph the Worker Church in Wheeling, and altar boy Edward Tomaszewicz will lead parishioners in mourning the death of Christ today at 3 p.m.

Armstrong Wants Planning

Gary Armstrong, independent candidate for Buffalo Grove village trustee, is running a hard, slick race against the Progressive Homeowner's Party (PHP) slate.

Armstrong is blanketing the village with good-looking campaign literature and challenging the PHP candidates to consider some of his suggestions.

Armstrong said the money for his campaign has been contributed by friends in the area and he has managed to get a rate on campaign literature cost.

HE HAS ACCUSED the past board of "crisis government" or "putting out fires one to the next."

Planning two, three and four years ahead is necessary in the "frontier situation" that exists in Buffalo Grove, he said.

Armstrong said he is also concerned that "the village did not have a choice in this election and the president of the village selected a slate of candidates."

(PHP candidates have insisted they were not selected by Village Pres. Donald Thompson.)

"I'm concerned that if we should elect this slate of candidates — and, since two of the three incumbent trustees who are not up for re-election were also elected on Thompson's slate two years ago — it's conceivable that we could have a rubber stamp government," said Armstrong.

Armstrong is pumping for village purchase of the Buffalo Grove Golf Course.

"A SYNDICATE of businessmen is anxious to purchase the course," he said. "The village can buy the course through revenue bonds and give it to the park district. The revenue can be used to subsidize the district. Why let a business group profit from the course. It would be criminal to let that course get out of our hands."

Armstrong opposes the recent decision to put migrant workers' trailer housing on the course because it sets a precedent. "Assume that I have a like need and I go before the board," he said. "You better believe that one of the first things I start pointing at is the trailer over there." He said, "It is really sad that we may be forced to destroy the brand new Lake-Cook Road."

He blames the problem on lack of planning and failure to obtain state approval for the road in writing.

"When you're spending that kind of money and building a village around a major highway, I'd want notarized, signed-in-blood legal documents before I went ahead and did anything, not just the understanding of some individual."

ARMSTRONG WANTS a map for the village that includes more than the immediate confines of Buffalo Grove.

This is all part of necessary planning, he said.

He likens Buffalo Grove growth to attempting to put together a picture puzzle without having a sample picture on the box.

Armstrong also wants long-range planning in the development of municipal departments to serve the needs of the village.

"It is conceivable that as population grows we're going to need more and more policemen, a street sweeper, additional fire equipment. I'm sure that in 1961 we had a very fine plan that made sense. I'm sure I would have agreed with it, but they weren't able to foresee the growth that was coming up."

Armstrong wants to revise village plans each year and analyze all planning in the light of the future.

HE WANTS VOLUNTEER help in the village but inclines to calling in citizens to staff the advisory committees working in their specific fields.

When it comes to the police department, Armstrong believes professionalism is necessary and advocates a gradual phase-out of the volunteer policemen.

He says the building codes were "not particularly enforced" in the Strathmore area, calling it a lack of planning.

The village board should have been aware of how many homes were being built in the area and insisted on tougher inspection, he said.

"This is a lack of planning," said Armstrong. "They let the problem happen. Now homes are built and now we're inspecting them. This isn't looking ahead for possible problem areas."

He criticizes the lack of parks in the Strathmore area and objects to the village accepting donations of short-term equipment such as fire engines from developers.

"If you annex land and you don't get them to put any parks in, for the next 100 years you're not going to get parks. We can come up with fire engines if we have to. It might even hurt today, but it's worth while if you're sacrificing the future of the village for a fire engine."

ARMSTRONG WANTS cooperation with other areas in efforts to develop better transportation.

"With the fantastic growth that we've experienced and foresee in the future, I would think that serious consideration should be given and studies made in conjunction with other villages to work with the bus company to set up some routes to come through Buffalo Grove and take the people to Randhurst or to Arlington Heights."

Planning, planning, he insisted.

"Running a village government is just like running a business. You're providing a service to the community, just like a businessman is providing a service with a product. He does it for profit. I think the same philosophy or processes are involved in both and you have to approach it this way."

This Time—'A Different Smell'

by MARY DRESSER

For the second time in 12 months commuters from the northwest Chicago suburbs found themselves leaving the city yesterday amid reports of rioting on the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination. Below is the reflections of one area resident who went through both experiences.

"The smell was different on the street corners."

William Koretko of Elk Grove was in the middle of last year's rioting.

Yesterday afternoon there was "a world of difference," he said.

Koretko who manages a plant on Damen Ave. and another on Roosevelt Road remembers the black clouds of smoke rising from the city in mid-afternoon as panicked motorists with their lights on struggled to escape the burning city.

"THIS TIME THE crowds in the area didn't seem anxious to start any action," reported Koretko. "The police were way ahead of the game."

Police, three and four deep on street corners near Lake and Damen were the first indication Koretko had of the disturbances in the West Side ghetto.

Koretko ran from his car into the industrial plant and immediately sent the shop and office force home.

"Some of the fellows were telling me there were fires in the Madison, Ashland, Western area," says Koretko. "That wasn't on the radio yet, but I believe them. They were absolutely right last year."

Last year Koretko remembers driving suburban women home through the burning city and putting terrified black women on buses that would take them to their threatened homes in the riot area.

THIS YEAR, blacks and whites left quietly.

"One of the guys in the shop told me 'I couldn't understand it last year, but this year it's completely ridiculous,'" says Koretko.

Koretko's employment force is composed of 15 per cent white, 50 per cent black, and 35 per cent Spanish.

"The Spanish fellows really have it tough," he says. "They keep saying, 'I want to start a fight, but what's my cause?'" til when they go out into the streets, he added.

"Unless they hit the streets, they just perform company functions such as installing signal equipment in the tactical operations center."

Other work probably done last night and this morning, according to Ihssen, included paper work and vehicle maintenance. Some Guardsmen were also in orientation classes on riot control, he surmised.

Free time, when they can't leave the armory, is spent playing pinocle and reading, he went on.

"WHEN THEY'RE sitting around just waiting and there's trouble on the streets, there's some guys you worry about. They don't know what's out there.

And for the black Guardsmen, it's possibly worse, according to Ihssen. "I don't think it was black against white. They (black Guardsmen) didn't like it any more than we did."

"WHEN THEY'RE down there, they're soldiers."

It's not bad, he said, when you're busy. "It's the sitting and waiting that starts to get old. Then the fellows start to get restless."

But Ihssen, at work today in a civilian job, had one break in last year's riot that Guardsmen may not get this year.

He was home in time for Easter.

Steel 'Bonnets' for Easter?

Trailer Law Limit Set

A dozen interested citizens presented their opinions on the proposed trailer ordinance to the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission Wednesday night and helped the commission arrive at a consensus.

Following an amiable discussion of the usually inflammatory subject, it was decided to restrict trailer parking to the area behind the front line of each house.

The plan commission will draw up its final proposal, review it once more, and then send it to the village board.

Some of the comments brought out at the meeting were:

—It is impossible to park trailers on the side of some Buffalo Grove houses because the lots are too small.

—Parking trailers at a gas station would simply create another problem of unsightliness.

—Provision for a special use permit should be included in the new ordinance to allow for hardship cases.

—A clause allowing a week to remove the offensive trailer should also be included.

Plan Commission Chairman Edward Fabish said the tentative ordinance could be enforced.

"If it's too strict, the ordinance will be no good," said Fabish.

"If a man can live with a fence ordinance, he can live with a trailer ordinance," one camper said in resignation.

Free Lance

by MARY DRESSER

Politics is a great game if you can make the team.

Once every few years some people suddenly become conscious of the fact that they have a village board, a school board, a park board, etc.

Any red-blooded American knows that politics is more fun than reading a book or staying home nights playing scrabble. It's even more fun than TV. Americans know that, because they see all the politicians having such a good time expanding their egos all over the TV SCREEN.

I'd wager that almost every American of voting age has at one time or other considered running for some office. Fortunately for us all, most people resist the impulse and bake a cake or return to practicing their putting. They resist the impulse to participate so successfully that they even forget to vote.

HOWEVER, WHILE THE majority of his fellow citizens are busy playing bridge or watching the tube, the poor devil who is infected with the political bug is off and running.

He enlists sympathizers, starts attending meetings, searches his past life for interesting biographical tidbits such as, secretary of women's auxiliaries of the Free Speech League.

Soon, he or she is appearing before caucuses and candidates forums and making statements for the newspapers. The newspapers respond to this overture by neglecting sensible news coverage and embracing the candidate like an octopus enfolding a deep sea diver.

Soon the papers are filled with every monstrous asininity the human mind can conceive and the political mouth can utter.

"Candidate X is a firm believer in his responsibility to evoke an integrated and broad-range program calculated to effect a complete change in the status quo—balance of the present administration."

says the news story.

"Candidate Y will devote his energies to filling a need for direction in the pursuit of a progress evaluation, presupposing a comprehensive planning survey is initiated by competent analysis agencies."

IN OTHER WORDS, Candidate X wants the other guys out and himself in. Candidate Y, on the other hand, will do something if somebody tells him what to do.

Not only do political campaigns give participants the chance to call attention to things everybody has known all along, but they allow him the magnificent self-delusion that he can do something about it.

He and all his friends become men and women of action, feverishly scribbling press releases and pressuring drug stores to put campaign posters in the window.

Soon, normally quiet gentlemen can be seen slouching from door to door passing out brochures while attempting to look like a Tammany Hall politician.

However, the greatest pleasure in the game of politics is the pure fun of saying libelous things in polite society.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE restrained and allowed their impulses to culminate for years are apt to burst out with, "Did you hear about his daughter taking drugs?" or "You can imagine what her husband has been doing on those long business trips."

The game will reach its high point in the next few weeks. After that everybody can get back to the same problems we all had when it started.

Dr. King Is Remembered

(See Related Story, Page 7, This Section)

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Christian minister and leader of the civil rights movement who was assassinated a year ago, left vastly different impressions on residents of the suburban northwest.

To the very young, Dr. King is a figure of the past, if they remember him at all. Parents tell their children how they remembered the man who was both highly praised and criticized during his lifetime.

Teenagers and young adults have a more immediate memory. They remember his marches, the criticism, and they have a sharp recollection of where they were when he was assassinated. They also remember the rioting that followed his death.

A 38-year-old free-lance writer in Mount Prospect has a direct memory of Dr. King. He had lunch with Dr. King and talked privately with him afterwards.

"He was a minister thrust into leadership. His goal was, simply, to be a pastor in a small black church and minister to his people."

"Dr. King was a joy to talk to. He didn't carry airs. He was a man totally at ease."

Schreivogel first met King through his position with the Office of Youth Ministries of the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod. After meeting King, he never felt that the Nobel prize-winner was a "politician," as he has been called.

"He was not a master politician in that negative sense. He knew people, and he had an understanding of communities. He was sensitive in getting people to work together, but he was not a manipulator.

"The man seldom experienced material suffering in early life (King went to college). But he did suffer mental anguish."

"IT WAS THE kind of mental anguish that came out when he had to tell his children they couldn't attend a white amusement park."

Schreivogel, working on books and planning conferences, stresses King's humility.

"The ironic thing is the point at which he dies. He died fighting for garbage workers. He did not die fighting for a great patriotic cause; he died fighting for men who, when they get home, smell so bad their wives won't let them in the house until they take off their shirts and trousers."

King was not a fatalistic man, Schreivogel says. He knew his mission, and he did not back off.

"King was three things: A man, a Christian, and an American. He was Christian in the tradition of the real church, not the institution, which should be fighting evil.

"He was an American in the tradition of Jefferson. When people like Jefferson are dissatisfied, they fight, no matter what the cost."

Schreivogel has spent the last few days watching the Eisenhower funeral. He sees a parallel between Eisenhower and King.

"Eisenhower was not sentimental, but he believed hate was wrong, but many people admired him for the wrong reasons (as a soldier). He loved, not hated."

A year after King's death, Schreivogel does not see a towering leader like King in the black movement. He says there is jockeying for power. The militants are noisy and important, but they do not have the power.

"I would be presumptuous to say what will happen in the black movement. It's up to the blacks, it's their movement, not for us to interfere. In any revolutionary movement, there are struggles and tensions, and leaders command segments of the movement. We must understand there will be ferment."

HOWEVER, HE sees Rev. Jesse Jackson, the SCLC's Operation Breadbasket leader in Chicago, and Julian Bond, a young Georgian legislator, as men who could become powerful.

Today, Schreivogel will march in the "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban northwest. He never marched before for any cause, but he's looking forward to it.

"I'll have to tell you Friday how I will feel," he smiled. His two children will accompany him for part of the route.

Ready for 2,000 Marchers in Area

Arlington Heights, one of six communities on today's "Hike for Hunger" route, is prepared for as many as 2,000 marchers.

Police officials told The Herald their main concern will be to move the march as efficiently and as safely as possible through the village.

THE ARLINGTON Heights segment, expected in the village late in the morning or early afternoon, will start at Prospect High School on Kensington Road (the march itself will begin at 9 a.m. in Park Ridge).

Security 'Status Quo' For Hunger March

The disturbances in Chicago have caused no local police security changes in today's scheduled "Hike for Hunger" March from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows. Up to 2,000 persons, mostly students, are expected to participate.

Back Tax Hike Vote

The Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) has announced its support of the $21 school tax increase referendum to be held April 12.

In its letter of endorsement the PHIA says, they hope "that the school administration would continue to make every effort in finding ways to effect economies wherever possible."

Emblem To Represent Parks

THIS NEW INSIGNIA for the Wheeling Park District was designed by Mary Leng, a student at Wheeling High School.

Jaycees' Egg Hunt Is Tomorrow Morning

An Easter egg hunt, the first event sponsored by the newly formed Prospect Heights Jaycees, will be held tomorrow at 11 a.m. at Lions Park, Elm Street and Camp McDonald Road.

There will be a complete range of prizes, including golden eggs which can be redeemed for prizes.

The hunters will compete in their own age groups. Participating groups are 1 to 3, 4 to 5 and 6 to 7. Everyone in Prospect Heights is invited to attend without charge.

One of the purposes of the hunt is to introduce the people of Prospect Heights to the Jaycees. The hunt is the first of many projects the Jaycees plan to sponsor in the coming year. The projects should range from the recreational activities to other plans for community development.

Northwest Y Members Grow

The 16th annual meeting of Northwest Suburban YMCA marked another year of increased membership and size of operation.

Board member Carl Bowen was chairman of the meeting last week, which was combined with a buffet supper for the 'Y' board and guests. Floyd Kalber, NBC-TV news analyst, highlighted the program, answering questions from the audience.

Under the present board of directors, the 'Y' has a record enrollment of 21,575 members and operates under a budget of $770,000. This is the largest membership for any non-resident YMCA in the world, the group said.

Edwin C. Bruning, executive vice president of Charles Bruning Co., was reelected chairman of the board. Vice chairmen include John Gobeille, Mount Prospect; Stephen Jurco, Arlington Heights, and Thomas Crouch of Palatine, vice chairman at large.

Among the new members elected for three-year terms were Dr. Roger Eggert and Warren Lattot, both of Arlington Heights; Leonard Van Gaasbeek, Mount Prospect, and Joseph Lesniak, Prospect Heights.

HONORED FOR 15 years' service on the board were Charles Hodlmair, Elk Grove Village; Earl K. Riley, Arlington Heights, and Leonard E. Manuel, Schaumburg. Local members serving 10 years were Stanley C. Amren and John Gobeille, Mount Prospect; Arthur Edmunds, Long Grove, and Chester Guiliani, Arlington Heights.

With constant growth in members and activities, the Northwest Suburban facilities continue to warrant expansion. A $1,050,000 building addition has been approved by the board, two-thirds of the amount to come from YMCA dues and general operations and the balance pledged by members and friends of the 'Y.'

Charles McClellan, executive director, hopes that ground can be broken in June. Some areas will be ready for use by December, but the entire project will take approximately a year.

The two largest pledges from 'Y' groups have come from the Women's Auxiliary and Indian Guides. The Auxiliary pledged $50,000, which will be raised by operating the 'Y' Snack Bar and conducting an annual Pancake Day. The Indian Guides, composed of father and son groups, pledged $10,500 to the new building program. Their annual Christmas tree sale accounts for the largest part of this amount.

CARL BOWEN of Arlington Heights serves as master of ceremonies at the 16th annual meeting of Northwest Suburban YMCA. (B-10)

Dialing Meadowbrook

Stretching the ski season to the limit, Ron and Lynn Cole, 385 S. Meadowbrook, took a five-day Colorado holiday last week. They were the guests of Dick and Jane Gosnell, at their home near Denver.

From there, Ron and Dick made three ski trips to Winter Park. Though the Denver temperatures were a delightful 65, the higher altitude on the slopes provided fine ski conditions. The second day their wives drove into the mountains with them, then continued on to Georgetown to browse in the shops.

On Saturday, Lynn Cole and Jane Gosnell lunched in Denver with Shirley Hetfield, a former Meadowbrook now living in Littleton, Colo. The last day of their stay, the two couples drove through the mountains, stopping at gold mines along their tour.

JAMES, SON OF Mona and James Gowan, 110 S. Meadowbrook, received his First Holy Communion at St. Joseph the Worker Church on March 23. Afterward, the family celebrated at the Red Balloon.

Another March 23 communicant at St. Joseph the Worker was Douglas Meagher, 427 Marvin, son of Pete and Don. Doug was feted at a family dinner, followed by a bowling outing.

Jean, daughter of Gerald and Sara Proszek, 347 S. Jeanne, also received her First Holy Communion at St. Joseph the Worker on March 23. The breakfast celebration at the Proszek home included grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Proszek and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Krieger.

At the buffet party held that afternoon, Jean Proszek was feted by her godparents and numerous other guests.

The Frank Connells, 376 S. Meadowbrook Lane, have returned from business and pleasure trips thousands of miles apart. When Frank's work took him to Hawaii for 10 days, Dee and the children, Chris, Amy and Claudia, flew to New York to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dengler. The family reassembled here in time to celebrate Claudia's first birthday, March 31.

HERE FROM Indianapolis for the weekend were Nancy Sears' parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Carlson and Jan. Mrs. Carlson was an observer of teachers' methods in the Evanston schools on Friday, allowing for two days of visiting with Tom, Nancy, Cindy and John at their 115 E. Meadowbrook home.

The recent guest of Mike and Elaine Witte, 370 S. Meadowbrook Lane, was their three-month-old nephew, Matthew Chirpka, while his parents vacationed in Puerto Rico for 10 days.

The Tony Forgies, 371 S. Meadowbrook, welcomed Judy's mother, Mrs. J. K. Moore, from Riverside, Conn., as their houseguest recently.

Georgia Lasley brought a bit of spring to 101 S. Meadowbrook last week, a sprig of heather from the flower show. Georgia, former Meadowbrook Audrey Duke, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Duke, enjoyed a luncheon in the Sirloin Room of the International Amphitheatre before touring the displays.

ON SATURDAY, 8-year-old Rory, daughter of Betty and Roger Chindberg, 123 E. Meadowbrook, shared her birthday cake with Ellen Reilly, Mali McReynolds, Ann Bamrick, Tracy Gowan and sisters, Tracy and Kelly. A dance and twister contest kept them busy until ice cream and cake time.

Memorable March dates include the 31st, the 23rd anniversary of Florence and Hank Kean, 99 W. Jeffrey. Adding another year March 21 was Mark Lasley, 401 S. Meadowbrook, admitting to 17; James Jacek, 428 Anita, 22nd, and Rick Schultz, 391 S. Meadowbrook, the 27th.

A theatre and dinner date for two was a birthday treat for Eileen Luzwick, 379 Anita, on her March 23rd birthday. That Saturday, she and Gene saw an early showing of Romeo and Juliet, dining afterward at Adams House in Chicago. The next day the Luzwick family were guests of Eileen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Corbin.

leen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ferraro, of Niles, at a family dinner.

The next week proved less festive, as birthday greetings gave way to get well wishes, prompted by Eileen's brief stay in Lutheran General Hospital.

Kindergartner Tina Huberty delighted her classmates by bringing cupcakes for all on her sixth birthday, March 27. Parents Ethel and Wayne Huberty, 348 Sunset, and grandparents, Mrs. Ethel Dawson and Earl Huberty, feted Tina at a coffee and cake celebration that night.

WELCOME TO THE WORLD! Marcia Swerdlow, the first housewife to move into the Lake County area of Buffalo Grove, received telephone service today from Rich Eschbach after three months of isolation from the world. A story in the first edition of the Buffalo Grove Herald told of her loneliness because she could not contact her friends and neighbors.

Yocius, a resident of Libertyville, learned of his nomination Wednesday when Paul E. Cannon, Chicago area manager of the Federal Aviation Administration announced the selection.

The FAA considers Yocius in the front rank of the more than 78,000 United States Government employees in the Chicago Area, an FAA spokesman said. Yocius has 17 years of federal service, all of which has been as an air traffic controller in the Chicago area.

HE IS AMONG THE leading employees of some 200 U.S. Government agencies in the immediate area being considered for recognition at the 13th Annual Federal Employee of the Year awards program.

The awards will be presented at a luncheon at noon on May 7, in the International Ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

Yocius is competing as a supervisor with others from a wide variety of government services. All will be compared for competence, efficiency and outstanding accomplishment.

Yocius told The Herald that he was happy and honored about being a finalist. The Palwaukee chief has controlled traffic at some of the World's Busiest Airports since 1957.

Legion To Hear Undercover Agent

Arthur Tyrrell, under cover agent for the Illinois Crime Investigating Commission, will be guest speaker at the Eggs and Issues breakfast sponsored by American Legion Post 1988 on April 19.

The breakfast will be at 8 a.m. at the Wheeling Manor Restaurant, 144 N. Milwaukee Ave.

THE COMMISSION was organized in 1964 to investigate organized crime. Cmdr. Eugene Sackett said recently that Tyrrell gives an exciting commentary on the Crime Commission's continuing fight.

Tickets for the breakfast are available at the door and at Wheeling Stationers on Dundee near Milwaukee Ave.

At that time, he was a controller at Midway while it reigned as the World's Busiest Airport and in 1962 he transferred to O'Hare to continue controlling Air traffic at the world's busiest airport. He was promoted to chief and assigned to the Palwaukee Tower when it was commissioned in 1967.

YOCIUS EXPLAINS THAT Palwaukee is the world's busiest private airport.

Born and raised in the Chicago area, Yocius was an outstanding half-back on the 1948 City Champion Lindblom High School Football Team. He is still active in Little League baseball and football in his local community.

Madeline Saballus, Irene Hauserman and Helen Sabo have returned to their homes on Deborah, after a two-week vacation in the Hawaiian Islands. They flew first to Honolulu, Oahu, where they stayed for a week at a hotel on Waikiki Beach. Among the many points of interest on Oahu were Punch Bowl, the beautiful national cemetery and their tour of the pineapple plantations.

The second week they flew to the other islands. On Maui, the Garden Island Madeline Saballus went for a swim, and had an exciting encounter with the Hawaiian surf. Hilo, Hawaii, was their take off point for the return flight to San Francisco. During their two-day stopover there, Madeline and Helen stayed with the former's brother, Carl Parisi, while Irene visited her brother-in-law.

OTHER LATE WINTER vacationers were Lily Richard, Marvin, Linda and Doreen Mielke, 149 S. Wolf, who recently spent a week in Florida, at Vero Beach and visited Cape Kennedy nearby. Another side trip was to Daytona Beach, where Richard and Marvin caught several blue gills for family consumption.

Since their return, the Mielkes have celebrated the grand opening of their store in Arlington Heights. Doreen's first birthday, March 29, and Marvin's seventh, March 30, Marvin hosted an afternoon party Sunday for Scott and Brian Spitzer, Doug and Mark Knoepfel, Mike Toporek and cousins, Peter Mielke and Torbert Reimann.

Little fanfare accompanied the recent move of Sharon and Fred Moeller and Audrey and Freddy, as their neighbors remained close at hand. They transferred their belongings from 149 S. Wolf Road to 173 Sunrise, a distance of little over a block.

Searching for some sign of spring, Dolores and Larry Messinger, 195 7th, attended the Flower Show at the International Amphitheater on Friday night with Don and Lucy Newman. Afterward they were the overnight guests of the Newmans in Glen Ellyn.

Freddy, son of Fred and Fran Graszer, 232 S. Wheeling, recently entered the teen years. The occasion was noted by chums, Bill Passolt and Robert Blomquist with luncheon at the Graszers' before seeing "2001: Space Odyssey."

The family continued two 13-year-olds until Feb. 26, when Lynn Graszer marked her 14th birthday with a slumber party. Her guests were Georgette Olson, Marilyn Winka, Jeanine Valenza, Pam Munro, Annette Bertrand, Lynn McAlvaney and Lynn Blackfield.

BOTH YOUNG Graszers were honored at a family dinner attended by grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Peter Graszer of Arlington Heights. Absent was their other grandmother, Hilda Werdel, a former Wheeling resident, who was confined to the hospital.

On Sunday, the William Deneckes welcomed Dorothy's mother, Mrs. Edward Young, of Iron River, Mich., and her sister and family, the Ray Stroms, of Glen Bay. The Stroms returned home that evening, but Mrs. Young remained for a longer visit.

Tony Vogel returned to his Meadow Lane home last weekend, after a seven-week stay in Lutheran General Hospital.

Peter, son of Ruth and Paul Schneider, 183 7th, marked his seventh birthday March 25. Elroy and Marlene Reiter and Tommy Hart joined him in creating original designs in clay, before sharing the ice cream and birthday cake.

A hockey game was the birthday choice of Ricky Ross, son of Helen and Bob Ross, 312 S. Wheeling Avenue. Johnny Wuich and Kenny Rosborg joined the eight-year-old and his father at the Blackhawk game March 26.

Three candles glowed on the birthday cake for Margaret Schneller on March 23. Parents, Jane and Fred, and seven brothers and sisters enlarged the family circle to include grandparents, Pauline Schneller and Al Rankin, in the dinner celebration at 108 Center.

District 23 'Is On Treadmill'

Ogilvie Throwing -Bits and Pieces'

Supt. Edward Grodsky, Prospect Heights, has called Gov. Richard Ogilvie's school aid program inadequate for District 23.

"He is throwing us bits and pieces," says Grodsky. "We're still going to be in a hole."

Dist. 23 is on a tax anticipation warrant treadmill that started in 1964 and is on the way to a "disastrous situation," according to Grodsky.

The district needs passage of the 21-cent referendum on April 12 in order to keep itself above water, even if the governor's proposal does throw in a life jacket, Grodsky says.

He anticipates going from the present 70 per cent of tax anticipation warrants to the legal maximum of 75 per cent within the next year. Wheeling and Elk Grove are already at 75 per cent but those districts face a brighter future than Dist. 23, says Grodsky.

BOTH WHEELING and Elk Grove have substantial industrial development within their areas and can anticipate an eventual upswing in assessed evaluation over a five year period.

"We will still be a bedroom community," mourns Grodsky.

He anticipates a $300,000 deficit next year. "Even with help in state aid we are in trouble," he says.

The problem is that when tax revenue comes in in July, $270,000 of the funds will immediately have to be used to pay back the warrants. The district will then have to issue more warrants to supplement the remaining tax money.

"We will still be $200,000 short," says Grodsky.

If the state comes up with the $550 per-pupil student aid it will bring in $140,000 next year leaving a deficit of $60,000. Grodsky says the district should be able to "use a sharp pencil" and cut out the $60,000.

However, if the state contribution is $500 per pupil, the district will receive only $95,000 and will be $105,000 in the red.

MEANWHILE, Dist. 23 is tottering under the financial burden of potential raises in teachers' salaries, plus the need to hire eight new teachers for the new McDonald Road School and maintain that school.

"We have to start decreasing those warrants," says Grodsky. "If we don't, we won't have a glimmer of getting out nor can we continue as we have now."

Supt. Kenneth Gill of Wheeling Dist. 21 says he admires Ogilvie's courage.

"This would be the largest increase schools have ever received in the State of Illinois," says Gill. "I think he's a brave guy."

Gill believes Dist. 21 will finally become solvent if the state kicks in and the student population stabilizes.

HE SAYS THE people in his district cannot take another increase, especially because the high school district is asking for 33 cents on April 12.

"We would only obtain $180,000 from the people if we went the limit of 21 cents in the educational fund and 12 cents in the building fund," he says.

Gill says he could foresee consolidation of Districts 23 and 21 in the future. If the state aid formula is passed, Dist. 23 would be in a better position to consolidate with other districts, he notes.

UNVEILING THE CRUCIFIX in the tradition of Good Friday of ancient times, Father George Mulcahey of St. Joseph the Worker Church in Wheeling, and altar boy Edward Tomaszewicz will lead parishioners in mourning the death of Christ today at 3 p.m.

Armstrong Wants Planning

Gary Armstrong, independent candidate for Buffalo Grove village trustee, is running a hard, slick race against the Progressive Homeowner's Party (PHP) slate.

Armstrong is blanketing the village with good-looking campaign literature and challenging the PHP candidates to consider some of his suggestions.

Armstrong said the money for his campaign has been contributed by friends in the area and he has managed to get a rate on campaign literature cost.

HE HAS ACCUSED the past board of "crisis government" or "putting out fires one to the next."

Planning two, three and four years ahead is necessary in the "frontier situation" that exists in Buffalo Grove, he said.

Armstrong said he is also concerned that "the village did not have a choice in this election and the president of the village selected a slate of candidates."

(PHP) candidates have insisted they were not selected by Village Pres. Donald Thompson.

"I'm concerned that if we should elect this slate of candidates — and since two of the three incumbent trustees who are not up for re-election were also elected on Thompson's slate two years ago — it's conceivable that we could have a rubber stamp government," said Armstrong.

Armstrong is pumping for village purchase of the Buffalo Grove Golf Course.

"A SYNDICATE of businessmen is anxious to purchase the course," he said. "The village can buy the course through revenue bonds and give it to the park district. The revenue can be used to subsidize the district. Why let a business group profit from the course. It would be criminal to let that course get out of our hands."

Armstrong opposes the recent decision to put migrant workers' trailer housing on the course because it sets a precedent.

"Assume that I have a like need and I go before the board," he said. "You better believe that one of the first things I start pointing at is the trailer over there."

He said, "It is really sad that we may be forced to destroy the brand new Lake-Cook Road."

He blames the problem on lack of planning and failure to obtain state approval for the road in writing.

"When you're spending that kind of money and building a village around a major highway, I'd want notarized, signed-in-blue legal documents before I went ahead and did anything, not just the understanding of some individual."

ARMSTRONG WANTS a map for the village that includes more than the immediate confines of Buffalo Grove.

This is all part of necessary planning, he said.

He likens Buffalo Grove growth to attempting to put together a picture puzzle without having a sample picture on the box.

Armstrong also wants long-range planning in the development of municipal departments to serve the needs of the village.

"It is conceivable that as population grows we're going to need more and more policemen, a street sweeper, additional fire equipment. I'm sure that in 1961 we had a very fine plan that made sense. I'm sure I would have agreed with it, but they weren't able to foresee the growth that was coming up."

Armstrong wants to revise village plans each year and analyze all planning in the light of the future.

HE WANTS VOLUNTEER help in the village but inclines to calling in citizens to staff the advisory committees working in their specific fields.

When it comes to the police department, Armstrong believes professionalism is necessary and advocates a gradual phase-out of the volunteer policemen.

He says the building codes were "not particularly enforced" in the Strathmore area, calling it a lack of planning.

The village board should have been aware of how many homes were being built in the area and insisted on tougher inspection, he said.

"This is a lack of planning," said Armstrong. "They let the problem happen. Now homes are built and now we're inspecting them. This isn't looking ahead for possible problem areas."

He criticizes the lack of parks in the Strathmore area and objects to the village accepting donations of short-term equipment such as fire engines from developers.

"If you annex land and you don't get them to put any parks in, for the next 100 years you're not going to get parks. We can come up with fire engines if we have to. It might even hurt today, but it's worth while if you're sacrificing the future of the village for a fire engine."

ARMSTRONG WANTS cooperation with other areas in efforts to develop better transportation.

"With the fantastic growth that we've experienced and foresee in the future, I would think that serious consideration should be given and studies made in conjunction with other villages to work with the bus company to set up some routes to come through Buffalo Grove and take the people to Randhurst or to Arlington Heights."

Planning, planning, he insisted.

"Running a village government is just like running a business. You're providing a service to the community, just like a businessman is providing a service with a product. He does it for profit. I think the same philosophy or processes are involved in both and you have to approach it this way."

This Time—'A Different Smell'

by MARY DRESSER

For the second time in 12 months commuters from the northwest Chicago suburbs found themselves leaving the city yesterday amid reports of rioting on the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination. Below is the reflections of one area resident who went through both experiences.

"The smell was different on the street corners."

William Koretko of Elk Grove was in the middle of last year's rioting.

Yesterday afternoon there was "a world of difference," he said.

Koretko who manages a plant on Damen Ave. and another on Roosevelt Road remembers the black clouds of smoke rising from the city in mid-afternoon as panicked motorists with their lights on struggled to escape the burning city.

"THIS TIME THE crowds in the area didn't seem anxious to start any action," reported Koretko. "The police were way ahead of the game."

Police, three and four deep on street corners near Lake and Damen were the first indication Koretko had of the disturbances in the West Side ghetto.

Mourn Death of Christ Today

by ANNE HEDBACK

Today is Good Friday, the day when Christians mourn the death of Jesus Christ . . . 2,000 years ago.

Good Friday in the Catholic church still reflects the ancient somber customs. It is the traditional farewell to a dead King.

The dramatic Catholic ceremonies began last night, on a note of joy, as a procession led by small girls strewing flower petals, escorted the consecrated hosts to a lavishly decorated side altar.

The flowers symbolize the veneration Catholics have for the Body of Christ which they believe actually present in the host.

The purpose of removing the hosts from the main altar, where they are normally kept, is to illustrate literally the idea of Christ's absence because of his death.

THERE WILL BE NO consecration of hosts on Good Friday, to illustrate dramatically the loss of Christ's life. The hosts from the side altar will be used to give communion to parishioners who attend the 3 p.m. service, scheduled for the time it is believed Christ died on the cross.

Today the crucifixes in the church, covered with purple drapes for two weeks, will be uncovered.

The crucifixes were covered on Passion Sunday, the day it is said Christ hid himself to keep from being stoned to death.

Christ later came out from hiding, was betrayed by Judas, and crucified. The unveiling of the crosses will symbolize Christ's coming out of hiding and subsequent crucifixion.

THE UNVEILING of the cross is itself a ceremony. Facing the left side of the altar, the priest holds up a purple shrouded crucifix. Admonishing the congregation to look at the cross, he first uncovers the top, then the right side, and then removes the drape entirely, holding the cross up to the light.

As the parishioners watch, the priest places the cross on a pillow at the foot of the altar, and removing his shoes to show his unworthiness, kneels and kisses the cross three times.

Then the congregation comes up to the altar rail and crucifixes are passed for each person to kiss, demonstrating faith and sorrow at Christ's death.

While the people file to the head of the church, the choir sings the "Reproaches." The "Reproaches" are hymns of lamentation in which Christ asks repeatedly, "My people, what have I done to you, or in what have I offended you? What more should I have done and did not?"

FOR THE REST of the afternoon the crucifix will remain on the pillow at the foot of the altar for all to see.

Tomorrow, Holy Saturday, the preparations for Easter will begin. A Pascal or Easter Candle is blessed and lit. The candle remains in the church for 40 days, until Ascension Thursday, to represent "the glorified body of Christ risen from the dead."

The candle containing five coals in the shape of a cross, representing Christ's wounds is blessed in the back of the church. During the subsequent procession to the altar the priest stops three times and tells the congregation the candle is "the Light of Christ."

THE PRIEST reads 21 prophecies from the Old Testament concerning Christ before blessing water used for baptisms for the rest of the year.

Holy Saturday was traditionally the day for baptisms of adults converted to the faith. Catechism instructions began the first day of Lent and finished on that day, allowing the converts to be baptized in time for Easter.

Trailer Law Limit Set

A dozen interested citizens presented their opinions on the proposed trailer ordinance to the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission Wednesday night and helped the commission arrive at a consensus.

Following an amiable discussion of the usually inflammatory subject, it was decided to restrict trailer parking to the area behind the front line of each house.

The plan commission will draw up its final proposal, review it once more, and then send it to the village board.

Some of the comments brought out at the meeting were:

—It is impossible to park trailers on the side of some Buffalo Grove houses because the lots are too small.

—Parking trailers at a gas station would simply create another problem of unsightliness.

—Provision for a special use permit should be included in the new ordinance to allow for hardship cases.

—A clause allowing a week to remove the offensive trailer should also be included.

Plan Commission Chairman Edward Fabish said the tentative ordinance could be enforced.

"If it's too strict, the ordinance will be no good," said Fabish.

"If a man can live with a fence ordinance, he can live with a trailer ordinance," one camper said in resignation.

Steel 'Bonnets' for Easter?

A year ago tomorrow Roger Ihssen was at the Chicago Avenue National Guard Armory at work in Arlington Heights. He finished his six years in the Guard in December.

"I sort of miss it," he said last night. "I feel part of the group."

"I probably would volunteer if it got real bad and they asked for volunteers," said Ihssen, of 1219 Golf Road, Arlington Heights.

HE GUESSED THAT Guardsmen last night were probably issued gear and weapons — bayonets and rifles — but no ammunition. They get no ammunition until when they go out into the streets, he added.

"Unless they hit the streets, they just perform company functions such as installing signal equipment in the tactical operations center."

Other work probably done last night and this morning, according to Ihssen, included paper work and vehicle maintenance. Some Guardsmen were also in orientation classes on riot control, he surmised.

Free time, when they can't leave the armory, is spent playing pinochle and reading, he went on.

"WHEN THEY'RE sitting around just waiting and there's trouble on the streets, there's some guys you worry about. They don't know what's out there.

And for the black Guardsmen, it's possibly worse, according to Ihssen. "I don't think it was black against white. They (black Guardsmen) didn't like it any more than we did."

"WHEN THEY'RE down there, they're soldiers."

It's not bad, he said, when you're busy "It's the sitting and waiting that starts to get old. Then the fellows start to get restless."

But Ihssen, at work today in a civilian job, had one break in last year's riot that Guardsmen may not get this year. He was home in time for Easter.

Free Lance

by MARY DRESSER

Politics is a great game if you can make the team. Once every few years some people suddenly become conscious of the fact that they have a village board, a school board, a park board, etc.

Any red-blooded American knows that politics is more fun than reading a book or staying home nights playing scrabble. It's even more fun than TV. Americans know that, because they see all the politicians having such a good time expanding their egos all over the TV SCREEN.

I'd wager that almost every American of voting age has at one time or other considered running for some office. Fortunately for us all, most people resist the impulse and bake a cake or return to practicing their putting. They resist the impulse to participate so successfully that they even forget to vote.

HOWEVER, WHILE THE majority of his fellow citizens are busy playing bridge or watching the tube, the poor devil who is infected with the political bug is off and running.

He enlists sympathizers, starts attending meetings, searches his past life for interesting biographical tidbits such as, secretary of women's auxiliary of the Free Speech League.

Soon, he or she is appearing before caucuses and candidates forums and making statements for the newspapers. The newspapers respond to this overture by neglecting sensible news coverage and embracing the candidate like an octopus enfolding a deep sea diver.

Soon the papers are filled with every monstrous asininity the human mind can conceive and the political mouth can utter.

"Candidate X is a firm believer in his responsibility to evoke an integrated and broad-range program calculated to effect a complete change in the status quo stance of the present administration," says the news story.

"Candidate Y will devote his energies to filling a need for direction in the pursuit of a progress evaluation, presupposing a comprehensive planning survey is initiated by competent analysis agencies."

IN OTHER WORDS, Candidate X wants the other guys out and himself in. Candidate Y, on the other hand, will do something if somebody tells him what to do.

Not only do political campaigns give participants the chance to call attention to things everybody has known all along, but they allow him the magnificent self-delusion that he can do something about it.

He and all his friends become men and women of action, feverishly scribbling press releases and pressuring drug stores to put campaign posters in the window.

Soon, normally quiet gentlemen can be seen slouching from door to door passing out brochures while attempting to look like a Tammany Hall politician.

However, the greatest pleasure in the game of politics is the pure fun of saying libelous things in polite society.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE restrained and allowed their impulses to culminate for years are apt to burst out with, "Did you hear about his daughter taking drugs?" or "You can imagine what her husband has been doing on those long business trips."

The game will reach its high point in the next few weeks. After that everybody can get back to the same problems we all had when it started.

Hike Today Could Set Area Record

At least 1,780 teenagers and adults are registered to march in today's 16-mile "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban Northwest.

It could be the largest march of its kind in the history of this area.

David Wurm, youth minister at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect and a march coordinator, told the Herald that he estimated an additional 220 persons would register early this morning — if the weather stayed good.

The forecast for northern Illinois is cloudy and mild with occasional rain likely today. Heavy rain would cut the number of marchers.

However, Wurm said that it would be virtually impossible to cancel the march, which will snake through Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Only very bad weather would cancel the march, he said.

The hikers against poverty were to assemble this morning at 7:30 at Maine East High School, Dempster and Potter, in Park Ridge. The march was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

THE PARTICIPANTS must be sponsored on a fixed amount of money per mile. A sponsor, for example, could sponsor a teenager at 50 cents a mile. If the marcher completed the 16-mile route, the sponsor would owe $8.

The money will be donated to three benefit organizations — Blaforn relief, and Ecuadorian farm project and the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

The march, which will be protected and guided by police in the various suburbs, will move northwest from Park Ridge to Palatine. At Palatine, it will move south to the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, where it will end.

The route has been designed to keep the marchers clear of major highways, such as Northwest Highway, to avoid blocking traffic. The marchers are expected to arrive in Rolling Meadows at about 3 or 4 p.m.

About 200 adults will be needed along the route to serve as marshals. They will keep marchers in columns, in order, aid them in crossing streets, and man checkpoints along the route. Twelve checkpoints will permit marchers to drop out if they choose to do so and to rest and possibly obtain food.

THE HIKERS will wear armbands. Many have spent the week painting signs with slogans like "Down with Hunger" and "Soul Power."

Dr. King Is Remembered

(See Related Story, Page 1, This Section)

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Christian minister and leader of the civil rights movement who was assassinated a year ago, left vastly different impressions on residents of the suburban northwest.

To the very young, Dr. King is a figure of the past, if they remember him at all. Parents tell their children how they remembered the man who was both highly praised and criticized during his lifetime.

Teenagers and young adults have a more immediate memory. They remember his marches, the criticism, and they have a sharp recollection of where they were when he was assassinated. They also remember the rioting that followed his death.

A 38-year-old free-lance writer in Mount Prospect has a direct memory of Dr. King. He had lunch with Dr. King and talked privately with him afterwards.

"He was a minister thrust into leadership. His goal was, simply, to be a pastor in a small black church and minister to his people."

PAUL A. SCHREIVOGEL sits in his basement study and looks out at the sun sinking behind a subdivision near Randolph. His study is filled with pictures, one autographed by Lt. Gov. Paul Simon. A photograph of Dick Gregory is prominent.

"Dr. King was a joy to talk to. He didn't carry airs. He was a man totally at ease."

Schreivogel first met King through his position with the Office of Youth Ministries of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. After meeting King, he never felt that the Nobel prize-winner was a "politician" as he has been called.

"He was not a master politician in that negative sense. He knew people, and he had an understanding of communities. He was sensitive in getting people to work together, but he was not a manipulator.

HE WAS THE leader of the civil rights movement in America for about ten years, and he was killed by an assassin in Memphis a year ago today. He spoke in this area several times, and his name was Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Paul Schreivogel, a Mount Prospect resident, remembers the Nobel peace-prize winner well.

"The man seldom experienced material suffering in early life (King went to college). But he did suffer mental anguish."

"IT WAS THE kind of mental anguish that came out when he had to tell his children they couldn't attend a white amusement park."

Schreivogel, working on books and planning conferences, stresses King's humility.

"The ironic thing is the point at which he dies. He died fighting for garbage workers. He did not die fighting for a great patriotic cause; he died fighting for men who, when they get home, smell so bad their wives won't let them in the house until they take off their shirts and trousers."

King was not a fatalistic man, Schreivogel says. He knew his mission, and he did not back off.

"King was three things: A man, a Christian, and an American. He was Christian in the tradition of the real church, not the institution, which should be fighting evil.

"He was an American in the tradition of Jefferson. When people like Jefferson are dissatisfied, they fight, no matter what the cost."

Schreivogel has spent the last few days watching the Eisenhower funeral. He sees a parallel between Eisenhower and King:

"Eisenhower was not sentimental, but he believed hate was wrong, but many people admired him for the wrong reasons (as a soldier). He loved, not hated."

A year after King's death, Schreivogel does not see a towering leader like King in the black movement. He says there is jockeying for power. The militants are noisy and important, but they do not have the power.

"I would be presumptuous to say what will happen in the black movement. It's up to the blacks, it's their movement, not for us to interfere. In any revolutionary movement, there are struggles and tensions, and leaders command segments of the movement. We must understand there will be ferment."

HOWEVER, HE sees Rev. Jesse Jackson, the SCLC's Operation Breadbasket leader in Chicago, and Julian Bond, a young Georgian legislator, as men who could become powerful.

Today, Schreivogel will march in the "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban northwest. He never marched before for any cause, but he's looking forward to it.

"I'll have to tell you Friday how I will feel," he smiled. His two children will accompany him for part of the route.

Ready for 2,000 Marchers in Area

Arlington Heights, one of six communities on today's "Hike for Hunger" route, is prepared for as many as 2,000 marchers.

Police officials told The Herald their main concern will be to move the march as efficiently and as safely as possible through the village.

THE ARLINGTON Heights segment, expected in the village late in the morning or early afternoon, will start at Prospect High School on Kensington Road (the march itself will begin at 9 a.m. in Park Ridge).

Security 'Status Quo' For Hunger March

The disturbances in Chicago have caused no local police security changes in today's scheduled "Hike for Hunger" March from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows. Up to 2,000 persons, mostly students, are expected to participate.

The Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) has announced its support of the $21 school tax increase referendum to be held April 12.

In its letter of endorsement the PHIA says, they hope "that the school administration would continue to make every effort in finding ways to effect economies wherever possible."

Nixon Appeal

KEY BISCAINE, Fla. — President Nixon yesterday called on the nation to mark the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination today by rededicating itself to the principles of "justice and non-violence."

Spending the Easter holiday at his Florida home here, Nixon took note of the anniversary as a "sad and somber time" and sought to put a quietus on rumors of violence which had been making the rounds for days.

Bond on Campus

CHICAGO — Julian Bond, negro state legislator from Georgia, spoke to 1,500 students at University of Illinois Circle campus yesterday and said Negroes no longer want to be part of the traditional American melting pot. "Some of us don't want to melt," he declared. "We want to carve out our own place in society, separate yet part of a whole."

Bond said a unified Negro movement should be strong enough to work without revolution. "Revolution must not be dismissed, but it is totally unrealistic at this time."

Interest Rates Up

WASHINGTON — Ordering an unprecedented double dose of anti-inflation medicine, the Federal Reserve has raised the percentage of bank deposits that must be held in reserve and increased the interest rate it charges banks for loans to a 40-year high.

The action is aimed at drying up the amount of money banks will have to pump into the nation's already over-expanded economy.

Big Four Open Talks

UNITED NATIONS — Representatives of the Big Four powers today opened long-awaited meetings on what they described as the "serious and urgent" Middle East crisis.

The UN ambassadors of U. S., Britain, Soviet Union, and France began immediately "defining areas of agreement." They said consultations will be "private and confidential," although they will maintain "all appropriate contacts with the parties primarily concerned in the Middle East."

Hippies Driven Out

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Police armed with riot guns, tear gas, rifles and gas masks swept through a rocky desert canyon on foot and horseback yesterday, routing hundreds of dirty, barefoot young hippies and students. The canyon dwellers were part of 20,000 young invaders who swarmed over this exclusive spa for the Easter week vacation.

About 100 officers made the sweep through the lower portion of Tahquitz Canyon after helicopters had circled overhead warning the campers to get out or face arrest.

U.S.S.R. Ahead in Sea

WASHINGTON — The Navy's top research scientist said yesterday the Soviet Union had caught up and to some extent had pulled ahead of the United States in development of undersea sound detection techniques used in anti-submarine warfare.

"We are no longer almost a decade ahead in sonar developments," Assistant Secretary Robert A. Froesch told the Senate Armed Services Committee. "In some areas they are ahead of us."

Want Sweeter Label

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration has proposed labeling requirements for food products artificially sweetened with cyclamates.

FDA Commissioner Herbert Ley Jr. said the sugar substitutes could have detrimental effects if taken in excess. He said research in this area still was in early stages, but that the need for a warning label was indicated.

Chicago Is Tense

CHICAGO (UPI) — A total of 20 National Guard units involving 7,276 troops from 24 cities were called up to active duty in Chicago yesterday after black youths went on a rampage through the West Side.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said he took the action after conferring with Mayor Richard J. Daley. Fourteen of the units are from Chicago.

The violence erupted at seven Negro high schools in ghetto neighborhoods on the anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Worst disturbance was at Crane High School after students poured from the school following an assembly in the auditorium commemorating King and began attacking motorists, smashing windows and looting.

THE SCHOOL IS located in the slum area where riots, looting and arson flared last year following the King assassination.

Negro students were reported angry because they were not given yesterday off in King's memory. They reasoned that any holiday on the actual anniversary today would be interpreted as a Good Friday observance.

The disorders flared through the afternoon, subsided as evening came, and appeared to be under tenuous control as motorized units of Guardsmen, carrying tear gas, carbines and rifles, rolled through the troubled streets last night.

Most of the disorders were confined to a black ghetto area 13 blocks long and 7 blocks wide along W. Madison Street.

Ask 'How Do We Cool It?'

Representatives of seven Chicago ghetto gangs met in an old movie studio last night to ask city and suburban reporters to help them tell minority groups to "cool it."

Police were excluded from the meeting, which was for press only. But a Black Panther field information officer told Herald newsmen he knew some police were at the press conference.

He told Herald staffers Bob Finch, Larry Cameron and Mike Seeling, "It's about time you (the suburban press) were getting down here for this."

"They were glad to see us," said Finch. Seven gangs were represented, including the Vice Lords, Egyptian Cobras, Young Latin and the Lords.

Each gang leader made a statement, telling members to go home and keep it cool, keep your pride up, don't let the man push you, you can't fight guns with bricks.

Leaders called a 24-hour "revolutionary prayer vigil" today to help keep the city quiet. When asked what he meant, one

'The Smell was Different'

by MARY DRESSER

For the second time in 12 months commuters from the northwest Chicago suburbs found themselves leaving the city yesterday amid reports of rioting on the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination. Below is the reflections of one area resident who went through both experiences.

"The smell was different on the street corners."

William Koretke of Elk Grove was in the middle of last year's rioting.

Yesterday afternoon there was "a world of difference," he said.

Koretke who manages a plant on Damen Ave. and another on Roosevelt Road remembers the black clouds of smoke rising from the city in mid-afternoon as panicked motorists with their lights on struggled to escape the burning city.

"THIS TIME THE crowds in the area didn't seem anxious to start any action," reported Koretke. "The police were way ahead of the game."

Police, three and four deep on street corners near Lake and Damen were the first indication Koretke had of the disturbances in the West Side ghetto.

Koretke ran from his car into the industrial plant and immediately sent the shop and office force home.

"Some of the fellows were telling me there were fires in the Madison, Ashland, Western area," says Koretke. "That wasn't on the radio yet, but I believe them. They were absolutely right last year."

Last year Koretke remembers driving suburban women home through the burning city and putting terrified black women on buses that would take them to their threatened homes in the riot area.

THIS YEAR, blacks and whites left quietly.

"One of the guys in the shop told me 'I couldn't understand it last year, but this year it's completely ridiculous,'" says Koretke.

Fulle Seeks Acceptance By Village

A developer of a proposed 66-acre planned unit development at Hicks and Baldwin roads in Palatine has been cut off at the pass by the Cook County Board.

County commissioners yesterday deferred a recommendation to rezone the Elmer Gleich property on a motion by Comr. Floyd Fulle.

Fulle said after the meeting he will keep the item off the board agenda until Gleich withdraws his petition or until development is acceptable to Palatine.

The commissioner said he expects Gleich and Palatine to negotiate a pre-annexation agreement so the request before the county can drop.

Fulle said that if necessary, he will bring the two parties together with himself as moderator. And if negotiations fail, he will steer county development toward what Palatine is trying to achieve, he said.

UTILITIES ARE not ample for development without annexation to Palatine, the commissioner said, adding that the last he heard, it looked like the village and developer would reach agreement on plans.

In the past few weeks, there have been a few "impromptu" meetings between Gleich and village officials, according to Trustee Clayton Brown.

"THE VILLAGE board could be discussing some mutual agreement soon," he said.

However, before any decision is made, village officials want to meet with representatives from North View, Willow Wood and Reseda Homeowners associations in order to reach a satisfactory agreement for all people, Brown said.

The three homeowners groups have opposed Gleich's development, which includes four six-story apartment buildings and several garden apartment buildings, since it was proposed more than a year ago.

After the petition for annexation and rezoning of the 66-acre tract was denied by the village board, Gleich took his case to the county.

The Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals Feb. 5 approved Gleich's petition for rezoning the land from R-4, single-family zoning, to a special use for a planned unit development under R-6, general residence.

County commissioners must vote approval on zoning board recommendations.

Nixon Appeal

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. — President Nixon yesterday called on the nation to mark the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination today by rededicating itself to the principles of "justice and non-violence."

Spending the Easter holiday at his Florida home here, Nixon took note of the anniversary as a "sad and somber time" and sought to put a quietus on rumors of violence which had been making the rounds for days.

Bond on Campus

CHICAGO — Julian Bond, negro state legislator from Georgia, spoke to 1,500 students at University of Illinois Circle campus yesterday and said Negroes no longer want to be part of the traditional American melting pot. "Some of us don't want to melt," he declared. "We want to carve out our own place in society, separate yet part of a whole."

Bond said a unified Negro movement should be strong enough to work without revolution. "Revolution must not be dismissed, but it is totally unrealistic at this time."

Interest Rates Up

WASHINGTON — Ordering an unprecedented double dose of anti-inflation medicine, the Federal Reserve has raised the percentage of bank deposits that must be held in reserve and increased the interest rate it charges banks for loans to a 40-year high.

The action is aimed at drying up the amount of money banks will have to pump into the nation's already over-expanded economy.

Big Four Open Talks

UNITED NATIONS — Representatives of the Big Four powers today opened long-awaited meetings on what they described as the "serious and urgent" Middle East crisis.

The UN ambassadors of U. S., Britain, Soviet Union, and France began immediately "defining areas of agreement." They said consultations will be "private and confidential," although they will maintain "all appropriate contacts with the parties primarily concerned in the Middle East."

Hippies Driven Out

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Police armed with riot guns, tear gas, rifles and gas masks swept through a rocky desert canyon on foot and horseback yesterday, routing hundreds of dirty, barefoot young hippies and students. The canyon dwellers were part of 20,000 young invaders who swarmed over this exclusive spa for the Easter week vacation.

About 100 officers made the sweep through the lower portion of Tahquitz Canyon after helicopters had circled overhead warning the campers to get out or face arrest.

U.S.S.R. Ahead in Sea

WASHINGTON — The Navy's top research scientist said yesterday the Soviet Union had caught up and to some extent had pulled ahead of the United States in development of undersea sound detection techniques used in anti-submarine warfare.

"We are no longer almost a decade ahead in sonar developments," Assistant Secretary Robert A. Froese told the Senate Armed Services Committee. "In some areas they are ahead of us."

Want Sweeter Label

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration has proposed labeling requirements for food products artificially sweetened with cyclamates.

FDA Commissioner Herbert Ley Jr. said the sugar substitutes could have detrimental effects if taken in excess. He said research in this area still was in early stages, but that the need for a warning label was indicated.

Spark

Chicago Is Tense

CHICAGO (UPI) — A total of 20 National Guard units involving 7,276 troops from 24 cities were called up to active duty in Chicago yesterday after black youths went on a rampage through the West Side.

Gov. Richard E. Ogilvie said he took the action after conferring with Mayor Richard J. Daley. Fourteen of the units are from Chicago.

The violence erupted at seven Negro high schools in ghetto neighborhoods on the anniversary eve of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Worst disturbance was at Crane High School after students poured from the school following an assembly in the auditorium commemorating King and began attacking motorists, smashing windows and looting.

THE SCHOOL IS located in the slum area where riots, looting and arson flared last year following the King assassination.

Negro students were reported angry because they were not given yesterday off in King's memory. They reasoned that any holiday on the actual anniversary today would be interpreted as a Good Friday observance.

The disorders flared through the afternoon, subsided as evening came, and appeared to be under tenuous control as motorized units of Guardsmen, carrying tear gas, carbines and rifles, rolled through the troubled streets last night.

Most of the disorders were confined to a black ghetto area 13 blocks long and 7 blocks wide along W. Madison Street.

Ask 'How Do We Cool It?'

Representatives of seven Chicago ghetto gangs met in an old movie studio last night to ask city and suburban reporters to help them tell minority groups to "cool it."

Police were excluded from the meeting, which was for press only. But a Black Panther field information officer told Herald newsmen he knew some police were at the press conference.

He told Herald staffers Bob Finch, Larry Cameron and Mike Seeling, "It's about time you (the suburban press) were getting down here for this."

"They were glad to see us," said Finch. Seven gangs were represented, including the Vice Lords, Egyptian Cobras, Young Latins and the Lords.

Each gang leader made a statement, telling members to go home and keep it cool, keep your pride up, don't let the man push you, you can't fight guns with bricks.

Leaders called a 24-hour "revolutionary prayer vigil" today to help keep the city quiet. When asked what he meant, one

'The Smell was Different'

For the second time in 12 months commuters from the northwest Chicago suburbs found themselves leaving the city yesterday amid reports of rioting on the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination. Below is the gang leader said, "If you want to find out, come down to Madison Street."

About 18 gang members attended the conference, which was attended by 25 news people. About a fourth were white. Most were in their 20s.

The press conference was part of ghetto tenseness. Police squads with taped-up windows drove past couples walking quietly hand in hand, past a man strolling home with his laundry.

Looting and burning were sporadic. A currency exchange was torn apart. A few other stores were hit; a cash register sat on the sidewalk in front of one of them.

Gov. Ogilvie flew to Chicago last night and appealed to Chicago residents to cooperate with law enforcement officials and remain calm. He said the disorders "will accomplish nothing and they certainly will not honor the memory of Dr. King."

reflections of one area resident who went through both experiences.

"The smell was different on the street corners."

William Koretke of Elk Grove was in the middle of last year's rioting.

Yesterday afternoon there was "a world

of difference," he said.

Koretke who manages a plant on Damen Ave. and another on Roosevelt Road remembers the black clouds of smoke rising from the city in mid-afternoon as panicked motorists with their lights on struggled to escape the burning city.

"THIS TIME THE crowds in the area didn't seem anxious to start any action," reported Koretke. "The police were way ahead of the game."

Police, three and four deep on street corners near Lake and Damen were the first indication Koretke had of the disturbances in the West Side ghetto.

Koretke ran from his car into the industrial plant and immediately sent the shop and office force home.

"Some of the fellows were telling me there were fires in the Madison, Ashland, Western area," says Koretke. "That wasn't on the radio yet, but I believe them. They were absolutely right last year."

Last year Koretke remembers driving suburban women home through the burning city and putting terrified black women on buses that would take them to their threatened homes in the riot area.

THIS YEAR, blacks and whites left quietly.

"One of the guys in the shop told me 'I couldn't understand it last year, but this year it's completely ridiculous,'" says Koretke.

June Work On Motel?

The way was paved Wednesday for a second high-rise motor inn on Arlington Park Race Track property with rezoning of the tract by the Rolling Meadows City Council.

The council unanimously approved R-7 zoning, which permits motels, for the property on the northwest corner of Euclid Avenue and Rohlwing Road for the proposed $1 million building.

The proposed 400-room motel is the latest stage in the comprehensive plan for Arlington Park properties and the first phase to fall within the city limits.

Construction of the new 10-story motel could begin sometime in May or June, according to representatives of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises, Inc., owners of the tract.

The second motel, with lower-cost rooms than the Arlington Park Towers Hotel currently under construction near the Carousel Restaurant, is needed to accommodate expected conventioners and other crowds at Arlington Park, according to Frank Reilly, attorney for the property owner.

ROOMS WILL RENT from $14 to $16 a night, as compared with the $18 to $22 price range of rooms in the hotel, he told the council.

Although architect's drawings have not been started, tentative plans include a coffee shop on the premises of the motor inn.

Ald. Rudolf Balek, who attended a special zoning commission hearing on March 20 to review plans for the motel, told the council, "It's a good business and it will be beneficial to the city."

Although general agreement to the plan was expressed Wednesday night, some aldermen wanted to hear more specific plans for development of the six-acre strip.

But Reilly explained, "We thought it would be presumptuous to proceed with any definite plans until the zoning was granted."

"We hope to be able to work closely with the city's building department in planning this facility," he added.

ALDERMEN ALSO were concerned with an expected traffic hazard when people want to cross Rohlwing Road from the motel to other facilities in Arlington Park. "Some kind of pedestrian overpass or underpass should be considered," Ald. Kenneth Retzke said.

Representatives of Chicago Thoroughbred said they were willing to discuss the possibility of a crosswalk, but they believed most people would drive from one side to the other.

A height variation will be needed to allow construction of the 10-story building, but the city's zoning board has indicated it would act favorably on the request, if rezoning was granted by the council.

Nixon Appeal

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. — President Nixon yesterday called on the nation to mark the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination today by rededicating itself to the principles of "justice and non-violence."

Spending the Easter holiday at his Florida home here, Nixon took note of the anniversary as a "sad and somber time" and sought to put a quietus on rumors of violence which had been making the rounds for days.

Bond on Campus

CHICAGO — Julian Bond, negro state legislator from Georgia, spoke to 1,500 students at University of Illinois Circle campus yesterday and said Negroes no longer want to be part of the traditional American melting pot. "Some of us don't want to melt," he declared. "We want to carve out our own place in society, separate yet part of a whole."

Bond said a unified Negro movement should be strong enough to work without revolution. "Revolution must not be dismissed, but it is totally unrealistic at this time."

Interest Rates Up

WASHINGTON — Ordering an unprecedented double dose of anti-inflation medicine, the Federal Reserve has raised the percentage of bank deposits that must be held in reserve and increased the interest rate it charges banks for loans to a 40-year high.

The action is aimed at drying up the amount of money banks will have to pump into the nation's already over-expanded economy.

Big Four Open Talks

UNITED NATIONS — Representatives of the Big Four powers today opened long-awaited meetings on what they described as the "serious and urgent" Middle East crisis.

The UN ambassadors of U. S., Britain, Soviet Union, and France began immediately "defining areas of agreement." They said consultations will be "private and confidential," although they will maintain "all appropriate contacts with the parties primarily concerned in the Middle East."

Hippies Driven Out

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Police armed with riot guns, tear gas, rifles and gas masks swept through a rocky desert canyon on foot and horseback yesterday, routing hundreds of dirty, barefoot young hippies and students. The canyon dwellers were part of 20,000 young invaders who swarmed over this exclusive spa for the Easter week vacation.

About 100 officers made the sweep through the lower portion of Tahquitz Canyon after helicopters had circled overhead warning the campers to get out or face arrest.

U.S.S.R. Ahead in Sea

WASHINGTON — The Navy's top research scientist said yesterday the Soviet Union had caught up and to some extent had pulled ahead of the United States in development of undersea sound detection techniques used in anti-submarine warfare.

"We are no longer almost a decade ahead in sonar developments," Assistant Secretary Robert A. Frosch told the Senate Armed Services Committee. "In some areas they are ahead of us."

Want Sweeter Label

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration has proposed labeling requirements for food products artificially sweetened with cyclamates.

FDA Commissioner Herbert Ley Jr. said the sugar substitutes could have detrimental effects if taken in excess. He said research in this area still was in early stages, but that the need for a warning label was indicated.

Chicago Is Tense

CHICAGO (UPI) — A total of 20 National Guard units involving 7,278 troops from 24 cities were called up to active duty in Chicago yesterday after black youths went on a rampage through the West Side.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said he took the action after conferring with Mayor Richard J. Daley. Fourteen of the units are from Chicago.

The violence erupted at seven Negro high schools in ghetto neighborhoods on the anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Worst disturbance was at Crane High School after students poured from the school following an assembly in the auditorium commemorating King and began attacking motorists, smashing windows and looting.

Vista A Second Stone

by JUDY TREMORE

With elections coming up for both the village and township offices, the Republican party swung into full activity to ensure victory at least for its party in the Elk Grove Township election.

It may or may not have a real interest in the village elections I'll leave that to those in the know.

However, what concerns me now is the "machine" the Republicans are building up in the suburbs. It's not unlike the one in Chicago which they now say is calling the shots in the township election.

What I know about what is happening in my precinct for the election and what happened here at the national election in November.

IN THE TOWNSHIP election, our Republican precinct captain presented names of three qualified election judges. In this election, as in several past, one of the judges was a woman who no longer lives in our precinct.

The precinct captain and the judge are not breaking an election law. One judge may live outside the precinct, but an attempt should be made for all the judges to live inside the voting area.

Now in a Republican-oriented precinct, in an overwhelmingly Republican community of well-educated, intelligent people, can there be no one else willing to call himself a Republican and to qualify as a judge? Very interesting.

As I said, no law is being broken. Now take a look at the November elections.

I served two roles election day. Briefly, I was outside the polls passing out Con-Con material and wearing a Con-Con banner as a member of the League of Women worked for my husband-precinct captain as the credentialed Democratic poll watcher.

THE FIRST INCIDENT occurred as a leaver I had my two preschoolers with me, and naturally the 3-year-old eventually had to go to the bathroom.

I, illegally I must admit, popped into the election area to ask where the bathroom was and was immediately shooed out by an election judge.

Yet much later that afternoon I observed a man — without credentials — who was wearing a Regner lapel button, standing back from the booths talking for quite a while to the Republican precinct captain. Despite the fact that he was breaking the same rule I had, no one told him to leave.

Perhaps it is a minor point, but then there is more.

Probably no election judge serving that election was looking forward to counting the votes on the judges' ballot. It was lengthy and there was really no opposition as to whom would be elected.

But I heard one Republican judge jokingly tell a couple voters to not bother marking that ballot, "it didn't matter anyway." Jest or not, judges are not allowed to instruct a voter on anything but the mechanics of voting.

Now for the items that were observed by one Democratic judge, the Democratic precinct captain, and in part by me.

This judge was unable to check credentials of persons who appeared at the polls for varying lengths of time throughout the day.

AT LEAST TWO men, Republican party workers, were at the polls, apparently without credentials; one to check who had been at the polls and to relay "get out to vote" cards to those who hadn't appeared as yet. This GOP worker was standing behind of their own in the suburbs that per-beside me.

After the polls were closed, two girls allegedly from a Cook County office, the GOP precinct captain and one of his workers counted the judges' ballots. Perhaps not a very serious incident, but one which violates the election laws. Only judges are allowed to handle ballots.

My question is: How can the GOP make such noise about Chicago's elections when they themselves aren't perfect in the suburbs?

If these infractions of rules occurred in one precinct, did they occur in others? Are the Republicans not setting up a machine should be watched more closely?

As the GOP becomes ever more certain of its role in the suburbs, will it become even more careless? Too bad we can't clean house every eight years, both in Chicago and the township, to prevent its happening.

Floros: Fiscal Responsibility

(Second in a series of interviews with candidates for the Dist. 57 school board) by JAMES VESELY

Leo Floros is a man with a message. It is a message of continued fiscal responsibility and the completion of set goals for Mount Prospect's school Dist. 57.

Floros is seeking re-election to his current post as a member of the school board. He is the only incumbent running in a field of three candidates for two seats on the board.

Floros received a caucus endorsement for his election as did the two other formal candidates for the board.

In his speech before the Dist. 57 caucus committee, Floros set the tone for his candidacy:

Speaking about his previous year on the board, Floros said, "It's a year in which I believe I have learned much and have contributed at least a little. The board is in the midst of a major building program and I feel that it would be in the best interests of the district to have a minimum of turn-over on the board at this time."

ALTHOUGH FLOROS made his statements to the Caucus in February, they still describe his candidacy two months later on the eve of the election.

Dist. 59 Candidates

Several changes have occurred in Dist. 59 in the past two months, yet Floros remains adamant in his belief that the proper course has been charted in Dist. 59 and the board should follow its present direction.

"I agree with the actions taken by the board on Central School," he said, "and even though we did not get any bidders the first time around, I still believe that the basic decision is a sound one."

As an incumbent, Floros can be expected to endorse most of the district policies which he had a hand in formulating, yet the candidate is not relying entirely on his past record in the campaign.

"I think we have made many good decisions in the past year, but I also know that we must be constantly watching over the finances and the policies of the district. It's a continuous job."

Floros had high marks for members of the Dist. 59 administration, particularly Dr. Richard Percy, the district's newest administrator specializing in curriculum.

ON THE MATTER of busing, Floros said he agrees with the board's decision to make Lincoln, the only junior high school in the district. And that busing children from one end of town to another is simply a "matter of practicality" which is in the best interests of the district and the children.

"We are interested in providing the best education for the students and part of that is providing a facility in which they can learn. Central is not such a facility, so we must bring the children to Lincoln."

Floros also commented on:

—Tax anticipation warrants (TAWs). "We don't want to see the district go in the red for any reason, but TAWs offer a way of borrowing on money coming into the district in the future. The use of anticipation warrants must be watched carefully, but if it is necessary to use them to maintain the quality of education, then we should use them."

—CUTS IN PROGRAMS such as foreign languages. "I have to see any program cut, but we must be willing to make cuts in some programs if it is absolutely necessary. We are committed to a good, sound education on the elementary level. We must always remember that. We have made cuts in the programs, but never from the basis of sound elementary education."

Floros, 41, has lived in the district for nine years. He and his wife, Lillian, have two daughters, both in the local schools. He worked for eight years as a reporter-rewrite man for the Chicago Sun-Times and for the past 11 years as public relations counselor with the Selz Organization.

Haberkamp Okay

The last six of 25 hospitalized firemen, including Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp, were released from St. Alexius Hospital yesterday morning, following inhalation of toxic fumes resulting from a "violent chemical reaction" at Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy, Elk Grove Village, Wednesday morning.

The firemen were hospitalized for preventive reasons after inhaling the fumes during response to an alarm at the company.

Elk Grove Fire Chief Allan Hulett said 19 of the hospitalized firemen, including himself, were released Wednesday night.

TOXIC FUMES, WHICH were feared to have caused lung damage, resulted from three chemicals mixed at the plant, the exact cause of which remains unknown.

"We were afraid of using any water in the building," Hulett said yesterday, "because some chemicals will detonate when they mix with water."

Additionally, the smoke resulting from the incident created unknown hazards for firemen, as there were floor vats filled with acid products which Hulett said were luckily avoided.

The five others released yesterday morning included two Elk Grove lieutenants and three village firemen.

No other injuries were reported, and damage was described as minor.

HULETT SAID THERE would be a full investigation of the nature of chemicals in the building. "One of them decomposes, and as it does that, it heats up. We don't know if it broke into flame or not — even chemists don't know."

The chief, who had proposed a micro-film record of all industrial plants in Elk Grove, as well as schools, the hospital and commercial firms, said that knowledge of the Sanford plant interior would have been helpful in handling the incident.

His proposal was to study all buildings and put the floor plans on micro-film used in the department dispatching office to inform firemen of the nature of the building, content and hazards while enroute to an alarm.

No Trouble Seen

The Mount Prospect police department is prepared to greet more than 1,500 young people from the suburban area as they arrive in Mount Prospect at 11 a.m. today, enroute from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows on a 17-mile Hike for the Hungry.

"We're not expecting any trouble," said Newell Esmond, Mount Prospect chief of police. "The people organizing the hike are well qualified for the job, and they've got a good group of kids with them."

In preparation for the marchers, Esmond has assigned three extra policemen for today's duty. "The department will have nine policemen on the job who will supervise the flow of traffic along the route through the village," he said.

The Mount Prospect police will meet the hikers at Mount Prospect Road and Lincoln Street and will accompany them on their six-mile trek through the village, stopping at St. Paul's Lutheran Church and the Prospect High School for rest stops.

"OUR MAIN CONCERN," the chief said, "is to protect the marchers from traffic and yet avoid any possible traffic jams for motorists. The hikers and the motorists will get the same consideration, and we'll alternate the flow of traffic and the marchers at intersections along the route."

Police departments from the six towns in which the Hunger Hike will march will be working together in case any serious incidents should arise.

"There are good working relations among the police departments in the area, so if there should be any need for additional help during the hike, the departments will assist each other and work together," said Esmond.

But the chief of police isn't expecting any trouble today. "I can't find any fault with the march. It's for a good cause, and everyone involved is concerned about causing as few problems as possible," said Esmond.

Hikers May Set Record

At least 1,700 teenagers and adults are registered to march in today's 16-mile "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban Northwest.

It could be the largest march of its kind in the history of this area.

David Wurm, youth minister at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect and a march coordinator, told The Herald that he estimated an additional 220 persons would register early this morning — if the weather stayed good.

The forecast for northern Illinois is cloudy and mild with occasional rain likely today. Heavy rain would cut the number of marchers.

However, Wurm said that it would be virtually impossible to cancel the march, which will snake through Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Only very bad weather would cancel the march he said.

The hikers against poverty were to assemble this morning at 7:30 at Maine East High School Dempster and Potter, in Park Ridge. The march was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

THE PARTICIPANTS must be sponsored on a fixed amount of money per mile. A sponsor, for example, could sponsor a teenager at 50 cents a mile. If the marcher completed the 16-mile route, the sponsor would owe $8.

The money will be donated to three benefit organizations — Biafran relief, and Ecuadorian farm project and the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

The march, which will be protected and guided by police in the various suburbs, will move northwest from Park Ridge to Palatine. At Palatine, it will move south to the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, where it will end.

The route has been designed to keep the marchers clear of major highways, such as Northwest Highway, to avoid blocking traffic. The marchers are expected to arrive in Rolling Meadows at about 3 or 4 p.m.

About 200 adults will be needed along the route to serve as marshals. They will keep marchers in columns, in order, and them in crossing streets, and man checkpoints along the route. Twelve checkpoints will permit marchers to drop out if they choose to do so and to rest and

The action is aimed at drying up the amount of money banks will have to pump into the nation's already over-expanded economy.

Hippies Driven Out

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Police armed with riot guns, tear gas, rifles and gas masks swept through a rocky desert canyon on foot and horseback yesterday, routing hundreds of dirty, barefoot young hippies and students. The canyon dwellers were part of 20,000 young invaders who swarmed over this exclusive spa for the Easter week vacation.

About 100 officers made the sweep through the lower portion of Tahquitz Canyon after helicopters had circled overhead warning the campers to get out or face arrest.

WASHINGTON — The Navy's top research scientist said yesterday the Soviet Union had caught up and to some extent had pulled ahead of the United States in development of undersea sound detection techniques used in anti-submarine warfare.

"We are no longer almost a decade ahead in sonar developments," Assistant Secretary Robert A. Frosch told the Senate Armed Services Committee. "In some areas they are ahead of us."

Spark Chicago Is Tense

CHICAGO (UPI) — A total of 20 National Guard units involving 7,276 troops from 24 cities were called up to active duty in Chicago yesterday after black youths went on a rampage through the West Side.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said he took the action after conferring with Mayor Richard J. Daley. Fourteen of the units are from Chicago.

The violence erupted at seven Negro high schools in ghetto neighborhoods on the anniversary eve of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Worst disturbance was at Crane High School after students poured from the school following an assembly in the auditorium commemorating King and began attacking motorists, smashing windows and looting.

THE SCHOOL IS located in the slum area where riots, looting and arson flared last year following the King assassination.

Negro students were reported angry because they were not given yesterday off in King's memory. They reasoned that any holiday on the actual anniversary today would be interpreted as a Good Friday observance.

The disorders flared through the afternoon, subsided as evening came, and appeared to be under tenuous control as motorized units of Guardsmen, carrying tear gas, carbines and rifles, rolled through the troubled streets last night.

Most of the disorders were confined to a black ghetto area 13 blocks long and 7 blocks wide along W. Madison Street.

Representatives of seven Chicago ghetto gangs met in an old movie studio last night to ask city and suburban reporters to help them tell minority groups to "cool it."

Police were excluded from the meeting, which was for press only. But a Black Panther field information officer told Herald newsmen he knew some police were at the press conference.

He told Herald staffers Bob Finch, Larry Cameron and Mike Seeling, "It's about time you (the suburban press) were getting down here for this."

"They were glad to see us," said Finch. Seven gangs were represented, including the Vice Lords, Egyptian Cobras, Young Latin and the Lords.

Each gang leader made a statement, telling members to go home and keep it cool, keep your pride up, don't let the man push you, you can't fight guns with bricks.

'The Smell was Different'

by MARY DRESSER
For the second time in 12 months commuters from the northwest Chicago suburbs found themselves leaving the city yesterday amid reports of rioting on the first anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination. Below is the reflections of one area resident who went through both experiences.

"The smell was different on the street corners."

William Koretko of Elk Grove was in the middle of last year's rioting.

Yesterday afternoon there was "a world

of difference," he said.

Koretko who manages a plant on Damen Ave. and another on Roosevelt Road remembers the black clouds of smoke rising from the city in mid-afternoon as panicked motorists with their lights on struggled to escape the burning city.

"THIS TIME THE crowds in the area didn't seem anxious to start any action," reported Koretko. "The police were way ahead of the game."

Police, three and four deep on street corners near Lake and Damen were the first indication Koretko had of the disturbances in the West Side ghetto.

Koretko ran from his car into the industrial plant and immediately sent the shop and office force home.

"Some of the fellows were telling me there were fires in the Madison, Ashland, Western area," says Koretko. "That wasn't on the radio yet, but I believe them. They were absolutely right last year."

Last year Koretko remembers driving suburban women home through the burning city and putting terrified black women on buses that would take them to their threatened homes in the riot area.

"One of the guys in the shop told me 'I couldn't understand it last year, but this year it's completely ridiculous,'" says Koretko.

The library board discussed remodeling the library and endorsed John Parsons, a board member who is running for a six-year term, at last night's meeting.

Gil Liebenow said Parsons has contributed a great deal in the realm of finance and hopes he will be able to continue serving the board.

"In Parsons' time on the board, he has given a really ordered aspect to finance," said Liebenow. "The community will have to make its assessment of the other candidates."

The library board also recognized Mrs. Mark Clark, running unopposed for a one-year term, for her talents and for what she has done for the library board.

TOM GRADY, CHAIRMAN of the buildings and grounds committee, reported a meeting with architects Wengdt, Cedarholm and Tipples of Des Plaines. The latest plans include turning the stairs on the Emmerson Street side to go into what was now the children's section.

The building committee has decided to leave to the discretion of the librarians whether future plans will include one central check-out area or check-out desks on the first and second floors.

The Busse Street entrance will be closed and will have thermopane windows in place of the doors.

The existing columns and arch will remain unchanged. The contract now calls for the work upstairs, the stairway enclosure and turning and closing out the Busse Street entrance.

OTHER CHANGES ON the first floor will be made if or when money is available.

The board received $29.93 from the village as the library's share of late payments and prior year's taxes.

The library board feels the village does not owe the library this money. It will hold the check. If the village decides to present the money to the gift fund, the library will accept it.

Stevenson To Speak

Adlai Stevenson III, state treasurer, will speak at a public meeting Sunday, April 13, at 11:30 a.m. in the North Shore Unitarian Church, 2100 Half Day Road, Deerfield.

No topic has been announced yet for Stevenson's speech.

A former member of the Illinois House of Representatives, Stevenson has recently been active in the 44th ward aldermanic campaign race in Chicago.

Vista A Second Stone

by JUDY TREMORE

With elections coming up for both the village and township offices, the Republican party swung into full activity to ensure victory at least for its party in the Elk Grove Township election.

It may or may not have a real interest in the village elections I'll leave that to those in the know.

However, what concerns me now is the "machine" the Republicans are building up in the suburbs. It's not unlike the one in Chicago which they now say is calling the shots in the township election.

What I know about what is happening in my precinct for the election and what happened here at the national election in November.

IN THE TOWNSHIP election, our Republican precinct captain, presented names of three qualified election judges. In this election, as in several past, one of the judges was a woman who no longer lives in our precinct.

The precinct captain and the judge are not breaking an election law. One judge may live outside the precinct, but an attempt should be made for all the judges to live inside the voting area.

Now in a Republican-oriented precinct, in an overwhelmingly Republican community of well-educated, intelligent people, can there be no one else willing to call himself a Republican and to qualify as a judge? Very interesting.

As I said, no law is being broken. Now take a look at the November elections.

I served two roles election day. Briefly, I was outside the polls passing out Con-Con material and wearing a Con-Con banner as a member of the League of Women worked for my husband-precinct captain as the credentialed Democratic poll watcher.

THE FIRST INCIDENT occurred as a leaver I had my two preschoolers with me, and naturally the 3-year-old eventually had to go to the bathroom.

I illegally I must admit, popped into the election area to ask where the bathroom was and was immediately shooed out by an election judge.

Yet much later that afternoon I observed a man — without credentials — who was wearing a Regner lapel button, standing back from the booths talking for quite a while to the Republican precinct captain. Despite the fact that he was breaking the same rule I had, no one told him to leave.

Perhaps it is a minor point, but then there is more.

Probably no election judge serving that election was looking forward to counting the votes on the judges' ballot. It was lengthy and there was really no opposition as to whom would be elected.

But I heard one Republican judge jokingly tell a couple voters to not bother marking that ballot, "it didn't matter anyway." Jest or not, judges are not allowed to instruct a voter on anything but the mechanics of voting.

Now for the items that were observed by one Democratic judge, the Democratic precinct captain, and in part by me.

This judge was unable to check credentials of persons who appeared at the polls for varying lengths of time throughout the day.

AT LEAST TWO men, Republican party workers, were at the polls, apparently without credentials; one to check who had been at the polls and to relay "get out to vote" cards to those who hadn't appeared as yet. This GOP worker was standing behind of their own in the suburbs that per-beside me.

After the polls were closed, two girls allegedly from a Cook County office, the GOP precinct captain and one of his workers counted the judges' ballots. Perhaps not a very serious incident, but one which violates the election laws. Only judges are allowed to handle ballots.

My question is: How can the GOP make such noise about Chicago's elections when they themselves aren't perfect in the suburbs?

If these infractions of rules occurred in one precinct, did they occur in others? Are the Republicans not setting up a map-haps should be watched more closely?

As the GOP becomes ever more certain of its role in the suburbs, will it become even more careless? Too bad we can't clean house every eight years, both in Chicago and the township, to prevent its happening.

Floros: Fiscal Responsibility

(Second in a series of interviews with candidates for the Dist. 57 school board)

by JAMES VESELY

Leo Floros is a man with a message. It is a message of continued fiscal responsibility and the completion of set goals for Mount Prospect's school Dist. 57.

Floros is seeking re-election to his current post as a member of the school board. He is the only incumbent running in a field of three candidates for two seats on the board.

Floros received a caucus endorsement for his election as did the two other formal candidates for the board.

In his speech before the Dist. 57 caucus committee, Floros set the tone for his candidacy:

Speaking about his previous year on the board, Floros said, "It's a year in which I believe I have learned much and have contributed at least a little. The board is in the midst of a major building program and I feel that it would be in the best interests of the district to have a minimum of turn-over on the board at this time."

ALTHOUGH FLOROS made his statements to the Caucus in February, they still describe his candidacy two months later on the eve of the election.

Haberkamp Okay

The last six of 25 hospitalized firemen, including Mount Prospect Fire Chief Edwin Haberkamp, were released from St. Alexius Hospital yesterday morning, following inhalation of toxic fumes resulting from a "violent chemical reaction" at Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy, Elk Grove Village, Wednesday morning.

The firemen were hospitalized for preventative reasons after inhaling the fumes during response to an alarm at the company.

Elk Grove Fire Chief Allan Hulett said 19 of the hospitalized firemen, including himself, were released Wednesday night.

TOXIC FUMES, WHICH were feared to have caused lung damage, resulted from three chemicals mixed at the plant, the exact cause of which remains unknown.

"We were afraid of using any water in the building," Hulett said yesterday, "because some chemicals will detonate when they mix with water."

Additionally, the smoke resulting from the incident created unknown hazards for firemen, as there were floor vats filled with acid products which Hulett said were luckily avoided.

The five others released yesterday morning included two Elk Grove lieutenants and three village firemen.

No other injuries were reported, and damage was described as minor.

HULETT SAID THERE would be a full investigation of the nature of chemicals in the building. "One of them decomposes, and as it does that, it heats up. We don't know if it broke into flame or not — even chemists don't know."

The chief, who had proposed a microfilm record of all industrial plants in Elk Grove, as well as schools, the hospital and commercial firms, said that knowledge of the Sanford plant interior would have been helpful in handling the incident.

His proposal was to study all buildings and put the floor plans on micro-film used in the department dispatching office to inform firemen of the nature of the building, content and hazards while enroute to an alarm.

School Menus

The following lunches will be served Monday in area schools where a hot lunch program is provided (subject to change without notice):

- Dist. 211: No school, spring vacation.
- St. Viator High School: No school, spring vacation.

No Trouble Seen

The Mount Prospect police department is prepared to greet more than 1,500 young people from the suburban area as they arrive in Mount Prospect at 11 a.m. today, enroute from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows on a 17-mile hike for the Hungry.

"We're not expecting any trouble," said Newell Esmond, Mount Prospect chief of police. "The people organizing the hike are well qualified for the job, and they've got a good group of kids with them."

In preparation for the marchers, Esmond has assigned three extra policemen for today's duty. "The department will have nine policemen on the job who will supervise the flow of traffic along the route through the village," he said.

The Mount Prospect police will meet the hikers at Mount Prospect Road and Lincoln Street and will accompany them on their six-mile trek through the village, stopping at St. Paul's Lutheran Church and the Prospect High School for rest stops.

"OUR MAIN CONCERN," the chief said, "is to protect the marchers from traffic and yet avoid any possible traffic jams for motorists. The hikers and the motorists will get the same consideration, and we'll alternate the flow of traffic and the marchers at intersections along the route."

Police departments from the six towns in which the Hunger Hike will march will be working together in case any serious incidents should arise.

"There are good working relations among the police departments in the area, so if there should be any need for additional help during the hike, the departments will assist each other and work together," said Esmond.

But the chief of police isn't expecting any trouble today. "I can't find any fault with the march. It's for a good cause, and everyone involved is concerned about causing as few problems as possible," said Esmond.

Several changes have occurred in Dist. 59 in the past two months, yet Floros remains adamant in his belief that the proper course has been charted in Dist. 57 and the board should follow its present direction.

"I agree with the actions taken by the board on Central School," he said, "and even though we did not get any bidders the first time around, I still believe that the basic decision is a sound one."

As an incumbent, Floros can be expected to endorse most of the district policies which he had a hand in formulating, yet the candidate is not relying entirely on his past record in the campaign.

"I think we have made many good decisions in the past year, but I also know that we must be constantly watching over the finances and the policies of the district. It's a continuous job."

Floros had high marks for members of the Dist. 57 administration, particularly Dr. Richard Percy, the district's newest administrator specializing in curriculum.

ON THE MATTER of busing, Floros said he agrees with the board's decision to make Lincoln the only junior high school in the district. And that busing children from one end of town to another is simply a "matter of practicality" which is in the best interests of the district and the children.

"We are interested in providing the best education for the students and part of that is providing a facility in which they can learn. Central is not such a facility, so we must bring the children to Lincoln."

Floros also commented on:

—Tax anticipation warrants (TAWs). "We don't want to see the district go in the red for any reason, but TAWs offer a way of borrowing on money coming into the district in the future. The use of anticipation warrants must be watched carefully, but if it is necessary to use them to maintain the quality of education, then we should use them."

—CUTS IN PROGRAMS such as foreign languages. "I have to see any program cut, but we must be willing to make cuts in some programs if it is absolutely necessary. We are committed to a good, sound education on the elementary level. We must always remember that. We have made cuts in the programs, but never from the basis of sound elementary education."

Floros, 41, has lived in the district for nine years. He and his wife, Lillian, have two daughters, both in the local schools. He worked for eight years as a reporter-reviewer for the Chicago Sun-Times and for the past 11 years as public relations counselor with the Selz Organization.

Hikers May Set Record

At least 1,700 teenagers and adults are registered to march in today's 16-mile "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban Northwest.

It could be the largest march of its kind in the history of this area.

David Wurm, youth minister at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect and a march coordinator, told the Herald that he estimated an additional 220 persons would register early this morning — if the weather stayed good.

The forecast for northern Illinois is cloudy and mild with occasional rain likely today. Heavy rain would cut the number of marchers.

However, Wurm said that it would be virtually impossible to cancel the march, which will snake through Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Only very bad weather would cancel the march, he said.

The hikers against poverty were to assemble this morning at 7:30 at Maine East High School, Dempster and Potter, in Park Ridge. The march was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

THE PARTICIPANTS must be sponsored on a fixed amount of money per mile. A sponsor, for example, could sponsor a teenager at 50 cents a mile. If the marcher completed the 16-mile route, the sponsor would owe $8.

The money will be donated to three benefit organizations — Blafra relief, and Ecuadorian farm project and the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

The march, which will be protected and guided by police in the various suburbs, will move northwest from Park Ridge to Palatine. At Palatine, it will move south to the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, where it will end.

The route has been designed to keep the marchers clear of major highways, such as Northwest Highway, to avoid blocking traffic. The marchers are expected to arrive in Rolling Meadows at about 3 or 4 p.m.

About 200 adults will be needed along the route to serve as marshals. They will keep marchers in columns, in order, aid them in crossing streets, and man checkpoints along the route. Twelve checkpoints will permit marchers to drop out if they choose to do so and to rest and possibly obtain food.

THE HIKERS will wear armbands. Many have spent the week painting signs with slogans like "Down with Hunger" and "Soul Power."

The goal for donations is $120,000. Wurm is not optimistic about reaching that goal, but he said he would have to wait until tomorrow before he has even a rough estimate of the march's success.

Supporters of the march have been seeking support in area high schools during the past couple weeks. Many marchers have gained several sponsors, and they are prepared to march as far as possible.

reflections of one area resident who went through both experiences.

"The smell was different on the street corners."

William Koretko of Elk Grove was in the middle of last year's rioting.

Yesterday afternoon there was "a world

of difference," he said.

Koretko who manages a plant on Damen Ave. and another on Roosevelt Road remembers the black clouds of smoke rising from the city in mid-afternoon as panicked motorists with their lights on struggled to escape the burning city.

"THIS TIME THE crowds in the area didn't seem anxious to start any action," reported Koretko. "The police were way ahead of the game."

Police, three and four deep on street corners near Lake and Damen were the first indication Koretko had of the disturbances in the West Side ghetto.

Koretko ran from his car into the industrial plant and immediately sent the shop and office force home.

"Some of the fellows were telling me there were fires in the Madison, Ashland, Western area," says Koretko. "That wasn't on the radio yet, but I believe them. They were absolutely right last year."

Last year Koretko remembers driving suburban women home through the burning city and putting terrified black women on buses that would take them to their threatened homes in the riot area.

"THIS YEAR, blacks and whites left quietly."

"One of the guys in the shop told me 'I couldn't understand it last year, but this year it's completely ridiculous,'" says Koretko.

At least 1,780 teenagers and adults are registered to march in today's 16-mile "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban Northwest.

It could be the largest march of its kind in the history of this area.

David Wurm, youth minister at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect and a march coordinator, told the Herald that he estimated an additional 220 persons would register early this morning — if the weather stayed good.

The forecast for northern Illinois is cloudy and mild with occasional rain likely today. Heavy rain would cut the number of marchers.

However, Wurm said that it would be virtually impossible to cancel the march, which will snake through Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows. Only very bad weather would cancel the march, he said.

The hikers against poverty were to assemble this morning at 7:30 at Maine East High School, Dempster and Potter, in Park Ridge. The march was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

THE PARTICIPANTS must be sponsored on a fixed amount of money per mile. A sponsor, for example, could sponsor a teenager at 50 cents a mile. If the marcher completed the 16-mile route, the sponsor would owe $8.

The money will be donated to three benefit organizations — Blafra relief, Ecuadorian farm project and the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

The march, which will be protected and guided by police in the various suburbs, will move northwest from Park Ridge to Palatine. At Palatine, it will move south to the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows, where it will end.

The route has been designed to keep the marchers clear of major highways, such as Northwest Highway, to avoid blocking traffic. The marchers are expected to arrive in Rolling Meadows at about 3 or 4 p.m.

About 200 adults will be needed along the route to serve as marshals. They will keep marchers in columns, in order, aid them in crossing streets, and man checkpoints along the route. Twelve checkpoints will permit marchers to drop out if they choose to do so and to rest and possibly obtain food.

THE HIKERS will wear armbands (Continued on Page 2)

Security 'Status Quo' For Hunger March

The disturbances in Chicago have caused no local police security changes in today's scheduled "Hike for the Hungry" March from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows. Up to 2,000 persons, mostly students, are expected to participate.

I want to take this opportunity to thank four people for making an election. Charles Zeller, who ran for village president, Jeanne Novotny, who ran for clerk, Mrs. Jean Hanlon and Mrs. Barbara Vidmar, who ran for trustee.

A race needed to be made, and these people made it.

We at The Herald didn't endorse any one of them. But their own determination to run for office deserves some praise.

Did anybody look at Winnetka? Did anybody see what happened there? In that town there is a party, called the Caucus, which is an imposed. Any everybody so nominated ran and won.

Now Winnetka isn't as big, not nearly as big as Arlington Heights. And the people nominated won by votes of 150 or 200 to nothing.

Who needs participatory democracy with that kind of turnout? I hope things never get that comfortable here. I hope we have boat rockers until the cows come home and they're making snowballs in hell.

THE CAUCUS party in this village is too much like the fraternity systems I've seen operating on college campuses. Everybody concerned is a good guy, just because he pledged and got accepted by the power structure.

And everybody concerned will tell you there is room for everyone in the fraternity system.

They say, "Those damn Independents" and cheer because the independents don't hold the fork right, don't say just the thing the frat boys and the panhellenic girls think should be said.

Heaven help this village when there aren't enough free spirits to refuse that kind of discipline from the really fine folk.

It so happens that Mrs. Vidmar brought up a number of relevant issues that needed airing during the campaign. Issues that otherwise wouldn't have been the light of day.

HER DEMAND for a better ambulance service was called emotional and way off base. The fact that two mothers in the same neighborhood waited for ambulances that never came blackbills that sort of lie. It is interesting to note that Haire Funeral Home began an energetic advertisement campaign for its increased service right after that issue got aired.

And what ever happened to Medicare for this village? Can you answer that, Bill Griffin, Dwight Walton, Frank Palmatier? I'll tell you. It got lost in the shuffle. It got lost in the frantic pace of our village attorney. He was supposed to report back to the board and never did!

And Walshy, baby, what happened to your determination for a quick report on the downtown traffic study? Member? The one you made more than a year ago? Hah? Member the one that would be too long if it took three months? Hah!

AND PROGRESS ON the above ground swimming pool ordinance has been dreadfully slow.

I'd have loved to run against you Caucus fellas. Really would have. You had a lot of defending to do that nobody really capitalized on.

And, in truth, one of the reasons you were able to beat Mrs. Hanlon and Mrs. Vidmar, is that you stole their own platform. Better communications.

And I don't doubt that you'll come through. (I promise you, Mr. Walton, if you let down I'll put you in print). But I hope that there is always somebody around to sharpen the Caucus wits. People like Zeller, Vidmar, Novotny and Hanlon, to prevent Arlington Heights from becoming a backwater like Winnetka.

Park Election May Be Canned

Park director Thomas Thornton stood in front of the coffee pot, quietly cursing.

Park board members were staring at election returns, precinct numbers and scratching their heads.

The special meeting called for Wednesday night was supposed to be a routine canvassing of votes cast in Tuesday's election. The board members' job was to check tally sheets filled out by judges, certify the results and declare the official winners.

It didn't turn out that way.

Instead, the five board members spent almost four hours at their job and then adjourned the meeting until tomorrow morning.

INFORMATION WHICH they found may mean Arlington Heights voters will have to return to the polls to elect two park commissioners.

Unofficial results showed Lelley Threlton, acting village trustee, and Thomas McShane as winners. Incumbent John Edwards lost by about 20 votes.

Edwards won 24 precincts, McShane won 12, and they tied in one. However, McShane's vote total was greater.

However, those results might be thrown away and a new election held.

Board members began their work and found only minor errors at first. However, one trend was noted early. There were a lot of defective ballots, votes which were not counted because the ballot was either improperly marked or not marked at all.

"OUR EXPERIENCE has shown there are never this many spoiled ballots," Park Atty. Charles Bobinette told the board. "In previous park elections, the number of spoiled ballots has been almost insignificant."

Out of more than 6,000 ballots cast, more than 400 were called defective by election judges. The park attorney said this number of defective ballots might invalidate the election.

Bobinette said the second problem is 13 missing affidavits. According to state law, the affidavits were supposed to be signed by each voter before he received a ballot. They attest the voter is eligible to vote for park board candidates.

The missing affidavits were not in the material which had been returned to Thornton by the election judges Tuesday night.

Thornton said the missing papers could have mistakenly been returned with village or township election material.

The affidavits might be at the village hall or the township hall.

"WE CAN'T BE TOO critical of the judges because it was a very confusing election," Thornton said. The same judges were used for the village, park, library and township elections.

St. Patrick Student Will Attend Course

An Arlington Heights student was selected by St. Patrick Academy to attend a summer course in anthropology at the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago.

Mary Boyle, 625 E. Rockwell St., will study ancient civilization and the cultures of Africa and China during the session supported by the National Science Foundation.

Selection of students was based on academic achievement, teacher recommendations and personal interviews.

Bobinette said a losing candidate, Edwards or Nathaniel Leighton, could contest the election. Even if they did not contest, "there are still two very basic problems. One is the tremendous number of defective votes and the other is the failure to have affidavits."

Board members adjourned the meeting until 10 a.m. tomorrow and instructed Thornton to try to find the missing affidavits.

"If you can't find them, then we do have a problem," Bobinette said.

Thornton was also instructed to contact judges in precincts where the number of defective ballots was more than 15. He will try to find out why they were judged defective.

Bobinette was instructed to investigate the legal side of the election problem. He said the law requiring affidavits is only five or six years old and he did not know of any precedent decisions on the law.

Futurities

Arlington Heights park commissioners will meet at 10 a.m. tomorrow in Pioneer Park to continue a canvass of Tuesday's election ballot.

Potboilers

MONEY, MONEY — That's what the Caucus Party spent in winning Tuesday's election. The party was in debt long before it hit the campaign trail. At least one Caucus official has personally picked up $300 worth of the party tab. Where the rest comes from only campaign manager Bud Beacham and a few others know.

LEFTOVER — One legacy from the elections for the Caucus was food. Carl Pasquale, party chairman, was seen driving off Tuesday night with a back seat full of potato salad. Others, including the press, disappeared into the drizzle clutching pies, lunch meat and bread. One commodity not passed out for takehome — two garbage cans full of iced beer. "We're going to have a blast with it later," predicted Pasquale.

CALM IN THE STORM — Village Clerk Mrs. Jean Novotny, whose race was the closest of any at the municipal level, sat coolly in the village hall Tuesday night watching herself lose and doing her job at the same time. With the confusion attendant to the handling of the first consolidated township-parks-village elections, she seemed the only relaxed person in the place.

WINNERS — Tom McShane, an apparent park board winner, also garnered the $27 Caucus "pot" for predicting the vote total for the village race. He edged out John Walsh, village president elect, by a hundred or so votes.

DON'T UNDERESTIMATE THE VOTERS — Wheeling Township residents exceeded the wildest hopes of newly-elected Auditor Fred Reimann at Tuesday's annual town meeting. At last week's budget meeting Reimann requested officials to promise they would raise auditor's salaries from $15 to $25 per meeting so the question would not come up at the town meeting. Township Atty. Richard Cowen explained there is a conflict in current statutes and if a clarifying bill now pending in the legislature did not pass he would recommend that electors make the salary decision. It didn't and the electors decided — a unanimous, resounding yes.

ABSENCE OF SIGNS in some precincts demonstrating how to make your "X" on ballots may account for some of the 432 defective park board ballots currently turning officials grey.

SWINGS, SLIDES AND MONKEY BARS taken away from local parks in the last few weeks will return. Park officials say as soon as a new type of ground covering is installed the playground equipment will be reset.

Many have spent the week painting signs with slogans like "Down with Hunger" and "Soul Power."

The goal for donations is $120,000. Wurm is not optimistic about reaching that goal, but he said he would have to wait until tomorrow before he has even a rough estimate of the march's success.

Supporters of the march have been seeking support in area high schools during the past couple weeks. Many marchers have gained several sponsors, and they are prepared to march as far as possible.

Telephone Circuits Are Being Expanded

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. is expanding telephone circuits for Arlington Heights. Trench digging, now under way, will be completed by June, and additional underground cables will be in place by August, the company said.

Cable ducts will be placed under sidewalks from the intersection of Euclid Street and Vail Avenue west one mile to Euclid and Wilke Road to connect with an existing run. The entire project will be on the south side of Euclid.

The company plans to build a pit under railroad tracks to avoid traffic disruptions.

R. E. Montgomery, Bell representative, said the company will restore lawns, parkways or roads disturbed by the project.

Northwest Y Members Grow

The 16th annual meeting of Northwest Suburban YMCA marked another year of increased membership and size of operation.

Board member Carl Bowen was chairman of the meeting last week, which was combined with a buffet supper for the 'Y' board and guests. Floyd Kalber, NBC-TV news analyst, highlighted the program, answering questions from the audience.

Under the present board of directors, the 'Y' has a record enrollment of 21,575 members and operates under a budget of $770,000. This is the largest membership for any non-resident YMCA in the world, the group said.

Edwin C. Bruning, executive vice president of Charles Bruning Co., was reelected chairman of the board. Vice chairmen include John Gobeille, Mount Prospect; Stephen Jurco, Arlington Heights, and Thomas Crouch of Palatine, vice chairman at large.

Among the new members elected for three-year terms were Dr. Roger Eggert and Warren Lattot, both of Arlington Heights; Leonard Van Gaasbeek, Mount Prospect, and Joseph Leaniak, Prospect Heights.

HONORED FOR 15 years' service on the board were Charles Hodimair, Elk Grove Village; Earl K. Riley, Arlington Heights, and Leonard E. Manuel, Schaumburg. Local members serving 10 years were Stanley C. Amren and John Gobeille, Mount Prospect; Arthur Edmunds, Long Grove, and Chester Guilian, Arlington Heights.

With constant growth in members and activities, the Northwest Suburban facilities continue to warrant expansion. A $1,650,000 building addition has been approved by the board, two-thirds of the amount to come from YMCA dues and general operations and the balance pledged by members and friends of the 'Y'.

Charles McClellan, executive director, hopes that ground can be broken in June. Some areas will be ready for use by December, but the entire project will take approximately a year.

The two largest pledges from 'Y' groups have come from the Women's Auxiliary and Indian Guides. The Auxiliary pledged $50,000, which will be raised by operating the 'Y' Snack Bar and conducting an annual Pancake Day. The Indian Guides, composed of father and son groups, pledged $10,500 to the new building program. Their annual Christmas tree sale accounts for the largest part of this amount.

CARL BOWEN of Arlington Heights serves as master of ceremonies at the 16th annual meeting of Northwest Suburban YMCA. (B-10)

Police, Fire Cost To Increase Here

Fire and police protection are going to take a bigger bite in 1969-70 from the general corporate fund of the Arlington Heights budget.

Both the budgeted totals and the percentage of the general corporate budget have increased. The police budget request rose from $579,448 to a proposed $774,920, and the fire department budget climbed from $318,625 to $411,318.

The percentage of the general corporate pie eaten up by the two departments increased, too. The police will take 32 per cent, an increase of 3 per cent over last year's budget. The fire department will take 17 per cent of 16 per cent.

There are, of course, other substantial expenses that hike the overall budget up to a record level (rising as the village population continues to rise). The revenue from bonds for water and sewer construction is a budget-hiker, for example.

However, the one item consistently higher throughout the budget is salaries. New jobs such as an additional sanitarian and fire and police captains and new men and overall salary increases (department heads generally gained increases) have increased the budget.

TO HELP PAY FOR larger salaries and the other increases in material and supplies, the village is going to have to lean heavily on rich sources of revenue.

Sales tax is an example. The village is hoping to obtain $770,000 this year in sales tax. Last year it expected $600,000, but gained considerably more money than that.

Property tax is expected to supply another major chunk of money. The overall rate will probably be set at 64.17 cents per $100 of valuation, a slight increase over the 1968-69 estimated figure.

Within that total tax figure, 64.17 cents will be split into a number of different village funds. The money will not only cover the police and fire departments, it will be channeled into police and fire pension funds, the library fund, and into paying off the cost of water and sewer improvements.

That estimated tax will increase this year from last year's $525,000 to $654,000. Both figures do not include the normal 10 per cent loss and cost of collection.

The sales of licenses and permits is expected to increase, too. Last year the village anticipated $450,000; in fiscal 1969-70 it expects $528,000.

THE BUDGET INCREASE, viewed one way, reflects the growth of Arlington Heights. Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson projects the village's growth at 61,000 this year. He expects the community to grow to 65,000 next year. In 1958 the population was 23,000.

Hanson, in his introduction to the budget, notes that the future success of the village depends on coping with population growth and six types of "pollution"—water, air, scenic, sound, transportation, and environmental.

At the end of his message, after citing statistics showing the increase in the 1969-70 budget, Hanson states, "The recommended budget . . . thus assures a continuation of the quality and caliber of services that the village government has administered in the past."

"At the same time it provides for expanded services for the coming fiscal year, not only to keep pace with the growth, but to guarantee our present population of continued and improved service at very nearly the same tax rate."

Village trustees will get their opportunity to act as a group on the new budget next Monday at about 8 p.m. A few questions may be raised, but it is expected that passage will be routine.

Course in Trauma Will Hear Lidge

Dr. Ralph T. Lidge, 700 S. Beverly Lane, Arlington Heights, will speak at the postgraduate course in trauma offered by the American College of Surgeons.

The meeting, scheduled for April 16-19, will take place in the John B. Murphy Memorial Auditorium, 50 E. Erie St., Chicago.

DURING THE four-day program 42 speakers will explain fractures, surgical repair and bone grafts.

Lidge, a member of the University of Illinois Medical Center faculty, will talk on complications following supracondylar fractures of the elbow in children.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN SAVE MONEY-THEN SPEND IT and still have MORE left than you saved!

"Sheer, stark poverty prevents many oldsters from doing the things that the 'golden years' are supposed to make possible."

For the past ten years, through our newsletter, It's Your Money, which this Association originated, we have frequently emphasized that a shocking number of Americans are living impoverished lives. We have pointed out that

- The largest single group of poor is that characterized as "aged."
- Four-fifths of single persons over 65 are living on poverty incomes.
- Two-thirds of family heads over 65 have incomes of less than $4,000 annually.
- There are more than 1,000,000 Americans 85 years or older—the fastest growing age group in the nation.
- In the next 40 years, the number of Americans past 65 years will more than double. Those over 75 will triple by the year 2000 (which you will be if you are now in your 40s).

"Poor people are the bulk of the old," writes one authority. "If you weren't poor before you reached your 65th year, you are likely to be so afterward."

Why this condition? If the majority of Americans enjoy the highest living standards in the world, why are three out of four likely to be impoverished after they reach 65? The answer is in one word: improvidence. They are neglecting to take care of future needs.

These charts reveal strikingly how a pattern of saving helps to provide for later years. You save a fixed amount for 15 years. Then you spend the same amount for the next 15 years. For this pattern of deferred spending, you are handsomely rewarded. You still have more money left than you put in!

Thus, by saving $100 per month at, let's say, the age of 50, you will have a total of $26,241.29 in your account at age 65. If you take out $100 every month for the next 15 years (your life expectancy at age 65 will be another 15 years) you will still have a balance of $26,940.16 at age 80 (when you can expect to live an additional 7 years).

Here is the heart of the matter—the provision for later years now, while you are actively employed. The earlier you start, and the more you put away, the richer your rewards.

With our liberal dividends, compounded quarterly, on FSLIC-insured accounts, you have the safest and surest way of guaranteeing the kind of income you seek for the years ahead.

Three School Dist. 59 Candidates Air Views

An examination of viewpoints and platforms of the seven contending candidates for two School Dist. 59 board of education terms concludes today with the last three on the ballot.

Viewpoints of Harold Harvey, William Garvey, Paul Neuhauser and Ernest Rich were presented in earlier issues.

Today the opinions of George Blanchard, Patrick Ordovensky and Harry Stewart are presented.

An eighth candidate, incumbent Albert Dominico is seeking election to a one-year term and is unopposed.

GEORGE BLANCHARD on morale rumors in School Dist. 59: "I don't deal in rumors, only facts. I have an open ear and open mind." (EMA)

'Morale Problem'

Three issues form the base of Patrick Ordovensky's campaign for election to the School Dist. 59 board of education: Morale, communication, and the board's "abdication of responsibility."

According to him, concern that "we might lose some good teachers" because of low morale is the motivation behind his entry into a seven-man race for two seats on the board of education.

"I'm not contending that morale is low throughout the district," he said in an interview. "But enough of the teachers aren't happy. I think this morale problem can be traced directly to the board of education abdicating its responsibility."

WHO IS IN control? "I don't know if the board gave its responsibility to the administration, or if the administration merely filled the vacuum created by the abdication," Ordovensky said quietly.

Nonetheless, he believes that the current school board "accepts any and all ideas from Dr. (Donald) Thomas, and his staff at face value." He cited the current issue of the proposed ombudsman as an example, and used the example to launch an attack on communication, or lack thereof, in the district.

"An ombudsman is just one more barrier," he said, in the area of board-administration communication. The candidate added that the average citizen, and perhaps the board of education is "awestruck" with the education establishment in the district, and felt that they would be just as hesitant to come to an ombudsman.

Citing the current probe into administration costs launched by Forest View School area residents, Ordovensky said, "I'm happy to see it, but the need for their work should never have arisen. The board should have asked questions long ago."

WHAT ABOUT the idea of a partnership between the board and the administration? "There's no partnership. The people, through the state legislature, have authorized themselves to operate public schools through the mechanism of a board of education they elect."

"The board's job is to effect the best possible education for children in the district, and the responsibility to do that rests solely with the board of education. There is no partnership; the board hires an administration, which works for the board."

Is the current board a "rubber stamp" panel? Ordovensky replied that while the term was invented by the press, "I think it's a fair statement."

"Morale problems do exist," he said, contending that the board should look into them. It was his belief that Wayne Little had valid questions to ask prior to his resignation, and Ordovensky hopes to meet with Little and compare morale notes.

The major complaint, he contends, is the "arbitrary manner" in which the administration works, and while declining to divulge details for the time being, mentioned several cases involving Dr. Richard Vlasak, assistant superintendent for instruction.

pals, and problems among school social workers "who are arbitrarily over-ruled to the point that some are considering resigning."

These problems are more serious than district financial affairs, Ordovensky says.

Stewart: Simplify

Unlike other candidates for two three-year terms on the School Dist. 59 board of education, Harry O. Stewart was not available for an interview by Herald reporters.

Stewart, of 1433 Fern Drive, Mount Prospect, believes the communications issue is centered around the use of "big words" when the district deals with the general public. This, he contends, leads to confusion and lack of understanding.

He illustrates his point at candidate forums by noting that a principal is called a "unit director," and a teacher aide is called a "paraprofessional."

Stewart is opposed to an ombudsman, contending it would only serve to create more confusion and serve as a barrier in communication between the board and the public.

Additionally, the candidate has expressed the view that administrative costs are preventing adequate salary increases for teachers, suggesting that spending for administrative use should be curbed.

Stewart is fifth on the ballot.

HARRY STEWART'S opinion of School Dist. 59 administrative cost is that increases eliminate chances for teacher salary hikes.

Blanchard Doesn't Deal in Rumors

Last on the ballot of seven candidates for two School Dist. 59 board of education vacancies is George Blanchard, who wonders if there is anything behind a variety of rumors in the district, but isn't interested in pursuing the matter until the board is presented with evidence.

"I do not deal in rumors," he said, "only facts. But I'm willing to investigate a problem if a problem exists."

Blanchard was talking about alleged low morale in the district, especially among teachers. As a board member, he would like to "feel I can represent the people, listen and promote the wishes of the board and the administration."

As a representative of the Rupley School PTO, Blanchard has been attending board meetings for some time, developing an "extreme interest in the operation of the group.

Would he be willing to probe the feelings of teachers?

"SCHOOL BOARD TO faculty dialogue normally isn't necessary, but when circumstances warrant, yes, I'd be willing to ask questions, either individually or with other members of the board."

The only possible weak link in communications, he thinks, is between the administration and the teaching staff.

In terms of finances, Blanchard feels the use of tax anticipation warrants to the extent practiced by the district is "sound."

"It would be better to work on a cash basis, but it has been a board policy to keep district taxes down. An increase in state aid would help. Illinois is 'low, too low,' in terms of state aid to education. However, part of what we would get from increased state aid should be used to return to a cash operation," he contended.

He wondered if the "turmoil on college and secondary levels" was creeping into elementary education via the rumors in the district. "All of this is backed by the Students for a Democratic Society, a Communist organization. Are they infiltrating here? I don't know. It's pure supposition."

BLANCHARD LISTS THREE criteria for physical plants in order of importance: Safety, educational aid, and comfort, and believes the district should go beyond normal fire safety codes. While the dual use of John Jay School after the Juliette Low fire was "the most expedient way" to handle the unexpected problem, Blanchard is "not satisfied with maintenance in the schools, especially with fire hazards."

The issue of hiring an ombudsman gets neutral stand from Blanchard: "An ombudsman would be helpful, but I'm not sure if it would be $22,000 worth of help. I personally would like to investigate the idea, to avoid creating a buffer zone between the board and the administration. Cost should be planned beyond a one-year trial period; who's going to take a job for just one year?"

Beyond that, Blanchard would like to see someone expert in the field of labor relations rather than education occupying the office of ombudsman.

IN TERMS OF TEACHERS salaries, Blanchard commented "I'm told they are above average in this district," but he declined further comment because of the current salary negotiations underway with the district and the Teachers Council.

He didn't care for the belt-tightening program that resulted from over-hiring last year, "but it happened and we have to accept it. We're making the best of it."

Blanchard believes that some of the attacks on the administration "are overly exaggerated." As a board member, however, he said he could "guarantee there will be no hatchet throwing because someone brings a legitimate complaint to the board. I have an open ear and an open mind."

Dr. King Is Remembered

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the Christian minister and leader of the civil right movement who was assassinated a year ago, left vastly different impressions on residents of the suburban northwest.

To the very young, Dr. King is a figure of the past, if they remember him at all. Parents tell their children how they remembered the man who was both highly praised and criticized during his lifetime.

Teenagers and young adults have a more immediate memory. They remember his marches, the criticism, and they have a sharp recollection of where they were when he was assassinated. They also remember the rioting that followed his death.

A 38-year-old free-lance writer in Mount Prospect has a direct memory of Dr. King. He had lunch with Dr. King and talked privately with him afterwards.

"He was a minister thrust into leadership. His goal was, simply, to be a pastor in a small black church and minister to his people."

PAUL A. SCHREIVOGEL sits in his basement study and looks out at the sun sinking behind a subdivision near Randhurst. His study is filled with pictures, one autographed by Lt. Gov. Paul Simon. A photograph of Dick Gregory is prominent.

"Dr. King was a joy to talk to. He didn't carry airs. He was a man totally at ease."

Schreivogel first met King through his position with the Office of Youth Ministries of the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod. After meeting King, he never felt that the Nobel prize-winner was a "politician," as he has been called.

"He was not a master politician in that negative sense. He knew people, and he had an understanding of communities. He was sensitive in getting people to work together, but he was not a manipulator."

"The man seldom experienced material suffering in early life (King went to college). But he did suffer mental anguish."

"IT WAS THE kind of mental anguish that came out when he had to tell his children they couldn't attend a white amusement park."

Schreivogel, working on books and planning conferences, stresses King's humility.

"The ironic thing is the point at which he dies. He died fighting for garbage workers. He did not die fighting for a great patriotic cause, he died fighting for men who, when they get home, smell so bad their wives won't let them in the house until they take off their shirts and trousers."

King was not a fatalistic man, Schreivogel says. He knew his mission, and he did not back off.

"King was three things: A man, a Christian, and an American. He was Christian in the tradition of the real church, not the institution, which should be fighting evil."

"He was an American in the tradition of Jefferson. When people like Jefferson are dissatisfied, they fight, no matter what the cost."

HE WAS THE leader of the civil rights movement in America for about ten years, and he was killed by an assassin in Memphis a year ago today. He spoke in this area several times, and his name was Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Paul Schreivogel, a Mount Prospect resident, remembers the Nobel peace-prize winner well.

Schreivogel has spent the last few days watching the Eisenhower funeral. He sees a parallel between Eisenhower and King: "Eisenhower was not sentimental, but he believed hate was wrong, but many people admired him for the wrong reasons (as a soldier). He loved, not hated."

A year after King's death, Schreivogel does not see a towering leader like King in the black movement. He says there is jockeying for power. The militants are noisy and important, but they do not have the power.

"I would be presumptuous to say what will happen in the black movement. It's up to the blacks, it's their movement, not for us to interfere. In any revolutionary movement, there are struggles and tensions, and leaders command segments of the movement. We must understand there will be ferment."

HOWEVER, HE sees Rev. Jesse Jackson, the SCLC's Operation Breadbasket leader in Chicago, and Julian Bond, a young Georgian legislator, as men who could become powerful.

Today, Schreivogel will march in the "Hike for Hunger" through the suburban northwest. He never marched before for any cause, but he's looking forward to it.

"I'll have to tell you Friday how I will feel," he smiled. His two children will accompany him for part of the route.

"I'm marching because of youth," he says. "The kids really get me. I'm marching to affirm those kids, the kids of this community."

"It's a demonstration, I think, against hunger of the spirit. The money we will make is just a tiny thing."

Schreivogel says he'll gain a "sense of joy" in marching all or part of the 12 miles. At the same time, he'll remember Dr. King, who participated in so many other marches, under vastly different circumstances.

Ready for 2,000 Marchers in Area

Arlington Heights, one of six communities on today's "Hike for Hunger" route, is prepared for as many as 2,000 marchers.

Police officials told The Herald their main concern will be to move the march as efficiently and as safely as possible through the village.

THE ARLINGTON Heights segment, expected in the village late in the morning or early afternoon, will start at Prospect High School on Kensington Road (the march itself will begin at 9 a.m. in Park Ridge).

The hike will move west on Kensington, north on Dryden, west on Oakton, and north on Highland.

The group will then pause momentarily at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive. It will then continue north on Highland and work its way into Palatine.

South Church Lists Easter Sermon Times

Pastor J. Wesley Babian will lead the Easter sunrise worship service at the South Church in Mount Prospect at 5:30 a.m. followed by a breakfast in the Fellowship Hall.

Rev. Edwin Stevens and Rev. Paul Sandin will speak on "Look for the Living" at the 8:15, 9:30 and 11 a.m. services. The choir will sing a special arrangement for the Easter service.

Mock Meeting Set

The fourth annual Mock Convention of Dist. 37, Illinois PTA, will be held at 7:15 p.m., Monday, at John Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas, Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Charles Green, Mount Prospect, director, will preside at the session assisted by Mrs. Duane Ainlay, Wheeling, legislative assistant. The session, held each year as a learning session for delegates to the Illinois State Convention, is designed to guide the delegates through procedures of voting and introduction of resolutions. Members also participate in discussions concerning resolutions and amendments which will be presented at the state session.

Dr. Donald Strong, superintendent of School Dist. 25, will extend a welcome to the delegates and E. S. Castor, superin-

School Orchestra Tours

by MARILYN RUBEN

Wednesday at 1 p.m., members of a 48-piece orchestra disembarked from a bus in Elk Grove Village. They entered Admiral Byrd School, and waited while students in the third, fourth, and fifth grades filed into the auditorium. When everyone was seated, the conductor raised his baton, and the instruments burst into music.

The Chicago Symphony on tour? Not quite. The program is a second annual attempt by the Grove Junior High Orchestra to attract elementary school instrumentalists into School Dist. 59 musical activities. After similar appearances March 25 at Mark Hopkins, Salt Creek, and Clearmont Schools, the orchestra scheduled repeat performances Monday at Rupley, Ridge, and Grantwood, and held a special concert for parents at Grove Tuesday night.

"We selected the best players in the district for this presentation," said Eugene L. Moulten, music teacher at Grove. The concert program offered opportunities for wind players in the form of "Scarborough Fair," and "March in G" by Henry Purcell; for the string quartet — "Eleanor Rigby," and "Allegro" by Currelli.

SOLOS WERE PLAYED by Bill Smedley, piano, in "Five Pieces for Younger Orchestras" by Bela Bartok, and Howard Schwartz, violin, in "Violin Concertino." The entire orchestra closed with Grieg's composition of "Freddie and His Fiddle," plus "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning."

Moulten is aided in his work with youth by James Middleton, at Lively and Holmes schools, and Pauline Curtis who teaches at Dempster.

This tour was only one of the excellent programs sponsored by the district. There are several ensembles, a chamber orchestra, and performing groups in the fourth and fifth grades of the "feeder schools." The string section of the orchestra is planning a spring concert.

There are 250 string players in the district including elementary school students, said Moulten. "We entered 17 in the local district contests as soloists. Thirteen came in first, three — second, and one — third," he boasted.
